VISITS IN THE CITY

From Tuesday's Daily
Oscar Bates, who resides at Murdock, was in the city today and while here was a caller at the Journal office. Mr. Bates is a service man, having served in the world war in the supply company of the 356 infantry of the 89th division. He spent a year in the service both on the front and later as a member of the army of occupation.

Mr. Bates recently gave a talk before the school at Murdock relating some of his experiences while in Europe, both from his experiences at the front and later his observations of the life and customs of the people of France and Germany. He related in a most interesting manner the way in which the farms of the old world are conducted, the methods of tilling the soil and the sowing and harvesting of the grain crops as well as the great grape growing vineyards of east France and along the Rhine river. One of the interesting observations of Mr. Bates was the irrigation system of the old world where terraces made by small trenches are prepared on the hillside farms, where the rain water is held and instead of flowing down over the fields or vineyards to cause erosion, the water is held and gradually seeps thru the soil to benefit the grass or vines.

Mr. Bates has received many commendations of his talk from those who heard it and he has been urged by others to appear before different bodies and tell of his experiences.

ELECT MRS. McDUFFIE

Mrs. M. S. McDuffie of Norfolk, president of the third district, Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs, was elected Tuesday afternoon as vice president of the state federation. She succeeds Mrs. M. E. Scott of North Platte, who became state president upon the death of Mrs. W. W. Whitfield.

AN APPRECIATION
To the friends and patrons residing in Cass county, I wish to extend my appreciation for the patronage and friendship that has been extended to me in the forty years that I have engaged in the grain business. In serving them for the past forty years as grain and live stock buyer, I have endeavored to deal honestly and fairly with them in every way. It is with regret that I am quitting this line of work, but old age and the abnormal conditions require that I lay aside the daily tasks of the past years and rest until the final summons. I wish to ask for my successor the same patronage and friendship that you have extended to me in the past four years that I have been in the employ of A. B. Wilson, of Nebraska City. I wish to repeat that my gratitude to you is unbounded and I wish you all success in the future.

W. F. GILLISPIE.

DIES AT OMAHA
Miss Elizabeth Cloak, 77, died Monday at the family home, 3902 Florence Boulevard, Omaha. The deceased lady was a sister of the late Mrs. J. C. Coleman of this city and was known to a number of the friends of the Coleman family here. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. J. D. Guild of Omaha, and three nephews, W. F. Guild, W. S. Cloak, Omaha, and Bert Coleman of this city.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday at 10 a. m. at the Crosby mortuary, with interment at the Whipple cemetery at Griswold, Iowa, in the family plot there and where the sister, Mrs. Coleman, is buried.

Woodpile for Ex-Service Men a Legion Activity

State Relief Fund Provides Purchase Cost of Land—Men to Cut and Saw for Own Needs.

A community woodpile for ex-service men out of employment or able to give part time to cutting their own fuel has been provided through cooperation of the service committee of Hugh Kearns post, American Legion, headed by County Judge Duxbury, and financial aid secured thru the state relief committee handling the distribution of relief funds available to ex-service men.

The state committee set the rule last fall that it would not allow any money for purchase of fuel, where beneficiaries were able to cut wood for themselves, but would allow up to $50 expense for purchase of timberland, cost of gasoline for sawing the felled trees and such incidental expense, thus permitting the securing of large quantities of wood for little more than might be paid out to provide fuel to a limited few.

At the last meeting of the local Legion post, it was decided to investigate the plan of the state committee and if possible secure a woodpile for Plattsmouth ex-service men. The committee got busy and accepted bids on various timber acreage, accepting a plot of heavily wooded ground west of Mynard belonging to the Vallery sisters as the best buy.

The plan is to have all ex-service men who desire to secure wood for their own use, take part in the work of cutting the same, after which it will be sawed by power and proportionate shares distributed to the various workers in accordance with the number of hours spent in the work. Some will be retained for distribution to the widows of service men and disabled comrades who are unable to aid with the work, but there will be ample wood to supply not only this winter's needs, but next year's as well.

The first trip to the new wood lot will be made tomorrow morning around 8 o'clock and transportation for a limited number may be provided, if they gather at the Ofe oil station ready to go. Only axes will be needed the first day.

The commander, adjutant, service officer and comrades Leo Boynton and Clyde Jackson comprise the committee charged with handling the woodpile promotion, and it is announced that all ex-service men who have time to cut their own wood will be permitted to work on the share arrangement plan that allows a part for sawing and hauling and a small surplus to provide for disabled comrades or the widows of deceased ex-service men who may be in need of wood. All that is necessary to get the wood is to work at cutting it and be an honorably discharged war veteran.

Later on, a lot will probably be secured in town for the storage of surplus and emergency rations.

Any ex-service man in need of wood and able to spend time in the timber cutting it is advised to see either Leo Boynton or Clyde Jackson for transportation arrangements to and from the timberland—a distance of some nine miles from town.

BISHOP SHAYLER HERE
From Monday's Daily
The Right Rev. Bishop E. V. Shaylor of the Episcopal Diocese of Nebraska was the preacher at a special service at the Episcopal church yesterday. He administered confirmation to two candidates who had been prepared for this rite by the rector. An instruction given by the bishop to the candidates emphasized the note of fellowship in life, "we are all members one of another" both in our religious aspirations and in our community experiences. The sermon urged the necessity of recognizing God in order to regain confidence and keep up hope. The text was a verse from the Psalms "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." While the devout Christian does not expect to escape trouble he is assured that in all the circumstances of life he will find Divine support and never lose the certainty of eventual relief. The lack of such assurance leaves men in despair and leads to every kind of mental and physical breakdown. To know that behind us there is the strength of God for the asking and that "underneath are the everlasting arms" will make trouble and difficulty contribute toward the development of a strong character and deeper trust. The bishop visited friends in Union in the afternoon and lectured in the Union church in the evening.
