Lindbergh Puts Faith in Aid by Private Agents

Officers Are Kept from Guarded Conferences at Hopewell—Statement Repudiated.

Hopewell.—While state police and city detectives were wearily tracking down every vague tip that cropped up in the seventeen day old Lindbergh kidnaping case, there were indications Friday night Colonel Lindbergh himself still is pinning a hope on the activity of his confidential agents. In his closely guarded home frequent conferences have been held this week between Col. Henry Breckinridge, Lindbergh's counsel and close friend; John J. Fogarty, crack New York detective brought into the case by Breckinridge; and Morris Rosner, undercover emissary for the famous flier.

The colonel himself has presided at all of them. Authorities directing the official search for the kidnapers have been barred. Rosner has been making frequent trips to points a considerable distance from the estate, but he returns at least daily to make reports.

These facts were learned Friday night as a fresh batch of clues seemed to be leading the official investigators where all others have led—into blind alleys. After police in Pocatello, Ida., had quoted a burglary suspect as saying he drove the kidnaping car, and after a Newark, N. J., police official had questioned the man by telephone, two Newark detectives were sent to Idaho to investigate that new lead.

Statement Repudiated.

But while they were on their way west, the prisoner, Ignace Blaustein of Brooklyn, repudiated the statement and told a third version of his knowledge of the case. When he was arrested for robbing a fraternity house he said he had not heard of the kidnaping until he reached Weber, Utah.

A new theory was projected when Baltimore police said two Newark detectives had been there working on a tip the kidnaped baby was in the hands of a couple who had substituted it for their own child. They said they believed the parents' real child, resembling Charles Lindbergh, Jr., may have been taken to Europe on the Baltimore mail liner City of Baltimore, which left for Havre the day after the abduction.

Their theory is that by switching the two infants in this fashion, the Lindbergh child could be held by the couple without arousing suspicion.—State Journal.

FUGITIVE YOUTH RETURNED

From Friday's Daily
Elmer Miller, Union youth, who escaped from the Otoe county jail November 9 with Otto Luther, Merle Davis and Adolph Knisely, after wandering about the country for more than four months, is again a prisoner in the Nebraska City jail. He was returned late Thursday from Hartington, Neb., where he had surrendered to the sheriff of Cedar county late Tuesday, stating he was wanted in Otoe county for jail breaking.

At the time of his escape Miller was being held for violating his parole to Sheriff Carl Ryder by Judge James T. Begley of the district court.

November 9, last, Otto Luther, charged with forgery, Merle Davis, held on an assault charge, Adolph Knisely, who had escaped from the feeble minded institution at Beatrice and Miller escaped from the county jail by sawing the bars to a window on the south side of the jail.

Luther was apprehended in California about five weeks later and returned and upon his pleading guilty to jail breaking and forgery, was sentenced to serve seven years in the state penitentiary and is there at present. Davis, it is believed has joined the United States navy while nothing has been heard from Knisely.

No great effort was made on the part of Sheriff Ryder for the capture of Miller, Davis and Knisely, as they were being held only on minor charges.

Young Miller attended high school in Nebraska City for a time last fall. His father lives near Union on a farm in Otoe county. He has been in trouble several times during the past few years and was once sent to the Father Flanagan home near Omaha from which he escaped.

MRS. SELLS RETURNS HOME

From Friday's Daily

While the mother was kept in an oxygen tent for her illness, the babe was kept in an incubator for several weeks.

A ST. PATRICK MEETING

The Social Workers' Flower club met Wednesday at the beautiful country home of Miss Helen Johnson. This meeting was in keeping with St. Patrick Day and for the occasion. All members came dressed in the old Irish costumes with green as the predominating color.

As this was an all day meeting each one brought a covered dish and "depression" was forgotten for a day by the looks of their table. The table was beautifully decorated in green and white. At each end were two huge green candles in an Irish potato, as a candle holder, and with the array of all the "good eats," it certainly looked lovely.

After all did justice to the dinner, their regular business meeting was held. It was decided to hold a bake sale March 26th and this will certainly be an opportunity for the people to buy some good things to eat for their Easter dinner. Two delegates, Mrs. Creamer and Mrs. Stamp were chosen to attend the extension work meeting on "Better Gardens."

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Mike Kaffenberger, and all members are urged to be present.

PLEASANT RIDGE CLUB

The Pleasant Ridge Project club held their achievement program Friday evening, March 9th, at the Pleasant Ridge school house. The members and their families were treated to an oyster stew supper which had been prepared by Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Renner and Mrs. Zimmerman.

After the remains of the feast had been cleared away, Earl Iske and Dave Rutherford, the leaders of the evening gave "Suggestions for Mixing and Applying Paint." They also demonstrated the composition of good and poor paint.

Christie and Arlene Zimmerman favored with several songs which were greatly appreciated.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards. The first prizes were awarded to Mrs. Fred Gunther and Hugo Meisinger, while the consolation prizes went to Hilda Frederick and Dave Rutherford.

HAVE INTERESTING MEETING

Increasing interest is shown in the Wednesday night meetings at the Presbyterian church.

Last week Miss Olive Gass gave a splendid talk on the migrant work in America, showing how the church was taken to the groups of people who follow a roving occupation such as those of our large canning industries, cranberry fields, lumber and logging camps.

Pictures were shown of the schools and hospitals maintained by the women of the Presbyterian church in Alaska, the United States and the West Indies. These pictures were explained by Mrs. McClusky.

Last night the gathering was unusually large. After the social hour the young people of the church rendered two clever one-act plays, "Farming Eden" and "The Clinic of a Church Specialist." These were well rendered and enjoyed by all.

The high school boys' quartet sang, and Miss Anna Margaret McCarty played a pleasing piano solo.

Next week the men of the church take charge of the program and supper. Unless some of them inveigle a helpmate or two into assistance, it promises to be a recreation evening for the women of the church.

HOLD ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

From Thursday's Daily
The Mynard Homemakers Extension club held their achievement day program on Friday evening, March 11th at the Mynard community building. The meeting was well attended and filed with the greatest of interest for all.

The members of the group had the pleasure of two very fine violin selections by Willis Cole, one of the talented young musicians of the community and two dramatic readings by Miss Helene Perry, whose delightful presentations are a feature of any program.

The use of paint in the improvement of the farmstead was presented by Towner Livingston and Jean Spangler, the young men giving demonstrations of the use of paint in the improvement of the home and also discussion of various sizes and makes of brushes to be used in painting as well as the paints that can be used to the best advantage.
