Win and Lose at Horseshoes Murdock had as their guests during the past week a team of horseshoe pitchers from Weeping Water and Wabash, and engaged in some close "pitching" against the visiting aggregation. In the games here, the local hurlers "Amos and Andied" the visitors by a score of 976 to 899, but in a return game, played at Weeping Water, the Murdock team were the losers. Those playing on the Murdock team were H. H. Lawton, Alvin Backemeyer, Jesse and Harry Stock and Bryan McDonald. The Weeping Water-Wabash team was composed of Hennings, McBride, Clark Carl Hansen and Lyle Bouton.

Visited Their Friends A number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rager visited at the Rager home near Gretna on Sunday, September 11th, when they went with a number of cars and with good things to eat and made a merry day for this couple who formerly resided here and had moved to Sarpy county to live. This was a very fine way of doing, for they took not alone good things to eat, but good cheer as well. There were among the number who made up the merry party, Messrs and Mesdames J. J. Gustin, Joseph F. Gustin, Henry A. Tool, John W. Kruger, Ed F. Brunkow, James Miller and Miss Viola Everett.

Attended Family Reunion Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Craig went over to Wymore on last Sunday, where they went to attend the Craig family reunion, which was being held in the city park there, and where they enjoyed the getting together of the family, of whom there were more than fifty in attendance. The first members of this family came to Nebraska from Tennessee many years ago and have been among those who helped build a vast inland empire which is second to none as a place to make a home. Mr. and Mrs. Craig report having had a very good time.

Birdhouse at County Fair Some time since, G. Bauer made a birdhouse, which is a masterpiece, being a replica of the residence of Emil Kuehn, and requiring many hours of ceaseless toil before the work was completed. Since the house was completed, he has had it at his home or store, and the officers of the fair association, learning of this very unique piece of handicraft, asked to place it on exhibition at the fair, the request being granted. Accordingly, Mr. O. C. Hinds came with a trailer and took the house to Weeping Water where it was placed on exhibition and attracted much favorable comment from all who saw it.

TO ORGANIZE ASSOCIATION Frank Thomson, of Lincoln, representing the recently organized Nebraska Public Efficiency Economy Association, was in the city today, meeting a number of the business and professional men relative to the organization of a branch of the association in Cass county.

The new association which is formed along the lines of the recently launched national association, taking the position of the reduction of the cost of government and the lessening of the appropriations that have annually been mounting.

The purposes of the association as stated by their printed pamphlets is to attack the problems of government from the point of view of its mounting cost and the rapid and unchecked increase in appropriations and expenditures. It will center its attention and concentrate its activities principally upon public expenditures as the thing of first importance, for taxes must and will be levied to meet them and so balance the budget.

It is an association to investigate and scrutinize thoroughly and critically all proposed public appropriations and expenditures by any spending and tax levying unit in Nebraska. It will strive to reduce all possible expenditures and at the same time not interfere with the efficiency of government.

County Fair Shows Wealth of Fine Exhibits

Wednesday at the Fair at Weeping Water rings Addresses by Republican Leaders.

From Thursday's Daily The second day of the Weeping Water county fair was held under the most auspicious condition, those who attended being given a very fine opportunity to see the greatest of the fair.

The judging was done in all departments, with a very fine concert during the forenoon by the Louisville Farmers band, kept the people feeling fine.

In the whistling contest Ella Nelson won honors. Dwight Harman entertained in a cornet solo. The Eagle quartet composed of Maxine Wetenkamp, Elizabeth Bothwell, Thelma Price and Elmer Longman, entertained. There was space for dinner and visiting.

At 2:30 there were addresses made by Col. W. R. Young, candidate for sheriff on the republican ticket. He was followed by A. H. Duxbury, candidate for county judge, and later Marcus Poteet made the address of the afternoon, and this was followed by many musical numbers. This completed the matter of program for the day with the exception of the concert in the evening. During the day and airplane was giving rides. There was stunt flying at 1:30 and also at 4:30 which entertained all who like air flying.

The exhibits were most all in early Wednesday morning, though there was some belated which came in later. We cannot tell of them all but they will come later when the reports of the fair are made.

However in the agricultural hall there was 415 entries, which is the largest ever had at a county fair in this county. Sixty-eight entries of potatoes and such large smooth round ones of all varieties, making it look like Cass county was the greatest place to grow any kind of fruits and vegetables. There was one hundred and four entries in field corn and such corn, the very evidence of good farming. There was also twenty-two entries made on popcorn. All surely will grow and with such corn it looks like the seed growers would find a hard time getting farmers to buy seed corn.

The other things, were in line with the corn and which speaks well for the county, the lands and the farmers whoever they may be.

The field amusements resulted in the summing of the sports. The ball game which was played between Manley and Louisville resulted in Louisville winning by the score of 13 to 3. In the horse shoe games the contest was individual and not team contest, the winnings being taken by Floyd Hoffmans, 1st; Lawrence Wise, 2nd; Chester Hopkins, 3rd and Lyle Bouton, 4th, they being all who came within the number of counts for winnif.

KING KORN CAPS FOR EVERYONE The King Korn chapeaus (caps) are available to anybody and everybody in Cass county who is willing to help boost the forthcoming Corn Festival and pay a 25c membership fee in the club, including one of the caps. At least one mass meeting of the King Korn Klub will be called before the opening of the festival on October 5th.

