Officer Shot; Patrolling Near Governor's Home

Was Attempting to Quiz Man, Seen in Alley—Bullet Entered Near the Heart.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 6.—M. F. Marshall of Lincoln, special residential district patrolman, was shot and critically wounded late tonight when he attempted to question a man he saw coming out of an alley near the governor's mansion.

Marshall managed to stagger to the mansion, and by whistling, attracted the attention of Governor Bryan, who called police and an ambulance. Marshall was taken to a hospital where physicians said the bullet had entered near the heart.

Marshall said he saw his assailant riding a bicycle west to Fifteenth street from an alley between G and H streets. He drove up to him and asked where he was going. The man mumbled something about living on Rose street. Marshall got out of his car and as he approached, the man shot. The gunman fled south. A posse of police immediately began a search.

Jenkins; four daughters, Mrs. Ina Bogish of Sacramento, Calif., Sadie Jenkins and Mrs. Florence McNamara of Santa Monica, Calif., and Mrs. Louise Garvin of Lincoln; a son, Lynn of Hollywood, Calif., two half-brothers, Edward Richards of Denver and Luther Richards of Orleans, Neb., two half-sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Wiley of Denver and Mrs. Mary Shelburn of Medford, Ore.

NEW METHOD OF CONTACT

Door-bell ringing magazine solicitors are in town with, to say the least, a new method of contact. With the statement they believe the party contacted is entitled to one of the free sample copies being distributed for advertising purposes, they proffer such copy. Later, they ask the recipient to pay "postage" or mailing costs on certain magazines for a year, and if refused, request the return of their "sample" copy.

There are places in Plattsmouth where one may subscribe for desired periodicals at lowest subscription rates and when the door-bell ringing solicitor comes around and "gives" you a sample copy, you are within your rights refusing to return it. A little of this sort of treatment would soon stop the slick-tongued boys who pester housewives, not only in magazine but other lines as well.

Strangers do not come to town to "give" you anything if they can help it, and if, perchance, one does, just keep it.

WILL GRAVEL HIGHWAY

The state highway through Cass county known as the Louisville-Weeping Water highway, will be resurfaced this fall, the letting of the contract to be on September 29th at the state house at Lincoln. This is one of the leading highways of the county and which serves a large number of the residents of the central portion of Cass county in getting to and from Omaha.

Bag limit on geese is 4 and possession, 5.

Advertising will keep the wheels of business turning, even in "depression times." Don't overlook that fact, Mr. Merchant.

RED HOT BALL GAME

The baseball fans that gathered at Murray Sunday to witness the second contest between the Murray Red Sox and the Merchants, had a chance of witnessing some fast ball playing and a hurling duel between Beneatto of the Merchants and Hopkins of the Red Sox, the visiting hurler allowing nine hits while seven were garnered of Hopkins, the Sox taking the game 4 to 3.

The Rex Sox acquired a two run lead in the second inning of the battle when Krejci and Pierce each tallied. Joe getting on through an error by Poissall and followed by Pierce who hit safely and when Schliscke doubled the runners came over the plate.

The Merchants scored in the fourth, when with two gone, Pud Herold was passed and scored on the single of "King" Poissall. The visitors had the score tied in the first of the sixth when Pud Herold hit to second, the ball bouncing over Snavey's head and into the field, scoring when Beneatto hit safely.

The Sox took the lead again in their half of the sixth, Stone opening the battle with a triple to left and scored on the sacrifice fly of Krejci.

The Merchants had the score tied in the opening of the ninth when King Poissall hit a fly to left garden that was lost in the grass outside the park for a home run.

The final score of the Sox was in the last of the ninth when Schliscke hit safely and was able to reach third base and from where he scored when Hopkins proceeded to win his own game with a clean single to center.

Warning to Texans to Leave Flooded Area

Rio Grande Overflow Is Nearing the Fertile Lower Valley Region Monday Night.

Brownsville, Tex.—Flood waters of the Rio Grande neared the fertile lower Rio Grande valley Monday night after causing property damage running into millions and some loss of life along the international border upstream. The army fliers patrolling the danger area reported the flood's crest in the vicinity of Rio Grande City, about 100 miles above here.

