Democratic Candidates for City Offices

Excellent Array of Candidates from Mayor to Councilmen Seek Suffrage of Voters.

From Saturday's Daily

The democratic city ticket which is offered for the consideration of the voters of Plattsmouth on next Tuesday is one that is composed of men who have been active in the community for many years. They are men who are not only residents here for years but have property and business interests here, an assurance that they will do their utmost to safeguard the best interests of the city of which they are a part. If elected they can be depended on to safeguard in every way your interests and their own as taxpayers of the city.

For Mayor

John P. Sattler, the present mayor, is a candidate for re-election to the office. Mr. Sattler is so well known that he needs but little introduction as he has been in public life for many years. It was Mr. Sattler who first introduced the creation of a sinking fund to care for the indebtedness of the city back in 1909. In his present term he has restricted the city expenditures to the lowest figure, urging on the city government the strictest economy to build up the funds of the city. With his election comes the assurance of a safe and reliable conduct of the city affairs.

For City Clerk

Herman L. Thomas, the candidate for city clerk, is the present occupant of the office, now serving his second term. Mr. Thomas is the owner of real estate here and has resided here for a long period of years. He is the agent of the Missouri Pacific railroad at this point. In the discharge of his office he has been efficient in his work and one who has striven to give the persons having business in his office every possible aid. He has always worked for the best interests of the city and its people and will continue to do so if elected. The city records of which he has charge are always open for the inspection of the people at his office if they desire to look them over for any matter in which they may be interested, the law requiring that he keep charge of these records and not allow them to leave his office, but there they are accessible to anyone. The re-election of Mr. Thomas is the reward of a faithful public servant.

For City Treasurer

Maldon D. Brown, the candidate for city treasurer, is a native son of this city and where he has grown to manhood and received his education in the local schools. He is one of the business men of the community being engaged in the conduct of a jewelry store on North Sixth street. Mr. Brown is a world war veteran, enlisting here in June, 1917, in the Sixth Nebraska infantry and serving in this country and France until the spring of 1919. He is amply qualified for the office he is seeking and if elected will give the citizens an able and efficient administration of the office. Mr. Brown is the finance officer of the local American Legion post and has given an able administration of that office.

For Police Judge

Charles L. Graves is the candidate of both parties for the office of police judge and is the present occupant of the office which he has filled with great credit to himself and the people of the community.

Councilman First Ward

John Bergman is the democratic candidate for councilman in the first ward. He is a lifetime resident of Cass county and for many years was engaged in farming, moving here several years ago to make his home. He is a man of fine personal character and rugged honesty and his election will bring a faithful worker in the interest of the public welfare to the council.

Councilman 2nd Ward

Warren Tulene, the present councilman in the second ward is the democratic candidate for re-election. Mr. Tulene has been a resident of the west part of the city for many years and is the only representative of that section of the city in the council. He is an able and efficient member of the council and has given an excellent service to the city in the discharge of his office. His re-election will assure the second ward of a live and active representative in the council.

Councilman Third Ward

Frank A. Rebal is the democratic candidate for the council in the third ward, one of the well known property owners of the ward. This is Mr. Rebal's initial appearance in political activity and if elected he will bring to the council an efficient member. Mr. Rebal is engaged in working with the BREX company in their shops. His election will assure the third ward of a faithful and earnest worker for the best interests of the city.

Councilman Fourth Ward

In the fourth ward C. A. Johnson, veteran figure in the affairs of the city is the democratic candidate. Mr. Johnson has served the city as mayor for several terms as well as many years in the city council, giving the people of Plattsmouth real service in safeguarding their interests. Mr. Johnson is the president of the Plattsmouth Loan & Building association and has a real interest in the development and success of the city. The re-election of Mr. Johnson will be the reward of a faithful public servant.

Councilman Fifth Ward

Adam Marshall is the democratic candidate in the fifth ward and like Mr. Rebal is one of the new figures in the political life of the community. He is an employee of the BREX and is a man, who if elected, will give his ward as well as the entire city a splendid service and safeguard the interests of the people.