The initial order of 500 caps is rapidly being disposed of and it is quite probable several hundred additional will be required to supply the demand. Inasmuch as a week is required for delivery, order will be placed at once.

The appearance and color of the chapeaus has proven very pleasing to those citizens who are expected to make them their exclusive head garb during the next three weeks and are expected to give satisfactory service for that length of time without showing soil marks, whereas the white cap of this type so often worn would be unwearable within a short time.

If you haven't purchased your cap yet, remember they are on sale to everyone at a score of Plattsmouth business houses. A roster of the club, to contain the name of every cap buyer, will be made a part of the permanent records of the festival.

FAIR ON AT NELSON Nelson, Neb.—The fifty-seventh annual fair opened here Wednesday. Attendance was light altho exhibits of high quality were numerous. An exhibit in the fine arts building which attracted much attention was a square foot of the carpet purchased recently for the Nebraska state house at a reputed cost of $16 a yard.

NEBRASKA PIG IN MOVIES

Pilger, Neb.—Nebraska has contributed a new movie star to Hollywood. "Dike of Rosedale," a three year old Hampshire boar owned by Ed Rennick & Sons, was sold to a motion picture company for $500. "Dike" grand champion at the Iowa state fair, will perform in a new picture, "State Fair." Will Rogers will be the farm hand throwing corn to "Dike."

Private Effort Counted Upon to Feed the Needy

President Hoover Enjoins the Relief Agencies to See That None Goes Hungry.

Washington.—Key representatives of the nation's relief agencies, enjoined by President Hoover to see that none shall go hungry and unsheltered this winter, made plans for full enlistment of private effort to care for the needy. The president himself opened the one day welfare and relief mobilization conference with an address delivered on the lawn of the white house, with the more than 400 delegates grouped about an improvised platform.

"This is, I trust," said Mr. Hoover, "the last winter of this great calamity. Yet despite a dawning hope upon the horizon, individual need in the meantime may be greater than before." The president asserted a major task was to "maintain the spiritual impulses in our people for generous giving and generous service, in the spirit that each is his brother's keeper."

"The need before us is immediate," he said. "It is large. Millions of men and women face the approach of winter with fear in their hearts. The children sense the dread their elders feel. You have nobly offered your service to them and the nation. I speak not more to you than to the unseen millions of my countrymen and countrywomen in personal appeal, that they, too, should take this neighborly need upon their conscience; that they shall share with you this burden, that they give generously of their means to your support."

To Mr. Hoover responded Newton D. Baker, prominent democrat and secretary of war under President Wilson, who is chairman of the national citizens' committee which this year will direct a nationwide campaign to reinforce local communities in their efforts to obtain adequate funds for their relief needs. This campaign will be held Oct. 17 to Nov. 23.

Federal and state provisions for relieving distress were "helpful," said Baker, but to them "must be added a devotion of every private resource both to extend the funds purely for relief and to preserve and intensify the curative ministrations of welfare and character building agencies which are more critically needed now than at any other time."

Altee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction corporation, explained the limitations placed on the federal 300 million dollar fund. He said: "The ultimate responsibility for furnishing relief and work relief to people in distress does and should rest with the states, the political subdivisions of the states and the municipalities. The national government did not does not propose to assume this responsibility."

Pomerene said that to date $20,365,599 has been loaned from the fund.—State Journal.

WILL DEVELOP MISSOURI

Omaha.—A total of $750,000 will be spent on river development from the Union Pacific bridge over the Missouri river here, southward, Captain Theodore Wyman, district army engineer at Kansas City, notified former Governor Weaver and Rufus E. Lee of Omaha, late Wednesday.

Weaver had protested against the allotment of emergency funds announced Thursday, on the grounds that it did not aid the Omaha area. Captain Wyman conferred with army officials at Washington and then made his statement.

The $750,000 will be among the first contracts awarded this month, Captain Wyman said. In addition, $300,000 of the initial contracts will be let for work between Omaha and Sioux City. Altogether these sums will permit employment of between 2,000 to 5,000 men, Captain Wyman estimated.

MILLIONS LOST IN BLAZE

Ventura, Calif.—Fire raged fiercely in the Santa Barbara national forest and forestry officials said possibly 20,000 acres of crush and timber land had been burned over. They estimated the loss at millions of dollars. A strong wind from the ocean increased the intensity of the flames, which started eight days ago. Three fire areas were out of control.

MORE BUILDING APPROVED

Washington.—Additional public building to cost $20,810,000, authorized under the relief law enacted by the last congress, was announced by the treasury. The action makes a total of $74,508,000 worth of projects named under the act which permits the construction of 100 million dollars worth of new buildings to aid employment throught the nation. The previously announced projects were those costing more than $300,000 while those listed Wednesday included structures to cost between $100,000 and $300,000.

The announcement, made by Secretary Mills and Postmaster General Brown, said that the list of projects to cost less than $100,000 would be made public in the near future. The construction is in addition to the huge public program inaugurated in 1926, for which congress has authorized to date $496,463,942 exclusive of the 100 millions carried in the relief act.
