Joseph Stewart, the shoemaker and the family, were enjoying the air races at Omaha on both Sunday and Monday, but says, and we agree with him, that the Weeping Water fair beats it by cards and spades. For the Cass county fair is sure a good place to come. Remember and seek the dates in mind of the meeting this fall, early in September.

May Return to Weeping Water.

Mr. John Wade, who went some weeks since to the I. O. O. F. Home at York, seems to feel that he would rather be at home and under the care of his faithful wife who has cared for him during his long illness than to be there and it may be that he will return home soon. The I. O. O. F. have been very kind and seek to do everything possible for their brother and are ever ready to do their part for not one but all their members.

Celebrated Passage of Anniversary

On last Sunday was the passing of the 25th or silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Carper, Mrs. Carper formerly being Miss Lois Hillman. They make their home northwest of town on a farm and some 92 of their friends gathered on Sunday and appropriately celebrated the passing of the event. A most sumptuous dinner was served and which was brought by the friends in attendance. Games were played by the young folks and the older ones visiting and thus the afternoon was most pleasantly spent. When the shades of evening fell they all departed, extending to the happy couple the best wishes for many such events and for a long and happy life.

Very Historical Window.

In the window of C. H. Gibson appeared a copy of the New York Ledger of the date April 15th, 1865, and in which was an account of the assassination of President Lincoln, which occurred on the evening of April 14, 1865 and also telling of the escape temporarily of John Wilkes Booth, the man who shot the president and also which told of the great excitement which prevailed at the time. With other historical settings the window made a most attractive one. The paper also told of the attempt to murder Secretary Stewart by stabbing him with a dagger.

Week Day Attraction for Traders

Weeping Water and its merchants are spending much care and money as well, in the preparation of the entertainment for the people of the town and the surrounding territory, for they are putting on one of the very finest concerts Thursday evening. One special feature was on for the first evening when the little son of Buff Herman Duane gave a cornet solo, and which was so greatly enjoyed. Look for other specials at the concerts which are to follow, and on Saturday there is to be specials put on by the merchants which will be most attractive in the line of saving money for those who desire to make purchases of goods. Keep these two days in the week in mind and it will pay you both in the way of amusement and a saving in purchases as well.

Most Commendable Move.

The American Legion and the community of Weeping Water, have secured a full block of good ground east of the Central school building on the south side which they have had plowed and also have secured seed and the space is being allotted to those who have no employment or any place for a garden, to grow what they can for their use for their tables. This is a most commendable move on the part of the Legion and community.

Returned Home Monday.
