Condition of Edison Cause of Anxiety

Inventor Gradually Growing Weaker in Face of Fight Against a Fourfold Allment

West Orange, N. J.,—Anxiety increased throughout the world as Thomas Edison continued to grow weaker.

Mr. Edison is gradually losing strength, said a leading electrical engineer, "It is impossible to keep him for his life to the end."

Messages of condolence came from far and near, among them cables from Pope Pius XI asking for latest reports on the inventor's condition.

The "Wizard of Menlo Park" during a long lifetime of labor appeared to be ebbing away under the onslaught of a four-fold ailment. He has been suffering from uremic poisoning, gastric ulcers, diabetes and Bright's disease.

The inventor, who has recovered repeatedly from sinking spells to demand a cigar and go out for his habitual drive, seemed to be losing some of his spirit. His nights are restless and in the daytime shows a tendency wholly unlike the robust scientist of former days.

The messages from the vatican recalled the occasion last year when Edison sent a richly decorated doting service of his invention to the pope. Later the pope sent him a gold medal. The vatican messages, signed by Cardinal Pacelli, were sent to Cardinal Hayes and made public here. The first received Saturday, said: "Kindly send information concerning the health of Mr. Edison."

The second, which arrived Sunday said: "The holy father desires further information about the health of Mr. Edison. Please ask the family direct and inform them of the holy father's deep interest in the inventor."

The doctor said he did not expect an emergency in Mr. Edison's condition "in the next one or two days," but disclosed the inventor's mind, once keen and acute, had slipped into a state of "mental grooveiness," and he no longer had much to say.

SPAIN HOLDS AN ELECTION

Madrid—Voters in seventeen Spanish provinces cast ballots for the election of twenty-three deputies to fill vacancies left when assembly members holding seats from more than one district were required to resign, all except one. A government faction claimed a victory in most of the races, the voting was closely watched to determine the extent of opposition to the present regime. Women: granted the suffrage Thursday, did not vote, but participated in the electioneering.

The principal interest was in Madrid, Barcelona, Valencia and Seville, where there was one vacancy each. First returned in the district is victory for Manuel Cosco, left wing candidate, who was opposed by Juan Antonio Pina de Rivera, rightist. The latter ran for a seat in the chamber of deputies in order to defend the policies of his father, the late Gen. D. Rivera, in the election against the attacks of anti-monarchists.

Federation of Labor Makes Its Demands

Shorter Hours and Wage Maintenance to Meet Winter Unemployment Problem.

Vancouver, B. C.—Labor's plan for the relief of unemployment is summed up in seven terse paragraphs in the report of the executive council, made public here.

- 1. National conference of employers and laborers to be called by President Hoover to discuss the means of dividing all available work among all workers.
2. Immediate inauguration of the five day week and shorter work day in all public and private industry.
3. Maintenance of the wage structure and wage standard.
4. Work assurance, a guarantee to the employed that they are secure in their positions.
5. Prohibition of child labor.
6. Stabilization of industry with particular reference to industries classified as seasonal.
7. Scientific stabilization of production to balance supply and demand.

Vancouver—Wage maintenance, shorter work hours and assured employment were demanded by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor to meet winter unemployment, which it estimates at 7,000,000. In its program, placed for approval before the federation convention here, the council said it forecast modification of the Volstead act. It promised to continue its fight for 3.75 percent beer.

First on its legislative program for the coming session, it placed a measure to limit the use of court injunctions in labor disputes. Opposition to a sales tax was voiced along with approval of higher taxes on "Tiger wealth." Philippine independence was favored, as was a federal coal commission to regulate the bituminous-coal industry. Bankers who advocate wage cuts were sternly criticized.

Wage maintenance was described as a lever against further unemployment, but there was no mention of recent wage cuts among several leading industries.

In its program for those out of work the council recognized the need for relief, but made no reference to federal aid in this connection. It said ample provision for the needy should be made in every community "both from private and municipal sources." From a summary of unemployment insurance systems in England and Germany, the council concludes such legislation should be adopted by this country.

Coupled with this, however, went plans at owners and employers of industry for falling to "offer either a plan or a remedy for the 'out of employment'." They would be required to "guarantee the necessary unemployment pays were secured." "It must be work or unemployment insurance," the council said, "asserting much of the trouble in the nation's industrial mechanism was the result of unequal distribution of the nation's income."—State Journal.

Plan Double Funeral for Poison Victims

Two Score of Others Are Recovering at Ceresco—Investigations Continued; No Inquest Held

Ceresco, Neb., Oct. 4.—A double funeral service will be held here Monday for two little girls who died as a result of what physicians believe was acute poisoning, blamed on a church luncheon held last Thursday. Meanwhile nearly two score of other persons who attended the luncheon are recovering from various degrees of illness caused by apparently similar poisoning. All those sick had attended the luncheon or eaten of the food prepared for it.

County Attorney Clyde Worrall is investigating the deaths and plans to continue his inquiry Monday, but said today at Wahoo that an inquest is not expected to be held.

Diagnosis Not Positive. Those who died are Phyllis Runden, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Runden, and Ethel May Johnson, 16 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnson.

Doctors are not positive in their diagnosis of the food poisoning though pointing to the fact that no one other than those at the luncheon has become ill. At first Dr. W. W. Noyes, Ceresco, said he had thought the illness an infection spread otherwise than in food.

Though no food remains for testing, efforts to check on the kind of poisoning by means of blood samples and similar methods have been started.

At Loss for Source. None of the remaining victims is in serious condition. The two who died are the only young children who ate at the food.

The luncheon was one of a weekly series at Covenant Mission church here.

Mullen Says Europe Hits U. S. Tariff Walls

Conditions in England He Describes as "Frightful"—Visited With Ambassador Dawes.

The people of Europe laugh whenever an American traveler makes suggestions about war debt payments, Arthur M. Mullen, democratic national committeeman from Nebraska, observed Sunday, on his return to Omaha from a two-month tour of the Irish Free State, England, Scotland, France and Italy.

"When do you expect us to pay when the United States by a high tariff prohibits our trade with you?" the European invariably responds to the American," Mr. Mullen commented. "If we can't trade with you, I don't know how we can pay you. Anyway, how are you going to collect?"

The Irish are a "happy lot," says Mr. Mullen. He visited in Ireland with Honorable Timothy Smiddy, head of the tariff commission, whom Mr. Mullen knew previously as Washington representative of the Free State. Economic conditions in Ireland are good, unlike England and Scotland, he said.

Visited with Dawes. Conditions in England Mr. Mullen described as "frightful." The attempts to prevent an immediate general election he ascribed to fear of a socialist victory, and depressing effect on the economic situation. His hotel in London was only a block from Downing street, diplomacy center, and for all hours every day milling crowds packed the district. He visited Ambassador Dawes in London.

In Paris, Mr. Mullen met former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, who also returned Sunday to Omaha. Mr. Mullen returned from Naples, by way of Nice and Gibraltar to New York, on the Come Viacchiano (White Winged Count).

Comment on Politics. Everything appears to be democratic in New York, Mr. Mullen says, and he heard more talk of Roosevelt's candidacy than any other. He said that the Missouri congressional election last week betokened also increasing democratic support in the west.

Visiting with Governor Roosevelt, Mr. Mullen says he told him that Governor Bryan also is a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination. Mr. Roosevelt asked Mr. Mullen to convey his kindest regards to the Nebraska governor.
