

Alvo News

Roy Kuntz has been visiting with friends from Alvo for the past week or more.

Edgar Edwards was called to Lincoln on last Wednesday to look after some business matters for the Alvo Hardware and Implement store.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor were over to Weeping Water on last Saturday, where Mrs. Taylor was attending a meeting of the ladies and Mr. Taylor was looking after some business matters.

The son of Elmer West, Jimmie, who was injured in a basketball game when he suffered a compound fracture of his jaw, is getting along nicely and was able to return to his studies last week.

Frank Taylor, after the completion of the picking of his corn, has been assisting the neighbors, having picked for his brother and also for Earl West and has some of these times soon a number of oyster suppers coming, and which we are sure will be enjoyed by all who may chance to be members of the party.

Frank Taylor and the good wife and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Rehmeier, were visiting in Omaha on last Sunday, where they were guests for the day and dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Mogensen, and were there joined in the merry party by Henry Mogensen, a brother, and Jans Mogensen, the father of Adolph Mogensen, and where all enjoyed a very pleasant day's visit.

Obituary of Roy Bennett

Roy Bennett was born on a farm two and a half miles northwest of Alvo on July 17, 1881, and died at his home in Alvo on November 27, 1932, age 51 years, 4 months and 10 days. He grew to manhood on the farm and has since lived in and around Alvo.

On July 28, 1922, he was united in marriage to Anna Miller, of Exeter, Nebraska. They made their home in Exeter for 8 months and then moved to Alvo, where they have since lived.

He is survived by his wife, Anna, one sister, Arzella, of Lincoln, and two brothers, Elmer and Earl, of Alvo. Two sisters preceded him in death.

He was well known around Alvo and on account of his jovial disposition had gained a host of friends, who will deeply regret his passing.

The funeral was held from the M. E. church here, being largely attended and many floral offerings testified to the high esteem in which he was held here in the home community, where he was born and raised.

Buying Much Ear Corn

The Miller Cereal Mills, of Omaha, have contracted with Mr. Simon Rehmeier for the purchase of some fifty thousand bushels of corn in the ear, and are paying 12 cents per bushel for the grain. They sent a force of workmen here to build cribs for the reception of the corn. They have already purchased some 15,000 bushels of corn in the ear and are still at it building cribs and receiving the corn. This will allow the farmers to dispose of corn in the ear for money for immediate use and not be compelled to shell now.

Entertained Friends Sunday

Simon Rehmeier and wife entertained on last Sunday at their home, when they had the family of Fred Rehmeier which comprised Mr. and Mrs. Rehmeier, their son, Vincent and daughter, Frances, and Chris Rasmussen and wife, and their two sons, Walter and Howard, all of Weeping Water, who were enjoyed the visit and the excellent dinner which was served by Mrs. Rehmeier.

Visiting Here with Relatives

Boyd Edwards, who makes his home in York, Ohio, where he and wife have been making their home for some time, arrived in Alvo the middle of last week and has been visiting here and at York, Nebraska, since Mrs. Boyd Edwards, whose folks reside at York, this state, came some time since to see her parents, and later Boyd came here and also went on to the home of her parents, where they both visited and also will visit here as well.

Ladies Aid Gather

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church of Alvo met at the home of Mrs. Earl Bennett on Wednesday afternoon of last week, where they did much work for the church and as well had a very worth-while program and a social hour and were entertained by Mrs. Bennett with a very fine luncheon. The leader of the program was Mrs. L. M. Snavely.

Died at Central City

Mrs. Will Pettigrew, well known here in former years, but who has been making her home at Central City for some time past, has not been in good health for some time, finally giving up a valiant fight on November 25th. She was buried at Oaks, where she had also resided and where a number of her relatives rest, the funeral being held on November 27. Among those who attended the funeral from here were Messrs. Lee and Roy Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frolich.

Give Newly Weds Shower

In honor of the wedding of two very popular young people of this vicinity, Miss Pearl Althouse, daughter of W. J. Althouse and George Miller, which was celebrated recently, the ladies of the Methodist church gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Mickel, where they made a merry afternoon, there being about eighty of the members of the church in attendance. A merry time was had and a large number of very useful and beautiful gifts were given as tokens of the high esteem in which this young couple are held.

Called to See Sick Mother

Mrs. Davis, agent for the Rock Island railroad at this point, received the sad news of the very serious illness of her mother, who makes her home at Minneapolis, and arranged to immediately depart for the city in the north to do whatever may be possible for her mother.

