Paul's Letter to Philemon.

Philemon 1:20. This is one of Paul's personal letters to a man known to him, as he had been converted under the instrumentality of the writer. Possibly during Paul's stay at Ephesus. The home of Philemon seems to have been in Laodicea. This letter is also addressed to Philemon's wife, Apphia, and their son, Archippus as to the whole group of Christians, that had their meeting place in his house. The fine character of Paul is brought out in this letter. The man who had the care of all the churches in the foreign field under his supervision, who was deprived of his liberty, being in prison, being in conference with different delegations from different churches, with their difficult problems, could find time to devote to the problem of restoring a runaway slave to his owner. This slave, Onesimus, seems to have stolen from his master and then ran away, drifted in his wanderings to Rome, came under the preaching of Paul, was converted and became a very useful servant of Paul's. Here is the first voice heard up to this time against slavery.

It is quite a difficult matter that Paul undertakes to settle. It required a great deal of wisdom and tact to find the right approach to Philemon. But love finds a way.

How much less friction and trouble there would be in life, if people would act for "love's sake." But listen to Paul, who knows the heart of this rich philanthropic man: "I thank my God, making mention of thee always in my prayers—of thy love and faith." (The preacher and teacher should often talk things over with God regarding their individual charges, their problems and difficulties, that would bring great reward.) Paul does not appeal to sentiment, but to the most essential of all virtues—love. Philemon was known by his charities, first by maintaining a church in his house, then by manifesting his love and faith to all of God's people, third by his godly life he was like a refreshing shower, to all the saints. To such a character Paul will not appeal in vain. Thirty years ago, we hear of Paul as a "young man" (Acts 7:58) now he sees himself as "Paul the aged," possibly sixty years old by this time.

Could Philemon resist a pleading like this "Maybe for a great and good purpose Onesimus had to be enjoying the meeting. They also enjoyed the banquet which followed. Mrs. Ella Barker, the manager of the Murray Telephone Exchange, was enjoying a visit on last Friday and Saturday which included a visit with the mother at Avoca and other relatives at Otoe. While she was away Miss Hatchett was looking after the business at the exchange, and all know that when Miss Hatchett is at the board that all have the best of service as well also do they when Mrs. Barker is in charge.

Home From the Hospital.

Elbert Kell, who received an injury some time since on one of his knees, which necessitated his going to the hospital for an operation, which caused this excellent young man to remain there for several weeks, was able to return home on last Thursday and is making very satisfactory progress towards recovery.

Doing Very Nicely Now.

Mrs. Harry Noell, formerly Miss Lois Scotten, who has been in the hospital at Omaha for some time and where she underwent two operations a week apart, one for gonorrhea and the other for appendicitis. Mrs. Noell has been showing good improvement and was allowed to return home on last Sunday. The father, Mr. J. A. Scotten, went over to Omaha on last Sunday and the daughter returned home with him. While she had been up for a number of days, the trip home was a very tiresome one on account of her weakness. However, she was rejoiced to be home and to see the kiddies as well as her parents and husband.

Mrs. Stones Still Poorly.

Mr. J. W. Stones and son were over to Lincoln on last Sunday, they driving to see the wife and mother, who is in the hospital where she is receiving treatment and observation. The husband and son found the wife

Get Cattle Via Trucks.

The trucks were busy during the latter part of last week in the delivering of feeding cattle to the vicinity of Murray. Among some who received feeders were Wm. Philpot, who received twenty head, Otto Puls received forty-two, while some sixty went to Boedecker and Wehrheln, west, making in all, 122 head. They will immediately put them on feed and give them the very best of care for the returning to the market when they are finished.

Falls from Haymow.

A few days since while Mr. F. E. Scott was working in the haymow, he made a misstep which precipitated him to the floor of the barn many feet below. Mr. Scott had to exercise quick choice just where to light and a number of things kept getting in his way, and impeded his progress and bruised him pretty badly before he found a lodgment on the floor below. He is, however, while very sore from his experience, feeling very thankful that the injuries were not worse than they are. He is getting along but it will be some time before he is himself again.

Murray Home Study Club.

The Study Club met Nov. 18 with Mrs. J. C. Stewart. The meeting was called to order by the president. After roll call and secretary's report, there were much new business. We voted to donate five dollars to the Red Cross, also for each member to donate 50 cents at the next meeting for a fund to be given to our library. At the December meeting each member please bring a can of fruit or vegetables as a Christmas gift to the children's home society.

The music period was very interesting. After singing the monthly song, we were favored with an unusually fine vocal duet by Messrs. Chas. and Edw. Howard. Mrs. Troop then gave one of her readings which each one appreciated.

Mrs. O. A. Davis, the leader, then introduced Mrs. Henry Tool of Mynard who told the many things of Red Cross, especially "First Aid." We hope Murray can get organized for a First Aid class in the near future.

We then had our parliamentary drill which was followed by the delicious lunch served by Mrs. Stewart, assisted by Mesdames W. G. Boedecker and W. O. Troop.

Banning Draws Year in Jail at Milwaukee

Fugitive From Douglas County Jail Will Face Sentence in Wisconsin County.

Herman Banning, who with two other men escaped from the Douglas county jail at Omaha last July 16 and was next heard of definitely when arrested in Milwaukee November 18, was given a term of 34 days in the Milwaukee house of correction Tuesday on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

When Banning is released at Milwaukee, says Sheriff Charles B. McDonald of Omaha, he will face the new charge of jail breaking, and effort will be made to return him to Nebraska to serve sentence. Banning was held at Omaha on a charge of bank robbery at Murdock, but after his escape from jail the real bandits were captured and confessed. However, according to Sheriff McDonald, the jail breaking charge will stand, even though Banning was innocent of the bank robbery.

Harry Bortoff, who escaped with Banning and later was captured near Plair, received a three-year prison term for jail-breaking on September 24. Clyde Lettridge, third of the fugitives who was recaptured at once, is serving three years for banditry and another three years for the jail break.

William Helpley, arrested at Milwaukee with Banning, received a similar term, and two women also taken were given suspended sentences on condition that they leave the state.

NORRIS CONTINUING FIGHT

Washington—Plans for starting toward the white house another Muscle Shoals bill, very like that President Hoover vetoed last session, are gathering momentum. Senator Norris and Representatives Quinn, Democrat, Mississippi, and James, Republican, Michigan, have joined in an effort at final disposal of the $150,- 000,000 project. Either Quinn or James will head the house military committee. The three probably will confer Tuesday.

Government operation of the huge plant on the Tennessee river just across the Alabama line, which has twice failed of presidential approval, again will form the backbone of efforts to settle the twelve year old controversy. Present plans, to be polished at informal conferences, contemplate the introduction of an identical bill in each house. In general, this bill will be virtually the same which President Hoover returned last session without his signature.
