COUNTY AID FOR SOLDIERS

The rights of needy ex-service men to receive aid from counties is defined and upheld in an opinion by Attorney General Sorenson to a resident of Alma.

"If your county is not performing its legal duty in caring for needy ex-service men," says the attorney general, "I suggest that you call the matter to the attention of the officers of some of your local veterans' organizations, such as the American Legion or Veterans of Foreign Wars, and I believe with their help you will secure the necessary assistance. I suggest also that you consult your county attorney about the legal phases of the matter."

"If your county is following the plan herein outlined it is doing all that the law requires in the way of aid to ex-service men as the law does not require public officers to give a preference to ex-service men in hiring employees nor does it specifically prohibit discrimination against them, although it is hard to imagine a public officer so lacking in patriotism and in feeling of gratitude toward defenders of his country that he would willfully discriminate against them merely because they are ex-service men."

The opinion states that under the law the county board is required to appoint a soldier relief commission consisting of three men who have been honorably discharged from the military service of the United States. On the second Monday in February this commission meets at the office of the county clerk and whenever necessary and makes a list of persons and fixes the amount of each person is to receive and estimates the probable amount of funds needed. The county board in June shall make a levy to raise the amount, not to exceed three-tenths of a mill per dollar valuation of taxable property in the county. After the fund is ready for distribution the county clerk shall issue monthly warrants for the amounts awarded.

RAN INTO SNOW STORM

Mrs. Leland Briggs, Mrs. Guy Miller and Fred Kunzmann, father of Mrs. Miller, had an experience with bad weather conditions Thursday as they were coming by airplane from Winner, South Dakota, to this city. The plane struck a snow storm near Creighton and at one time had to go 4,000 feet up to get out of the snow and clouds.

Mr. Kunzmann had difficulty in standing the high altitude and it was necessary to bring the plane to a lower level to relieve him. The party finally drove out of the storm and had fine sunny weather for the remainder of the way into Omaha. The party landed at the Omaha airport from where Mrs. Briggs and Mr. Kunzmann came on to this city, while Mrs. Miller was taken to Excelsior Springs, Missouri, in the plane. She will visit there with relatives for a short time. The plane was taken back at once to Excelsior Springs for Mrs. Miller.

Henry Ford denies he is contemplating selling cars on ridiculously small down payments and long term finance. He says paying cash for the car is the ideal way from the purchaser's as well as the seller's standpoint, but that in any event a year is long enough time for any man to take to pay for his car.

Says Roosevelt Star is in the Ascendant

Chairman Farley Still Counts on the Nomination of New York Governor on First Ballot

New York, March 17.—On his return from political conferences in Michigan, James A. Farley, democratic state chairman, said he was more convinced than ever that Governor Roosevelt will win the democratic presidential nomination on the first ballot. He said he had been assured by William Comstock, Michigan democratic leader, that the state will be for the New York governor. Elated over Roosevelt's victory in North Dakota, Farley said he was looking forward to the next tests, on March 29, in Maine and Iowa, when state conventions choose delegates. He said some sentiment for former Governor Smith might develop in the Maine convention, but said he was confident of the outcome.

Boston, March 17.—The name of J. C. Joseph Flammang, French consul at Boston, was withdrawn from the Roosevelt pledged slate to be entered in the Massachusetts primary for the selection of delegates to the democratic convention. Announcement of the withdrawal was made by Mayor Curley, leader of the Roosevelt supporters, who indicated a protest against the candidacy of Flammang had been lodged with the French embassy at Washington.

Flammang's successor on the slate was not announced.

Nashville, March 17.—Supporters of Governor Roosevelt's campaign for the democratic presidential nomination advised him that he "will have the full delegation from Tennessee with no opposition." That assurance was given in a telegram sent from state headquarters of the Roosevelt forces and signed by former Governor McMillin, chairman of the state Roosevelt committee and Mrs. Lyon Childress, chairman of the women's committee.

Albany, March 17.—The Franklin D. Roosevelts were married twenty-seven years ago. They celebrated their anniversary very quietly at the executive mansion after the governor had put in a long day at his desk signing and vetoing bills. Franklin, Jr., was the only one of the children home.

Tallahassee, March 17.—Governor Murray qualified with Secretary of State Gray as a candidate in the Florida democratic preferential primary of June 7. Governor Murray was the first presidential candidate to qualify. He is scheduled to open his Florida campaign here next Wednesday.—State Journal.

Mrs. Robert G. Reed of this city has received a message from Mr. Reed, who was injured Sunday in an auto wreck at Gallup, New Mexico. Mr. Reed was not injured as severely as was reported in the first message, his leg fortunately not being broken, although he suffered a broken arm at the socket and several very severe cuts on the face and body as the result of being hurled through the windshield of his car. He is being cared for at the hospital until he is able to travel and return home to this city. His companion, Mr. Massie, has not suffered any dangerous injuries and will be able to return to his home in Denver. The many friends of Mr. Reed will be well pleased to learn that his injuries were not as severe as first reported and the prospects are excellent that he will be able in a very short time to resume his activities although it will be several weeks before he is over the effects of the broken arm.

PREPARE FOR MINSTREL

From Thursday's Daily
The American Legion community building is a busy place now, the members of the post versed in the use of the hammer and saw, being engaged in the task of building the stage in the structure.

This stage which is to have its initial use for the Legion minstrel to be held very soon, is being erected at the north portion of the building. One of the steel pillars that supports the roof has been removed and gives ample room for the erection of the stage which will be of good size, and ample for small entertainments.

