DRYS DIFFER OVER PLANK
Chicago.—A sharp difference of opinion among dry elements over the acceptability of the republican prohibition plank came to the surface with the statement of the woman's national committee for law enforcement: "It is by no means a dry victory." Earlier in the day Alonzo E. Wilson, executive director of the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation, had branded the plank definitely a triumph for the dries.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, head of the women's law enforcement group, denied any intention to form a "women's prohibition party" but made it clear that if the democratic candidates or platform fail to satisfy, "a further solution must be sought."

Byron Clark Speaker at McCook Birthday

Styles of Former Day Mark Fiftieth Anniversary of Founding of McCook.

McCook, Neb., June 15.—Byron Clark of Omaha, pioneer Nebraska railroad employe, and Dr. George E. Condra of the University of Nebraska were principal speakers here today in the golden anniversary celebration of the founding of McCook.

The days of 50 years ago were revived as the men and women garbed themselves in the style of dress in vogue in the early eighties. Today was railroad day, and a parade depicted the type of rail locomotive equipment used in early days.

Clark, in discussing politics and taxation, said if the nation was on a cash basis and dollars were in circulation, other problems could easily be taken care of.

Likes to See Calico.
He said it was worth while to see mothers in calico gowns and to see beads of other days. "I have been trying for years," he said, "to get young people to see how their parents came to Nebraska and the trials they came through."

"Here today they can see and are trying to understand. The trees of this beautiful park were planted by our forefathers on barren prairie. It is time for us to look back and see how our grandparents lived. It is a lesson to us to see we have been going too fast to catch the pioneer spirit of equality and friendship. That is what will restore democracy."

Wagons Replace Trucks.
Here today cowboys and their mounts took the place of automobiles and ox teams and wagons substituted for trucks on the streets of the city.

Plattsmen rode in as they did a half century ago for supplies, and calico clad, sunbonneted women rode beside them.

Both men and women, long in preparation for the occasion, added the necessary color in their garb, culled from attics particularly for the event. The men wore boots and bagging pantaloons; gaudy handkerchiefs were about their necks, and their faces, long since covered with especially cultivated whiskers, resembled the countenances of the settlers of 50 years ago.

The celebration continues through Friday.

Officials estimated four thousand visitors were in the city.—World-Herald.

TWO TOWNS HOLDING IT DOWN
Although the 12th Legion district of which Plattsmouth post is a part) is close to the bottom of the list in membership percentage this year, the poor showing is due to just two towns in the district—Lincoln and Nebraska City—all the other posts having equalled or exceeded their quotas.

Lincoln post has a membership of around 900 with a quota of 1,400, and Nebraska City post is also way below its assigned quota.

An intensive drive for members, ending July 1st, is being undertaken in these towns, with hopes of pulling the district out of the whole. All who join the Legion by July 1st, will receive free a copy of the booklet dealing with veterans' rights, being compiled for distribution as a supplement to the August issue of the American Legion Monthly, which will be in the mails around July 20th. This is a most valuable booklet and lists all the rights and benefits to which ex-service men are entitled both from the national government and their own respective states.

Plattsmouth post exceeded its membership quota more than a month ago, after an intensive drive.

OFFER BUTLER LEADERSHIP
New York.—Burgoyne Hamilton, president of the Blue Cockade, Inc., an organization for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, invited Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, to head a liberal party featuring prohibition repeal. In a telegram to Butler, who is in Chicago as a delegate to the republican convention, Hamilton said the invitation was issued as the result of "straddling" of the prohibition repeal question by the republican convention.

Membership in the organization is gained by taking the pledge not to vote for any candidate for public office "who does not clearly and unconditionally commit himself and his candidacy to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Name of Cyrus Eaton Figures in US Inquiry

Cleveland Man Is Accused and Defended at Senate Stock Hearing.

Washington.—Charges that millions of dollars invested by the public in Continental Shares, Inc., of Cleveland, were used to "further the personal ventures" of Cyrus S. Eaton, its organizer, were made in the senate stock market investigation. They came from David Stock, investigator for the senate banking committee conducting the inquiry, and George L. Gule of Columbus, O., a Continental Shares stockholder. Testimony also was presented by Stock and William A. Gray, the committee counsel, concerning Foreign Utilities, which they described as Eaton's personal holding company in Canada.

Referring to the transaction which they described, Chairman Norbeck of South Dakota said it "has the appearance of being a plan to get away from the income tax."

W. R. Daley of Cleveland, attorney for Eaton, said some of the statements made at the hearing were false and that others led to erroneous inferences. Eaton himself did not appear, altho Chairman Norbeck said he did not expect Eaton would appear.

"I don't think a man has a chance to build up a defense and present that defense before a senate committee," Daley said. "I don't think anybody in the world could defend these charges before a senate committee. They would have to be fought out in court."

Daley said one of the incorrect statements was an assertion by Stock that Otis & Co. had "unloaded" upon Continental Shares a quantity of Inland Steel stock at a price considerably higher than it could have been sold for in the market.

