Iowa Spinners Slain; Charred Bodies Found

Neighbor Discovers Tragedy at Knoxville, Iowa, Home—Robbery Believed Motive.

Knoxville, Ia., June 20.—The charred bodies of Letitia and Jennie Keefe, elderly spinners, were found in the dining room and basement of their lonely farm home near here at 7 a. m. today by a neighbor. The presence of four empty rifle shells in the dining room indicated the women had been shot to death and their bodies burned.

ing to do some work. Unable to get any reply to his calls he broke in the door and found the bodies. The women were between 60 and 70 years old. They had lived alone on the farm for several years and were reputed to have kept a sum of money about the place, leading to a belief that the motive for the crime was robbery. The crime was believed to have taken place Friday, since the women had not been seen since that time. Outward appearances of the house gave no indication of the tragedy within. The fire burned itself out after eating the hole in the floor and consuming the bodies, without damaging the rest of the house. Sheriff Ira Ward began checking on the identity of two Negroes who were seen Saturday along the right-of-way of the Rock Island road which runs through the Keefe farm.—World-Herald.

Truck and Bus Revenue Bill Not Yet in Force

Attorney General Sorensen Not Certain of Its Status Pending Further Moves.

Attorney General Sorensen said Tuesday afternoon he was undecided on whether the Schepman truck and bus bill will be in force if an appeal is not taken by the Nebraska Motor Transport association, intervenors, or a supersedeas bond is not filed. No appeal is to be taken by Secretary of State Marsh or by the truckers association. It has been announced. Three months time is allowed for the taking of an appeal from the order of Judge Shepherd which enjoins the secretary of state from placing the Schepman law on the referendum ballot in November.

The attorney general said he had no information that any disposition had been made by the district court of a previous order issued by Judge Chappell which restrains state officials from enforcing the increased registration fees for trucks and buses. The safety feature of the law was held by Judge Chappell not suspended by the referendum petition, a petition now favored by Judge Shepherd inadequate in number of legal petitioners.

Secretary Cochran of the department of public works said he had nothing to say as he did not know anything concerning the last order of the court. Governor Bryan, who vetoed the Schepman law and sent it back to the legislature which overrode his veto and passed it again, was reported in the western part of the state "inspecting highways."

The fight against the bill and against the referendum has been costly for both sides. The truckers association collected a fund of $6,727 to pay expenses of obtaining a petition of 65,000 names. The railroads took a part in collecting evidence against the sufficiency of the petition, and hearings were held in seventy counties. A long trial with all expenses costs approximately $25,000 according to estimates.

Also the district court had previously issued an order suspending only the fees in the law and holding that the safety features were not suspended by referendum. It is alleged that no part of the law has been enforced by the governor and department of public works.

At a meeting of truckers the statement was made that the suspension of registration fees in the Schepman law had saved truckers $250,000. The fees in the law applying to commercial trucks are based upon the advertised capacity in tons, as follows:

- Less than one and one-half tons, $10.
- One and one-half and less than two tons, $15.
- Two and less than 2 1/2 tons, $30.
- Two and one-half and less than 3 tons, $50.
- Three and less than 3 1/2 tons, $75.
- Three and one-half and less than 4 tons, $100.
- Four and less than 4 1/2 tons, $125.
- Four and one-half and less than 5 tons, $150.
- Five and less than 5 1/2 tons, $175.
- Five and one-half and less than 6 tons, $200.
- Six and exceeding 7 tons, $225.

No truck shall be registered or licensed for a carrying capacity in excess of seven tons. Two classes of trucks are designated which shall not be deemed commercial trucks, first, local trucks in cities and villages or within three miles thereof, second class trucks carrying farm products of the owner, to market or supplies to the farm or ranch.

On the first and second classification for each truck having an advertised shipping weight of less than 2,600 pounds, the registration fee shall be $8, and for each truck within these classifications having an advertised shipping weight of 2,600 pounds or more, the registration fee shall be $12. The fee for each trailer or semitrailer in these two classifications shall be $-. Trailers under 1,000 pounds net shall be taxed $2.

The safety features of the Schepman law which it is charged have not been enforced by the state include a speed limit outside cities of forty-five miles an hour. If a vehicle is towing a trailer or a freight carrying vehicle of which gross weight is no more than five tons, it is unlawful for the driver to exceed thirty-five miles, and in a city or village no vehicle shall exceed a reasonable and proper speed.

Vehicles are required to be stopped as they approach a place where passengers are getting on or off a street car, until the street car has

MARRIAGE NOT ANNULLED

Omaha.—In refusing to consider the request of J. G. Masters, principal of Central high school, that the marriage of his son, Jose, twenty, to Mariel Russell, eighteen, be annulled, Judge Herbert Rhodes held that the legal age for contracting marriage in Nebraska without the consent of parents or guardians is eighteen for males and sixteen for females.

Rhodes kept the case open, however, by telling C. E. Walsh, attorney for Masters, that the order keeping the young people apart would be continued if Walsh would file motion for a new trial. Walsh filed the motion.

Walsh contended that the statute clearly set forth that while consent to marriage can be given at the ages of eighteen and sixteen, parental consent is necessary before the contract can legally be entered into. Young Masters in obtaining a license gave his age as twenty-one, and the girl had the consent of her mother.