While Mrs. Davis has been away, business at the station is being looked after by L. M. Scott.

Much Interest in Meetings

There has been much interest in the meetings which are held at the Methodist church in Alvo, with a continuing increase in attendance. Last Sunday the attendance was so great that the capacity of the church building was more than taxed, for there were not enough seats for all who came and chairs were placed in the aisles to accommodate the crowd. Rev. McKenzie is well liked by the membership and also by the others of the community, as is demonstrated by the large attendance.

Farmers for U. S. Control of Surplus

Inflation of Currency Through Increase in Gold Price Proposed by Committee.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Without debate, the American Farm Bureau federation Wednesday unanimously adopted a resolution advocating currency inflation by advancing the price of gold from $20 to $30 an ounce.

Without specific endorsements, another resolution would give the farm bureau authority for supporting any plan for control of surplus farm crops.

The currency resolution would increase the price of gold from around $20 to $30 a fine ounce. The amount of gold behind each dollar of currency would be reduced from 23.22 to 16 grains. The result would be that each dollar would buy less, causing an increase in prices.

Bureau Proposed.

Creation of a "stabilization bureau" in the Treasury department was proposed, to be charged with responsibility for making future changes in gold prices necessary to maintain commodity prices at the 1920-1929 average.

"We believe the above method is the only sound way to perpetuate the gold standard," the resolution said. No mention was made of monetization of silver.

"Commodity prices have continually fallen," it declared, "and conditions have now become so acute that unless arbitrary and effective measures are taken to reduce the purchasing power of the dollar to a point where commodity prices are restored to a level where major portions of long-term public and private debts were contracted, greater disaster and distress are sure to come upon our people."

Other proposed resolutions advocated:

Reorganization of agricultural credit machinery for long-term refinancing of farm mortgages at "very low" interest rates.

Tariff protection for substitutes for commodities as well as the commodities themselves.

Revision of the "national commercial banking structure" to protect depositors.

Independence of the Philippines. Budget balancing through economy rather than increasing "the general tax burden."

Want Woman Aid.

Further promotion of farm co-operatives through the agricultural marketing act.

Early completion of negotiations for the St. Lawrence and lakes-to-gulf waterways.

Appointment of a farm woman as assistant in the Department of Agriculture.

Research to develop further uses for domestic farm products.

Enactment of a national credit union law.

Encouragement of transportation agencies.—Omaha Bee-News.

FIRE AT ROCK BLUFFS

The residence of William T. Hutchison, in the old time town of Rock Bluffs, had a close call from destruction by fire Thursday morning, only the heroic efforts of the neighbors checking the flames. The fire, which was caused by a defective flue, was discovered between the ceiling of the first floor and the flooring of the second story. It was necessary to tear out sections of the floor and walls of the upper rooms in order to reach the flames. The blaze worked its way to the roof of the house and this was finally extinguished by the volunteer bucket brigade.

The neighbors who responded to the call for help were Lloyd Lewis, Paul and Joe Shera, Pat Campbell, Frank and Fred Hull, Elmer Fitchhorn, Bill Smith, Ernest, Claude and Glen Hutchison and William Barker.

WORK FOR LOWER GAS TAX

Omaha.—Delegates to the annual convention of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers, Inc., Tuesday voted to establish a legislative committee to work for the interests of the organization.

The committee will work for reduction of the gasoline tax from four to two cents; for enactment of laws forbidding any diversion of gas tax funds from the road building fund; for legislation forbidding any exemption of gasoline from the state tax, and for new inspection laws, the present laws being declared obsolete.

L. T. Hart, Pawnee City, a member of the state gasoline inspection department, acknowledged before the convention that the present inspection laws are inadequate and obsolete, but asserted the department is doing the best it can under them.

Poison Expert on Stand to Tell of Beer Content

Yale Professor Says 4 Per Cent Beer Just Like Coffee—Speed Hearing.

Washington.—Anti-prohibitionist members of the house lauded 3.2 per cent beer as a non-intoxicating and healthful beverage in testimony today to its ways and means committee.

Efforts were made to speed the hearings so the committee can get to work by Tuesday on a bill to submit for passage by the end of next week. This is in line with the democratic program for action by Christmas, if possible.

Representatives Stafford of Wisconsin and Dyer of Missouri, republicans, and Boland (dem., Pa.) led off in favor of Volstead modification; to be followed by Vandell Henderson, of Yale university.

The tall gray-haired professor of physiology said he wanted it understood "that I am an expert on poisons that include alcohol."

