Dairy Cows Aid in Sustaining the Farmers in Year

Dairy cows have carried thousands of Nebraska farmers through the recent trying years of depressed crop prices, Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific railroad, declared Thursday in his annual report at Lincoln to the Nebraska Dairy Development association.

In the past year, Mr. Gray said, Nebraska producers received $26,000,000 for dairy products, equal to one-third the value of all crops.

"Numerous farmers have admitted to the society's representatives," he said, "that their weekly milk and cream checks have provided them with funds for necessities not raised on the land.

"The subnormal agricultural conditions of 1932 have emphasized the high economic value of the state's dairy industry."

Normal consumption of dairy products has been maintained, he said, and the year closed with dairying in a favorable position. In 1932 dairying was the one industry which produced no exportable surplus.

Bring 453 Sires.

President Gray reviewed activities of the society since its organization in 1924. He said much progress has been made, due in large measure to co-operation of the agricultural extension service, several principal breed associations and other agencies.

Dairy herd improvement associations and boys' and girls' dairy club have increased in membership and the number of animals.

One of the society's principal objects, said Mr. Gray, has been elimination of scrub bulls from dairy herds and introduction of purebred sires. The society has placed on Nebraska farmers in the past nine years 153 high grade dairy bulls. Average production of the dams of these animals is 550 pounds of butterfat a year.

Of great importance to the state, Mr. Gray declared, is continued improvement in production.

He said a large percentage of the $5,000,000 pounds of butter produced in Nebraska last year scored 89 or less, whereas butter scoring 92 is worth 2 to 3 cents more per pound.

Millions Lost.

This represents a loss of several million dollars potential earnings. Higher scoring butter can be produced from cream handled more expertly at the source.

In the nine years of the society's existence, its experts have attended 2,831 meetings in 91 of the 93 counties in the state. Attendance at these meetings was 340,000.

Including the 453 purebred sires the society had distributed 3,748 foundation dairy animals in the state.
