SUFFERS FROM BLOOD POISON

Miss Florence Yelick of this city, is at the Methodist hospital at Omaha, going there Thursday for treatment for blood poison. A week ago Miss Yelick had been out swimming and on getting out of the water stepped on a small stick, a part of which caused a laceration of her foot. It was thought that all of the stick had been removed, but in a few days the foot became very painful and an examination revealed the fact that a part of the stick was still lodged in the foot. A slight operation was necessary to remove the piece of wood and it is thought that the patient may be able to return home in a few days.

Rain Brings Relief to Corn and Humanity

Over 1 Inch Rain at 4 O'clock This Morning Comes as Much Needed Relief to Community.

From Saturday's Daily
After a twelve day period of the most intense heat and which has caused the corn crop as well as the residents of this part of the west to suffer a great deal, rain brought relief early this morning.

The rain clouds had gathered several times in the last few days but this section was passed by in the distribution of the rainfall, but late last night and early this morning the banks of clouds from the south and west delivered the goods in a fine rain of over one inch.

The rain was general in this section and will be of untold value to the corn crop, the corn now getting quite dry after the almost two weeks of intense heat and dryness.

The rain lasted some forty-five minutes and was quite intense as it was swept along by a brisk wind that brought coolness to the atmosphere and made it much more comfortable for the residents of the community.

REPORT CHILD IN RIVER

Late Thursday afternoon a report was received at the office of Sheriff Thimgan that a baby or small child was seen floating down the Missouri river in a box. Several boys who were fishing along the river near this city thought that they could see a child lying in the large pasteboard box which was resting in another box, but it was too far out in the stream to see clearly just what was in the box. Deputy Sheriff Ray Becker, accompanied by J. C. Brittain and Charles McCaulley, motored down the river and several miles below the city they secured a row boat and started out into the stream to try and locate the box and determine the contents, but without success. The river divides into several small channels just north of Rock Bluffs and the box may have floated down any of these and the deputy sheriff and his associates after a search of that locality returned home. The officers here have received no report of any children or babies missing from points up the river and it may be that the parties seeing the box were mistaken as to its contents.

NEIGHBORHOOD FUSS

From Thursday's Daily
Last evening Sheriff Ed Thimgan and Chief of Police Libershal were called out to the south section of the city where two of the families residing in that locality, had been having trouble. The officers who were called to the scene, heard the stories of the several parties and advised that they settle the matter by filing complaints of disturbing the peace if they could not dwell in peace and harmony. After the visit of the officers the families quieted down and no complaint was filed by either this morning.

LIGHTNING DOES DAMAGE

During the storm early this morning lightning did a great deal of damage at the residence of L. E. Vroman and at the home of a neighbor named Beck, in the south part of the city. The lightning apparently struck the wiring of the two houses and resulted in the burning out of the electric lamps and fuses. Both families had radios in their home and these were burned out by the lightning. Mr. Vroman states that the shock was such that several of his family were almost thrown from their beds.

Stockyards to be Reopened South of Shops

Norfolk Packing Co., to Operate Yards Which Will Feed Several Hundred Cattle.

The stockyards which for many years were operated south of the Burlington shops are to be re-opened by the Norfolk Packing Co., who expect to have several hundred cattle on feed there and will be used as a shipping point for the local stock feeders.

The packing plant is moving their elevator here from Norfolk and it will be erected on the seven acres which will constitute the feed yards. The feed yards are to be enclosed by high fences and divided into pens where the cattle will be kept and fattened for the market. The elevator will be used for the grinding and storing of the feed that will be used by the yards.

The unloading yards will be in the south end of the shop yards occupied by the BREN and the canning factory of the Norfolk Co. From the unloading yards the cattle will be driven through a runway twenty feet wide to the stockyards proper and where they will be fed.

The Burlington which has maintained yards near the local station will abandon these and all local shipping and loading will be carried out at the stockyards of the packing plant.

The new stockyards, it is expected, will employ from ten to twelve men constantly at work in the yards and the yards will be under the supervision of Mr. Doodey, who is now with the Norfolk Packing Co. at Norfolk and will move here with his family as soon as the yards are ready.

A force of men are now at work on the yards getting it ready for the necessary improvements that will be made, several being placed at work today and if the material is here a number of others will be added Monday to the force in order to get the stockyards operating as soon as possible.