The event was observed the first part of this week and was in the nature of a surprise arranged by the seven children of the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Walker were married at Richmond, Missouri, fifty years ago and spent the greater part of their wedded life in Worth county, Missouri, where they were engaged in farming. One Town's Experience is a Warning

Bread "War" in Hamburg, Iowa, Responsible for Closing Bakeries—Way to Solve Problem

By ELMER A. WEBB,
C. of C. Pub. Com.

Plattsmouth made goods for Plattsmouth consumers! That is the slogan of the Industries committee of the Chamber of Commerce in the interest of creating bigger and better pay-rolls here at home—giving work to Plattsmouth people, who will become correspondingly larger consumers as their increased salaries permit.

The problem of getting Plattsmouth people Plattsmouth minded when it comes to the purchase of things made in Plattsmouth is an educational one in its entirety, since most people, once they understand they are "cutting their own noses off" by such practice are ready and willing to co-operate.

The experience of one Iowa town, Hamburg, is enlightening, and is given in the following article from this week's issue of the Hamburg Reporter:

"The bread war which has been going on the past ten days between a bakery in Omaha and one in St. Joe, has resulted in a lot of cheap bread for customers of out of town concerns and the closing of one of our local bakeries, and the possibility of the other one closing up its shop and throwing a few more people out of employment.

"For months an Omaha concern has been selling bread and pastry in Hamburg, which reduced the working force of the bakeries, and when the second out-of-town concern attempted to enter the field, the company had competition to meet and as a result bread has been selling at about half price.

"Saturday night Pinkey's Bakery closed down, and Mr. Bronson states that he does not know whether he will be able to open his shop again. Louie Jensen is continuing his bake shop for the present at least, and says he will be governed by the demand of the people. Both firms are heavy tax payers, have always taken an active part in the civic affairs of the town, and employ considerable help. Should conditions continue as at present these men will lose their investment in equipment, cease to employ Hamburg help and reduce materially the amount of taxes which they pay, which in turn will of necessity be spread among the remaining tax payers of the town and community.

"This is a condition confronted by many towns and is being met in various ways. For years country merchants have been in competition with various house to house canvassers, especially in the tea and coffee, silk hose and similar lines, part of whom pay a small license fee, and many of whom 'slip through' and are out of town before the license money can be collected or the itinerant agent picked up by the police to face charges of violating the occupation tax ordinance.

"Hamburg is no different than hundreds of towns of its size all over the country, and if the people prefer to trade with strangers, who take all the money out of town and contribute nothing to the town and community, aside from a small license fee, then they can expect their towns to dwindle in size and importance, and in many instances get down to an oil station and sandwich shop."

How long has it been since you have tried a loaf of Plattsmouth-made bread, Mr. Confirmed Omaha Bread Eater? For your benefit, let us say there are two home bakeries making a fine quality of bread and if you would give them united support it would be easy to figure how many more men could be put to work turning out bread right here at home.

Or do you want the same thing to happen here that is happening at Hamburg, Iowa?

Legislation and the setting up of a high tariff wall will not prevent people from demanding foreign made goods, neither will efforts to keep the outside bread trucks from delivering their goods here attain the result that housewives could bring about by realizing the possibilities of increased employment home consumption mean in the case of this and all the other lines of goods produced in Plattsmouth, followed by the putting into practice of the buy-at-home plan.

Try a loaf of Plattsmouth-made bread, as it is now being produced by our two up-to-date bakeries, and if you don't agree it is as good as the imported product, then there is some excuse for continuing to buy outside bread. We believe, however, if the wrappers were removed and an honest test made, the preference would be in favor of the home made bread, and that being the case, it would certainly behoove every local purchaser of this commodity to favor the home producer.

The solution of this problem lies almost wholly with the housewives of Plattsmouth. While the man may be the bread-winner, the housewife is the bread dispenser, and she can make or break our local bakeries.

The merchant naturally handles the bread his customers demand. If the housewives of Plattsmouth will demand Plattsmouth made bread, these bakers would soon put on more help to take care of the increased demand and, no doubt, add more equipment. It is in your hands, what do you say?

(Note—Outside insurance agents are coming in here daily to solicit business (even getting considerable) despite the fact that Plattsmouth has a goodly number of reliable home insurance agencies, and in an article in a near future we shall attempt to point out the great advantage of buying your insurance at home.)
