

The Plattsouth Journal

PUBLISHED SEMI-WEEKLY AT PLATTSMOUTH, NEBRASKA Entered at Postoffice, Plattsouth, Neb., as second-class mail matter

R. A. BATES, Publisher

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE $2.00 A YEAR IN FIRST POSTAL ZONE Subscribers living in Second Postal Zone, $2.50 per year. Beyond 600 miles, $3.00 per year. Rate to Canada and foreign countries, $3.50 per year. All subscriptions are payable strictly in advance.

America's boom should have been equipped with a parachute.

It seems that the crying need of the Democrats is a good referee.

How can saloons come back if gas stations and drug stores have all the corners?

Unemployment seems to be the condition of being unrelated to a public office.

It was necessary to have all those pools in Wall Street in order to catch the poor suckers.

Say what you will against politics, but there's less unemployment there than in any other industry.

When your tonsils and teeth are gone, there isn't much else the specialist can pull except your leg.

The reason former men of wealth aren't upheld as wise men any more is because their money has quit talking.

It's hard to teach an old dog new tricks and it's absolutely impossible to make him forget some of the old ones.

There is only one thing that would be worse than taxation without representation, and that is taxation without money.

At last this country has arrived at equal division of capital and labor. Nobody can find any work and nobody has any money.

There are said to be 600 different kinds of headaches. Try to live so that you don't get up on Sunday morning with 550 of them.

Commenting on the low price of clothes, one woman said to another, "Did you ever see anything like it. You can buy clothes for a song?" "Yes," said the other sadly, "but I can't even sing."

We trust that the circus people, for their own good, will never forsake horses. Since fire departments have been motorized, small boys walk past them with as much unconcern as if they were ordinary garages.

It appears that there is a great rush for politics this year, in which people are taking part who never fooled with politics before. Perhaps they have discovered one big difference between politics and the stock market. In the stock market one must buy his own chips. In politics he can play a stock bought for him by the taxpayers.

Mother of 7—Still Young

THIS woman who gives her organs the right stimulant need not worry about growing old. Her system doesn't stagnate; her face doesn't age. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong, active bowels.

When you're sluggish and the system needs help, don't take a lot of "patent medicines." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh, creative herbs, active senna, and pure pep. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's Senna Pepsin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement.

The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a swollen complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary!

Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time building health and vigor that protects you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a big bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepster today. Use often enough to keep those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and rundown, or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need to be stimulated. Give it to children instead of strong laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.

Records found by Harvard scientists indicate that in ancient Babylon men often gave up their wives for debt. This of course resulted in an extended inflation of credit which doubtless hastened Babylon's fall.

Comment on Paving of O Street Highway

(As Voiced by the Nebraska City News-Press)

Otoeans are glad to know that Highway No. 2 (Dunbar-Syracuse-Palmyra road) is to be improved, but they are rather "nervous" over the announcement that No. 24—Lincoln to Union—is to be paved eastward toward Eagle, where a "cut-off" road runs down toward Palmyra to intersect No. 2. No paving has been scheduled for No. 2, our own county road, although the highway program announced late last week does call for oil surfacing of the road as far east as the Bennett corner, which is four miles west of the Otoe county line.

There has been hope, not only here, but in every town in the county, that paving might be laid on No. 2 this year, as long as road construction work is to be done to the extent of nearly $2,000,000 for the first projected program. Indeed, there has been more or less hope that the paving might eventually run from the state capital right straight through to the river. However, the O street highway seems to have the "first call" insofar as this first big building program is concerned.

Not that paving O street will be anything but beneficial to this territory, and there is no rampant jealousy or ill-feeling about the decision to pave from the end of the paving at Lincoln to Eagle. O street is a popular road, even for the people who dwell far to the south of it. It is pointed to as a "bee-line" highway, which, in its present condition is rather unsafe on account of its numerous narrow bridges. But the Otoe county road is also much-used, carries a heavy traffic of trucks and splits a good farming territory. Otoe county people are likely to be disappointed because it cannot be permanently improved as quickly as possible.

Road men, too, are not particularly well satisfied with oil surfacing on a gravel base. They say it will not last any length of time, soon shows signs of deterioration and is expensive to maintain in the face of heavy vehicles rolling over it. Some people call it macadamized paving, but it is not. Macadam is underlain with stone to a depth of several inches, treated with asphalt or some similar substance and stands up under the pounding of the wheels.