The stage is made so that it can be dismantled when not in active use, and will make a fine addition to the facilities of the building for any use that may be desired.

With the stage located as it will be, ample dressing rooms can be arranged in the small rooms at the north of the building, available for the use of any entertainment that may be staged in the building.

Iowa Bank Robbers Draw Life Terms at Clinton

Thirty-Six Hours After Robbing Bank of $106,000 Men Are Sentenced to State Prison.

Clinton, Ia., March 16. Less than thirty hours after they robbed the City National bank here of $106,000 Tuesday, four young men were sentenced Wednesday to life imprisonment at Anamosa.

They pleaded guilty in district court and Judge E. P. Barker passed sentence immediately.

The four were to be taken to Anamosa some time Wednesday. They are Clifford Edwards, 22; Clinton; Earl Jefferies, 10; Lester Stanley, 29, and Guy Edward Morris, 19; all of Louisville, Ky.

They declared they planned the robbery in Louisville and arrived in Clinton Monday, spending the day in looking over the bank. Early Tuesday they waited outside the bank until the arrival of Clyde Willets, janitor, who was forced to admit them. Then as employees and customers, 38 in all, arrived they were bound and placed in a rear room.

When the time looted the bank vault released, J. H. Nissen, assistant cashier, was unbound and forced to open an inner vault, from which the robbers scooped the currency into a pillow slip and departed.

They said they changed clothes at the farm home of E. R. Hill, an uncle of Edwards, and left Stanley there because he had cut himself severely in releasing one of the captives. The remaining three continued to Bettendorf and Davenport, where they were captured.

With the finding of $5,000 in a wash boiler by the side of the road near Camanche, all but $80 of the loot had been recovered.

Authorities were attempting to connect the bandit gang with other bank robberies in Iowa and southern Illinois.

CHANGE IN K. C. POLICE

Kansas City, Mo.—City officials on March 25 will assume control of Kansas City's metropolitan police force for the first time in thirty-three years. Home rule of the law enforcement body was made possible by a decision of the Missouri supreme court, declaring unconstitutional the law under which the governor of Missouri for years has directed Kansas City police activities thru appointment of the police commission board.

The decision took control of the police force from the republicans and gave it to the democrats. City Manager H. F. McElroy and the Kansas City council are democratic. Governor Henry S. Caulfield and his appointees are republican. Drastic shakeup of the entire force, composed largely of republicans, was predicted. McElroy, however, ordered Police Chief Lewis M. Siegrist to remain at his post temporarily.

AN ANTICRIME CONVENTION

Washington.—President Hoover was informed the national crime commission, seeking new methods of combatting underworld activities, was planning a national anti-crime convention here either this spring or next fall. J. Weston Allen of Boston, chairman of the commission, said the president expressed interest in such a convention. Allen said prosecuting attorneys, police authorities and deans of law schools from all parts of the country would be invited and that all phases of crime and its prevention and prosecution would be considered.

Stamp Men See Point for Doubt in Postal Laws

Ban on Reproductions in Catalogues, They Think Open to Question.

Washington.—The American Philatelic Society, representing principal stamp collectors in the United States, has determined to find out whether the stringent restrictions on illustrations of postage and revenue stamps imposed by law are absurd or whether they actually contribute to the protection of these "securities" of the United States against forgery.

The problem has been referred to a stamp illustration committee, designated by Mr. Clarence Hennan, president of the society. It is composed of Col. C. S. Hamilton of the General Staff of the United States Army, possessor of the premier specialized collections of stamps of Mexico; Col. Spencer Cosby, U. S. A., retired, a specialist in early issues of Italy and France and other Mediterranean states, and Mr. Mayo Dudley, journalist, collector of the stamps of Hawaii and Chinese treaty ports.

Illustrations of United States stamps except details of the border and frame, is now absolutely prohibited by provisions of the federal penal code. Illustrations of foreign stamps are permitted in black and white if the plates from which the prints are made are defaced. Importations of foreign stamp catalogues, albums and other publications in which the illustrations of stamps do not conform to these rulings are barred from entry into the United States. And only those catalogues made especially for the American buyer at great additional expense do conform, it is pointed out.

"Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany and other foreign governments impose no such restrictions and some of the illustrations of stamps made abroad and appearing in the highest class publications imitate all the colors of the original stamps without coming under suspicion of being intentional forgeries subject to prosecution," the society says.

The philatelists assert that all important details of forgeries of American and foreign stamps have been made by stamp collectors and not by law enforcement agencies of the United States or other governments.

Since they contribute thousands of dollars annually to the postal revenues for which there is a postal service, the stamp collectors are one of the few sources of profit to the Post Office Department. A reasonable proposal for modifying the law governing illustrations of postage stamps, they believe, is sent to serious governmental consideration.

LANDS BILL SUPPORTED

Washington.—Chairman Garfield and Francis Wilson of President Hoover's public lands commission urged before the house public land committee passage of the Evans bill for transfer of the public domain to the states. Based on the extended studies of Garfield's group, the measure would provide a ten year period in which the states could decide on the alternate plans of taking over surface rights of their lands or asking establishment thereon of a national range.

Out of "extreme conflict of opinion," Garfield said, a basic agreement on principle had been reached. He advocated the bill, therefore, as the incorporation of "the most painstaking study by men directly interested—men representative of all the public land states."
