Death of Emil Stutzenegger at Denver

Long Time South Bend Merchant Is Taken Suddenly Ill While on Way to Los Angeles.

Emil Stutzenegger, 80, for many years owner of the mercantile business at South Bend, now owned by Joe Knecht, died very suddenly Monday night at Denver, Colorado, he having been taken from a train very ill a few hours before.

He came to Nebraska and lived at the pretty little village of South Bend, establishing a business house there that has for a great many years served the people of that community. Omaha Bakeries Win in Suit with City of Fremont

District Court Holds Unconstitutional Section of Occupation Tax Ordinance

The occupation tax ordinance of the city of Fremont, which was formed from the terms agreed upon by city attorneys of the various cities in this part of Nebraska, has been held in the district court of Dodge county for some time, opinion was given yesterday holding the ordinance unconstitutional in part.

The section which was contested was that pertaining to bread trucks and the tax was fought by the P. F. Peterson Co., of Omaha, who sought an injunction to prevent the city from enforcing the ordinance. Judge Fred L. Spear finding for the company and sustaining their contentions.

The section of the ordinance had provided a rate of tax for baking companies who were located in Dodge county and a special classification for outside companies. The tax for the Dodge county baking companies was $5 per year, while on that of the outside companies, the rate was set at $100 per year.

The court held that the rates were discriminatory and unconstitutional in that respect.

The baking companies have had a number of other cases in the state including the city of Plattsmouth, where the rate is $30 per year on the trucking of bread, similar to other trucking taxes.

Death of Mrs. W. B. Virgin at Murray

Long Time Resident of That Community Called to Last Reward—Funeral Saturday

The death of Mrs. Lottie Virgin, 75, occurred at the family home in Murray on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, following a period of failing health that has covered the past ten years, culminating last June in a stroke, the effects of which she failed to recover, altho not bedfast until within a short time of the final summons.

Mrs. Virgin was born January 8, 1856, in Monitor, Indiana, growing to womanhood in that state and where she was married to W. B. Virgin. The family, after several years residence in the home state, came to Nebraska some thirty-eight years ago and located in the vicinity of Murray. Mr. and Mrs. Virgin resided on a farm near Murray, where their family grew to manhood and womanhood. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Virgin moved into Murray to spend declining years and where eight years ago the husband and father was called to the last reward. In their early life, Mr. and Mrs. Virgin were both joined in the Christian church and remained devout members of this faith until death.

There remain of the family three daughters and one son, Mrs. Charles Read, Mrs. Phillip Kell, Mrs. Robert Burr, all of Murray, and O. V. Virgin of Lincoln. There is also surviving six grandchildren, W. B. Virgin of Lincoln, Mrs. Otto Wohlhart of Plattsmouth, Clarence, Albert, Phillip and Owen Kell, all of Murray.

Mrs. Virgin was a lady universally loved by all who had the good fortune to be numbered among her circle of acquaintances, who share with the family the sorrow that the taking away of the mother has occasioned. With the husband, she has been active in the community life of Murray and where she will be greatly missed. In the last ten years her failing health has caused her to cease many of her activities and she has made her home with a daughter, Mrs. Robert Burr.

The funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Christian church at Murray. The latter funeral home of this city will have charge.

Camp Fire Girls

The Awcort campfire guardian gave five interesting Indian symbols Wednesday afternoon at our meeting. She had a magic lantern and when she would turn on a light it would show these different Indian symbols. We had to learn these different symbols and make other symbols out of them. One of the girls are supposed to make five more Indian symbols, and we began at the end of the alphabet.

We decided to dress dolls to sell for Christmas. At the close of the meeting, we sang "Taps."

Former Eagle Resident Recalls Early Day Life

John T. Gaffney Now of New York Recalls Charge of Gun "Totin'" in the Early Nineties.

From Thursday's Daily—John T. Gaffney was in Eagle last week, renewing his acquaintance with the old timers and looking over the scenes of his youth.

Back in the gay nineties, John was a lively youth and was employed on the stock farm of A. W. Woodward, east of Eagle.

The old timers remember John as a lucky, go-easy fellow, full of fun and enjoyed playing practical jokes. In these days a real cowboy had to be able to shoot from the hip, and in this John could qualify, but the law decreed that it was unlawful to carry firearms within the corporate limits of the village. John, overlooking this, was one day arrested by Village Marshal Steve Benton, and had to stand trial for the offense against the dignity of the village, and was convicted in the village court, which compelled him to appeal to the county court at Plattsmouth, where he was able to convince the judge that he was not a member of the James or Dalton gang, and his case was dismissed with the understanding that John was to disarm, at least within the limits of the village. This made John mad and he left the country, forsaking his calling as a cowboy, since, as John figured, a cowboy without a six-shooter, was no cowboy at all, so he drifted eastward, and finally joined the forces of the New York Central R. R. as a fireman, and since the railroad did not object to him carrying and using the one weapon (a scoup shovel) necessary to carry on the work required of him, he stuck to his post, firing engines instead of six-shooters, on about every kind of a train he ever ran on any railroad, and in turn taking his place at the throttle until he is now next the goal of every engineer on the N. Y. C., which is pulling the 20th Century Limited between New York City and Chicago. John has a regular run between Albany, N. Y., and New York City, and has "pulled" the Central as extra engineer many times.

It was a happy return to the old home for John, and his visit was much enjoyed by all the old timers who are left who knew him, as well as the youngsters who knew nothing of the customs of the gay nineties.