With that, he declared "beer of about 4 per cent is not appreciably more intoxicating than an equal volume of coffee."—World-Herald.

LaGuardia Raps at the Brewers and Distillers

Tells Them to Get Out of Washington Test They Kill Repeal—Beer Hearing Animated.

Washington.—A spectacular demand that distillers and brewers "get out and stay out of Washington" was flung at them by Representative LaGuardia of New York before the house ways and means committee in what he describes as a "warning" against abuses that might defeat repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The fiery anti-prohibitionist stalked into the quiet committee room and injected into the hearings on the democratic beer bill what he termed an "unpleasant but truthful statement." He testified after a score of representatives of the brewing and allied industries had told the group that federal revenue, employment and commerce would be improved by the legislation of four percent beer.

LaGuardia banged the witness stand and shouted the brewer "should have no right to help" in drafting a bill effecting the liquor laws. The earlier they left, he said, the better it would be for the anti-prohibition move.

Representative Rainey, democratic floor leader, who was presiding, interrupted with: "We invited them here, you know; they are here at the committee's request."

"Yes, I know that," LaGuardia retorted, "I am just telling you my personal opinion. I want to advise law and abuses of it follow, the eight-wets that if this bill becomes eighth amendment will never be repealed."

LaGuardia was quickly answered by Schafer, Wisconsin, who said he resented the LaGuardia statement. "They came here at the invitation of the committee that is trying to get facts," Schafer bellowed. "You can't get facts from Bishop Cannon, but from those people in the industry who know them."

The flurry near the end of the third day of hearings came as a shock to the representatives of brewers and distillers, the bottle, co-operation, farm and other industries who had spent hours in building up their arguments for the measure.—State Journal.

Sunday Radio Advertising May be Made Illegal

Congress Also to Consider Bills to Promote Educational Programs; Want Free Speech.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Two bills designed to promote educational broadcasting, and a third which would prohibit radio advertising on Sunday, are pending in senate and house committees as the "lame duck" congress gets under way.

A bill introduced by Senator Fess of Ohio provides for the allocation of 15 per cent of the wave lengths in the program broadcasting band to educational institutions or services. Another senate measure, introduced by Metcalf of Rhode Island, calls for the appropriation of money to be used by the federal radio commission in co-operating with states in broadcasting educational programs.

Would Ban Sunday Advertising. Of considerable interest to radio listeners and the general public are a bill banning radio advertising on Sunday and a resolution designed to guarantee free speech in broadcasting, both of which were introduced by Representative Amile of Wisconsin at the last session.

The fact that the Fess bill was not pushed in the previous session is ascribed by educators here to the economic inability of educational radio stations to take advantage of the opportunity to obtain additional broadcasting facilities.

In recent years there has been a marked decrease in the number of college-operated stations, ascribed in large measure to the lack of funds. Some institutions have found affiliation with commercial stations a more feasible and effective method of getting their programs on the air.

Owing to further curtailment of college budgets, it is considered unlikely these institutions will press for enactment of the Fess bill at the present session.

A Special Requirement.

The Metcalf bill would require all broadcasting stations to set aside a minimum of 5 per cent of their time for educational programs prepared by qualified persons. It would appropriate $10,000 annually for four years for the federal radio commission to promote education by radio. Every state would have the power to appoint one of its education officials to co-operate with the commission.

Because of the urgency of more pressing measures and the demand for curtailment of governmental expenditures, prospects for passage of this bill also are considered dubious.

SOUGHT TO KIDNAP CASHTER

Cassopolis, Mich.—State police searched southern Michigan for three men who fled from the home of Charles Ritter, cashier of the Cassopolis State bank, when sheriff's deputies frustrated their plans to kidnap the banker and force him to open the vaults. The men appeared at the Ritter home early Friday, but Ritter was not at home. They settled themselves in the house, telling Ritter's family they would wait until he returned. A deputy sheriff whose suspicions the men had aroused came to the Ritter home, but was overpowered and handcuffed. The would-be robbers fled when two other deputies appeared to investigate the failure of the first officer to return.

State police pursued the men out of Cassopolis and thru Niles, exchanging shots with the fugitives as they went thru Niles. The men eluded the police outside of Niles.

DEMANDS OF FARMERS

Grain districts in Santa Fe and Cordoba provinces were being organized for the march and delegates from the Argentine agrarian federation left here for the grain centers to complete arrangements.

C., student organization which has been banned from the campus. Dr. W. B. Bissell, university president, declared an immediate investigation would be made. Stephens said he was given ten lashes with a rope.