A warning issued by the Brownsville weather bureau said the crest would reach around Mission Monday forenoon and the extreme lower valley Wednesday.

"Areas flooded in the valley will be about as extensive as in the flood of 1922, but probably will be somewhat more dangerous in places," the warning said. "Most of the land lying between the river and the flood control levees will be inundated probably deeply in places. These areas should be vacated."

Not more than 10 percent of the citrus acreage valley was expected to be reached by flood waters even if the flood control system does not hold. Residents of the lowlands on both the Mexican and American banks had evacuated, taking with them movable belongings and livestock.

Just how many lives had been lost since the flood began laying a trail of devastation down from the plains of southern Texas is undetermined. The collapse of a railroad bridge at Laredo on which fourteen to twenty men were standing was believed to have caused the drowning of all but four.—State Journal.

Parted by Suicide

Jean Harlow, movie actress, is shown here with her husband, Paul Bern, who shot himself to death Monday. They were married only two months ago.

Jean Harlow's Mate Ends Life to 'Right Wrong'

Film Executive Had Wed "Blonde" Only Two Months Ago—Note in Diary.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 5.—Mystery blanketed Hollywood's latest tragedy tonight as police sought a motive for the suicide today of Paul Bern, motion picture executive and husband for a scant two months of Jean Harlow, platinum blonde screen actress. Bern was 42. Miss Harlow is 21.

Bern's nude body, a bullet hole in the right temple and a .38-caliber revolver in his hand, was discovered at 11:45 a. m. in the dressing room of his home in west Los Angeles. John Carmichael, butler, said he stumbled over the body when he stepped into the room to raise the shades.

An acquaintance of Bern, police said, quoted the director as saying recently that six members of his family had died suicides. He had often remarked, friends said, that he considered it proper for a man to end his life if he felt his existence no longer was justified.

Bern was found on the floor beneath a full length mirror, before which he apparently was standing when he fired the shot that ended his life.

Note in His Diary.
Irving Thalberg, production head at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who was called to the home, said Bern left the following note on a page in his diary:

"Dearest Dear: Unfortunately this is the only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you, and to wipe out my abject humiliation. You understand that last night was only a comedy."

Miss Harlow had spent last night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Marino Bellow, in Beverly Hills, and Bern was apparently alone when he fired the shot.

David Selznick and other studio executives were also summoned to the house.

Failed Dinner Date.
The butler told authorities he had gone with the Bern cook to the home of Miss Harlow's mother to prepare a dinner at which the couple was to be present. Bern remained at his own home, and Miss Harlow was already at her mother's home. Bern never arrived, and the servants returning to his home this morning found the body.

That there had been trouble between the couple was denied both by Thalberg and by Carmichael, neither of whom could assign a motive for the suicide.

Russian servants, who had been employed by Bern as part of his famed hospitality, were dismissed by Miss Harlow soon after their marriage and friends stated that this was the cause of several arguments between the two.—World-Herald.

News stories seem to describe as pretty every woman who kills her husband. This seems to be a tip to marry only the ugly ones.

Plattsmouth is still the "whitest spot" on the Government's industrial map—one of few small towns in the middle west to locate new industries during depression.

ORTIZ RUBIO TO QUIT OFFICE

Mexico City, Sept. 1.—A sensation was caused in political circles Thursday with the disclosure that President Pascual Ortiz Rubio will retire from his post Friday after opening the new session of congress.

The president, it was learned from reliable authority, will sum up the achievements of his administration in his address before congress tonight, but will withhold announcement of his resignation until the cabinet meets Friday.

A provisional president, who will serve until the expiration of President Ortiz Rubio's term on Nov. 30, 1934, will be designated by congress on Saturday. Two names top the list of candidates. They are Alberto J. Pani, present minister of finance, and Gen. Abelardo Rodriguez, minister of war and former governor of Lower California.

Pani was considered the most likely choice for the presidential chair.

President Ortiz Rubio's projected resignation is the result of plans carefully laid by political leaders to overcome political unrest. In his resignation message, however, the president will set forth that he has suffered from a stomach ailment for many months.