Earlier in the day, the committee sought to take up the operations on Fox Film and Fox Theatre corporations, but was balked by the illness of William Fox, their organizer, who was scheduled to take the stand. He is expected to testify Friday. Gray told the committee he intended to show that the corporations were "wrecked" by Fox and that he also would present evidence of a gigantic income tax evasion. The committee sent two doctors to check up on the story of Benjamin Reass, attorney for Fox, that the film man was ill in his hotel room and unable to appear.

Stock told the committee the Continental Shares case "involves manipulation and use of public money to further the personal ventures of persons in control of the public money."—State Journal.

MEANS LEARNS FATE SOON
Washington.—The fate of Gaston B. Means, charged with swindling Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean of $104,000 ransom and expense money in a plan for the return of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby, will be put in the hands of a District of Columbia supreme court jury of eleven men and one woman Monday. Justice Proctor heard motions of defense and prosecution on the instructions to be given the jury, disposed of a number, and took the remainder under advisement for decision Monday. After that arguments will be made by opposing counsel.

The justice accepted a defense move for a directed verdict of not guilty on the fourth count of Means' indictment, which charged embezzlement of the $4,000 expense money. He refused to rule that the government elect whether it would present the remaining embezzlement count on the $100,000, or the counts of larceny of $100,000 and $4,000 to the jury.

Plan to Send Large Delegation to 'Ak' Show

For First Time in Several Years, a United Attendance to be Urged on Plattsmouth Night.

Omaha Ak-Sar-Ben den shows—frequently attended by large groups of Plattsmouth men, oftentimes going on chartered trains in the days before autos became so plentiful, but given the "go-by" insofar as a united attendance has been concerned, during the past several years, will again be made a point of objective this year for perhaps the largest group of Plattsmouth and Cass county citizens ever to attend a "den" show.

The Chamber of Commerce yesterday approved acceptance of the invitation to attend this year's show in large numbers and will see that it is made an occasion of better acquainting Omahans with Plattsmouth, as well as enjoying the hospitality of the Ak-Sar-Ben organization and seeing their 1932 show, said to be one of the best of the many produced in the long years of Ak-Sar-Ben activities.

Plattsmouth used to send large delegations to Ak-Sar-Ben shows back in the days when the "den" was located at 29th and Lake streets, chartering a special train and being assigned a group of street cars on arrival in the metropolis that took them direct to the scene. Now, with autos supplementing rail service, it is planned to organize a caravan of well nigh one hundred cars, traveling in a procession direct to the Ak-Sar-Ben coliseum. The date has been tentatively set for Monday night, July 18th, but on account of that falling on regular meeting night of the city council and preventing some fifteen of the city officials from attending on that date, a change will probably be made, either to July 11th or 25th.

Further announcement will be made concerning the date and the show, and all Plattsmouth folks who can will be urged to attend. A special committee on transportation will endeavor to arrange passage for those not having cars of their own, with others who do, but part of such arrangements will have to be worked out by car owners themselves inviting neighbors and friends whom they may desire to have accompany them.

Sorensen Sees Defeat in GOP Straddle Plank
Lincoln, June 16.—Attorney General C. A. Sorensen, republican candidate for re-election, today scored the action of the republican national convention in its attitude toward the liquor question.

Sorensen asserted the adoption of the majority plank on that issue would cost the party 50 thousand votes in Nebraska, and that it spelled defeat for the national administration next November.

"The dries," Sorensen asserted, "will be disgusted, and the wets won't be fooled."

The attorney general also was of the opinion those favoring absolute repeal were more honest in expressing their demands than the advocates of the majority plank favoring re-submission to the states.

The plank adopted, in the estimation of the state official, himself regarded as a bone dry, is nothing more than a joker.—World-Herald.

Democrats at Work on Own Repeal Plan

Tentative Program for Resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment to the States.

Washington, June 15.—Mindful of republican prohibition worries in Chicago, a group of democratic leaders here is shaping a repeal plan they confidently hope will win a qualified approval in the Windy City two weeks hence.

It still is rough-hewn. But keeping with the desire to keep the entire 1932 platform under one thousand words, this plank uses just few more than 50 to dispose of the liquor case.

It declares for "immediate submission to state conventions" of a repeal amendment. This amendment would be so drafted as to assure "State control of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors."

This principle—repeal of the eighteenth amendment by an amendment restoring state control—is the heart of the plank. About it a lung declaration for the promotion of temperance and the suppression of liquor traffic in states choos to remain dry.

The saloon is frowned upon in the one-sentence, one-paragraph plan. But it leaves no doubt that return or banishment of the saloon will be up to the states.

No direct mention is made of beer or modification of the Volstead act. Tacitly this problem is left to the congress that will handle the job of drafting the repeal amendment.

The plank's chief virtue, its authors claim, is the kindly reception has been accorded by some party members of both wet and dry leaders.—World-Herald.
