Fight for Smith will Go on with His Knowledge

Canvass for His Support Carried to Vermont—Seabury Not a Candidate.

New York.—A contest for delegates pledged to Alfred E. Smith for the democratic presidential nomination will be made in Vermont, James E. Kennedy, former democratic national committeeman from that state, announced Monday night after a conference with Mr. Smith. Friends of Governor Roosevelt have claimed support for his presidential candidacy in Vermont. There is no presidential primary there, but delegates will be selected at a state democratic convention. Mr. Kennedy told Mr. Smith he has a strong following in Vermont which insists they be given an opportunity to send delegates to the national convention pledged to him. Mr. Smith reiterated his statement that he would not personally make a fight for delegates, but that he would not undertake to stop friends who may wish to do so for him. Among those who engaged in a series of political conferences with Mr. Smith during the day newspapers listed Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, democratic leader of New Jersey; Thomas Spillacy, Connecticut, and John J. Curtain of New Hampshire.

It was intimated that a statement regarding Mr. Smith's activities might be issued shortly from a New England political leader friendly to the 1928 standard bearer as a prospective presidential candidate again this year.

Disclaiming any personal political ambitions, Samuel Seabury branded as "ridiculous denunciations" interpretations placed on his Cincinnati speech as a bid for nomination to high office. The address, he said he hoped, would aid in bringing about an understanding of the work of the Holstadter legislative committee, of which he is chief counsel, is doing.

"What I want to do," he said, "is to stick to this job here and that's what I'm going to do. It is very necessary that the public not only in New York but elsewhere understand what the investigation here is accomplishing."

Seabury, investigating the city government planned to question Mayor James Walker and John F. Curry, leader of Tammany hall, at public sessions of the committee.

Bennington, Vt.—Fred C. Martin, member of the Vermont state democratic committee, said he did not believe a state of delegates pledged to Alfred E. Smith could be obtained in Vermont. Commenting on the announcement made in New York by James E. Kennedy, Martin said: "I don't believe Kennedy can secure a single delegate for Smith in Vermont."—State Journal.