WORLD STILL SAFE WITH ATOM SPLIT

Today in Japan, as during the last 1,500 years, a marriage ceremony consists of the passing of a cup of wine eighteen times between the bride and groom.

Golfers used to be out on the course before dawn, to get an early start. When you see them on the course that early these days, they are looking for golf-balls.

Variety tells of an actor who boasted that his new car would do ninety miles an hour. "Yeah," replied a listener, "if it does the chance company has one that will go 110."

"The strawberries this year," says a woman in our block who is contrary by nature, "have been so fine and so plentiful and so cheap that I just haven't cared much about having them."

We have been terribly depressed and blue the past few days and can't figure out the reason unless it is because it has now become apparent that members of congress will be compelled to cut their own salaries. That move is certainly tragic and we are all upset about it.

We can remember when they used to criticize Jimmy Walker for not spending more of his time in the city of which he was mayor. It now seems fortunate that he traveled so broadly as he did. Otherwise his friends with low generosity-resistance would all be in the poorhouse by this time.

It was with great concern, therefore, that we learned recently that two young physicians in London had erected an atom-splitting apparatus and were about ready to put it into action. Even the baseball fan could not fail to be alarmed. Why, if the worst happened, the results of this experiment might annihilate the results of today's game, yesterday's game, ball parks, players—everything including the fan himself.

The treasury experts never have pretended to be infallible. In such times as the present estimates are even more difficult. For example, there was a difference of 123 millions between the last two estimates of what would be needed to balance the budget. But even this would not be enough.

To keep the budget balanced there must be no new commitments of magnitude, such, for example, as the

Garner plan of issuing public construction bonds, the cash payment of veterans' unmatured compensation

certificates or the authorization of billions for distribution among the unemployed, as proposed by a group of mayors in Washington yesterday.

The treasury experts never have pretended to be infallible. In such times as the present estimates are even more difficult. For example, there was a difference of 123 millions between the last two estimates of what would be needed to balance the budget. But even this would not be enough.

To keep the budget balanced there

must be no new commitments of

magnitude, such, for example, as the

Garner plan of issuing public construction bonds, the cash payment of

veterans' unmatured compensation

certificates or the authorization of

billions for distribution among the

unemployed, as proposed by a group of mayors in Washington yesterday.

The treasury experts never have

pretended to be infallible. In such times as the present estimates are

even more difficult. For example, there was a difference of 123 millions

between the last two estimates

of what would be needed to balance

the budget. But even this would not be enough.

To keep the budget balanced there

must be no new commitments of

magnitude, such, for example, as the

Garner plan of issuing public construction bonds, the cash payment of

veterans' unmatured compensation

certificates or the authorization of

billions for distribution among the

unemployed, as proposed by a group of mayors in Washington yesterday.

The treasury experts never have

pretended to be infallible. In such times as the present estimates are

even more difficult. For example, there was a difference of 123 millions

between the last two estimates

of what would be needed to balance

the budget. But even this would not be enough.

To keep the budget balanced there

must be no new commitments of

magnitude, such, for example, as the

Garner plan of issuing public construction bonds, the cash payment of

veterans' unmatured compensation

certificates or the authorization of

billions for distribution among the

unemployed, as proposed by a group of mayors in Washington yesterday.

The treasury experts never have

pretended to be infallible. In such times as the present estimates are

even more difficult. For example, there was a difference of 123 millions

between the last two estimates

of what would be needed to balance

the budget. But even this would not be enough.

To keep the budget balanced there

must be no new commitments of

magnitude, such, for example, as the

Garner plan of issuing public construction bonds, the cash payment of

veterans' unmatured compensation

certificates or the authorization of

billions for distribution among the

unemployed, as proposed by a group of mayors in Washington yesterday.

The treasury experts never have

pretended to be infallible. In such times as the present estimates are

even more difficult. For example, there was a difference of 123 millions

between the last two estimates

of what would be needed to balance

the budget. But even this would not be enough.

To keep the budget balanced there

must be no new commitments of

magnitude, such, for example, as the

Garner plan of issuing public construction bonds, the cash payment of

veterans' unmatured compensation

certificates or the authorization of

billions for distribution among the

unemployed, as proposed by a group of mayors in Washington yesterday.

The treasury experts never have pretended to be infallible. In such