The land on which the stockyards is located has been leased by the packing company from the Burlington railroad, the owners of the land. The track which formerly run from the shop yards to the stockyards is still in place along the route to the yards.

For many years this yard was a very busy place and several of the local meat dealers maintained their killing houses there, but in recent years it has not been in active use. Its revival will mean the employment of several and add to the industrial life of the community.

RETURN FROM CALIFORNIA

James Will and Fred Todd, who have been spending some time on the Pacific coast have returned home to this city. Mr. Todd was engaged for several months in working on the Hoover dam at Las Vegas, Nevada, but with the terrific heat that visits that section in the summer, work was largely suspended until fall. He states that the temperature there will reach 130 in the shade in the summer season and that the conditions are very severe. The city which is located near the dam is one of the widest open cities in the country and every possible device to get the money can be found there. The two young men made the trip by auto from the west and had a very pleasant journey after getting out of the desert country.

START FOR THE WEST

Last evening James Zoubeck, Jr., Dean Snyder and Harold Lillie, three local young men, departed on what they are anticipating to be a real outing in the mountain country. They are making the trip in the auto of Mr. Zoubeck and will take in the many points of interest as they journey westward, the Yellowstone national park being their destination. The party of young men will take in all of the sights of the great natural wonderland of the west and expect to spend the greater part of the vacation at the park.

HAVE CLOSE CALL

From Saturday's Daily
Two Omaha young women, Eunice Kearns and Margaret German, had a close call from drowning in the sand pits near the Platte river bridge last evening. Miss Kearns, who is not an experienced swimmer, had gone into the pit and not realizing the depth of the water was soon in the deep section of the pit and unable to reach shallow water. Miss German seeing the plight of her friend, came to the rescue and in attempting to bring the companion out was also drawn under the water and almost drowned.

The two girls were carried ashore by two men who were swimming in the pit at the time. They were revived by Pete Leonoviz with artificial respiration. Leonoviz was a member of the auto party that had brought the two girls to the pits.

The two near drowned young women were taken back at once to their homes at Omaha, still feeling the effects of the close call that they had from death in the waters of the pit.

Two other Omaha parties have met death while swimming at the pit, one drowning and the other suffering a broken neck in diving.

Radio Station KFAB Opening Omaha Studio

Expects to Have New Studio Ready by Sept. 1st—Seek to Synchronize with WBBM, Chicago.

Radio station KFAB of Lincoln announced Friday it will open Omaha studios in the west wing of the 11th floor of the Omaha National Bank building about Sept. 1.

The space, 8,000 square feet, will include studios and a commercial department, all under the direction of George Roessler, Omaha radio man, formerly with station KOLB.

The formal announcement that a "continuous lease" has been signed with the bank was made by Dietrich Dirks, station manager, confirming reports long current.

KFAB has pending before the federal radio commission an application for permission to synchronize its programs with WBBM in Chicago, so that the two stations could broadcast Columbia chain programs simultaneously, like the WHO-WOC combination in Iowa.

KFAB has already received permission to build a 25,000-watt station, but has delayed construction pending the synchronization application. Dirks said. If this new station, five times as powerful as the present one, is built, it will probably be located somewhere midway between Omaha and Lincoln.

"If this permit is granted it will give listeners almost a full-time CBS schedule, and KFAB will be the only Nebraska station on the air full time," Dirks said.

Dirks said the Lincoln studios of KFAB would be retained, but that eventually Omaha would be considered its main studios, and most of the station's programs would originate there.

TRUCKING ACTIVITIES HEAVY

The truck activity through this city has been heavy for the past two weeks there being a great deal of cattle and hogs shipped from Iowa farms to the Omaha market, cattle especially being sent in large fleets of trucks as the market showed gains for the price on fat cattle. The hog shipments have not been as heavy as that of cattle, the market not reflecting such sharp gains as that shown in cattle.

In the past two days grain has been passing through the city to market from the farms in this locality as well as Iowa. As the harvest progresses the truckers expect to have much more of the grain shipped to market. Many of the farmers, however, are planning on holding their grain or using it for feeding purposes.

MANY SUFFER FROM HEAT

From Saturday's Daily

Murray and the sand pits both receiving many from this city. Over the city residents could be found seeking relief by sleeping on the lawns and porches while in the main section of the city groups were to be found sitting along the walks awaiting the coming of a breeze. The rain at 4:15 brought a sudden drop in the temperature and one that made life more livable.
