The way the senate is discussing the farm bill leads us to believe the honeymoon is over.

And another welcome thing the new administration seems to be giving us is a Bunk holiday.

When a man leaves a sign and says he has done his best, he is usually trying to fool his conscience.

The Japs have killed enough Chinese and taken sufficient new territory now to be in a position to demand another apology.

Approximately 250 million persons, or 20 per cent of the entire adult population of the world, have myopia, or nearsightedness.

The Iberia (Mo.) Sentinel knows a man who is keeping and supporting three wives—and he is not a bigamist. They are his own, his son's and his married daughter.

Two of the upper officials of the defunct Bank of the United States in New York have started their prison terms, and doubtless are being taught useful trades.

A specialist has figured out that in another 500 years all men will be totally bald. Well, it should be considerable consolation to many now to be 500 years in advance of the times.

The Toledo Blade believes if more of the White editorials from the Emporia Gazette could find their way into the Congressional Record, the latter publication might yet become interesting.

Dean Frank Martin of the school of journalism at the University of Missouri reports that of the 450 residents of China, less than 10 per cent can read or write. We regret to think of the little Chinese children who never heard a bedtime story.

Walking races will be featured in the next Olympic games, according to present plans. There should be some mighty fine walking talent available by that time, as virtually the entire race will be on its feet—in a pedestrian sense as opposed to a motorized sense—by the end of the current Olympiad.

VALUELESS DOLLARS

It probably never occurs to most of us that there is such a thing as valueless money. And it isn't counterfeit either. Millions of honest and legitimate good dollars in this country are now absolutely valueless and useless.

This is the money that drops out of circulation. It is hoarded money. Its owners keep it in safe deposit boxes or in teapots or buried in the back yard.

Money has no intrinsic value—its value is determined by what it can do when it is working. When out of work, it is as useless as would be a number of similar sized pieces of tin. It isn't paying taxes or meeting dividends or employing labor or buying supplies. It isn't doing its part in keeping the wheels of enterprise turning.

There are two distinct ways of putting money back into circulation. One is depositing it in commercial or savings accounts in banks, or purchasing government or other high-grade securities. The other is by buying a used article or effecting necessary repairs. And this way is the best of all. The money spent serves a double purpose. It provides employment and alleviates distress—and it obtains for the spender the supplies and repairs at the lowest prices since pre-war days.

Put at least part of the dollar into furnace renovation, into a new roof or other house repairs or paint, into some labor saving appliance, into plumbing or yard work. You'll get about twice the value you'd have got three years ago—and you will have helped the cause of recovery.

America needs more jobs and less charity. It needs more spending—wise spending, that gets honest and permanent values in return.

Remember that right now "investment and employment are cheaper than charity."

HITLER AND THE JEWS

Hitler's government, Hitler's party, by brutal and inhuman persecution, already has inflicted shocking punishment upon the 600 thousand Jews of Germany. It has inflicted shocking punishment upon the conscience of all civilization. And if it continues its cruel policy it can end only in shocking punishment for Germany itself.

"I do not know the method of drawing up an indictment against a whole people," said Burke, the British patriot, in his speech on conciliation with America more than 150 years ago. Hitlerism audaciously pretends to do more. It levels an indictment against a whole great race of people that was civilized when the rest of us were barbarous, and that has borne the banner of culture and enlightenment proudly and with distinction since the beginning of recorded history.

In Germany Hitlerism seeks to deny to that race the right to live by denying to it the right to earn a living and by denying to its children the right to an education in the schools. And throughout the world it seeks to deny to it even the poor right of indigna protest, with the threat of still more cruel persecution of the German Jews unless protest is gagged and the voice of compassion stifled.

No dictatorship, however absolute, however buttressed with power, can long continue so contemptible a policy and hope to survive. Either the dictatorship will or must yield or fall, or the great German people, its dupes and its victims, will pay a frightful penalty along with the ignorant mopehead who is driving them into the fiery pit. The world views such a prospect appalled and profoundly pitiful. The Germans of Germany no more deserve that fate than do the Jews of Germany. All alike, since the fateful year of 1914, have been called upon to suffer to the limit of human endurance. There should be an end to agony, an end to hatred and fear and violent and persecution. The bruised and bleeding heart of humanity yearns for it and for a return to the ways of love and brotherhood and peace. Against the compelling force of that yearning Hitler with all his brown shirts will contend in vain and with disaster assured.

There is a hopeful sign that organized brutality has seen, already, the handwriting on the wall. It is the order that the boycott enforced Saturday be discontinued until Wednesday. Just how much that means is not clear. Apparently it indicates no revocation of the policy that drives Jews from the law court, from the hospitals, from the schools, from the orchestras and theaters, from the many lines of activity and service in which they are eminent. But—if there are no further protests from abroad, if there is abject submission at home—they may be permitted to carry on business in their shops and stores. That isn't much. It is a ludicrous armistice of a ghastly sort, a measure of the inferior intelligence that prompts it. But it is something. For it is a gesture of deference, however awkward and sullenly given, to the aroused conscience of mankind. Into the strange mind of the tyrant the idea must be penetrating that the wrong done to his helpless victims may recoil with tenfold deadliness upon his own head.

With sympathy and pity for all the people of Germany—sympathy and pity tempered by a lively sense of outrage—the world awaits the unfolding of this tragic drama. But there is no pity that can withhold stern and certain retribution unless there is an early end to the abhorrent wickedness of the Nazi leadership.—World-Herald.

Friendship must be kept in good repair, or it may fail to function when you need it most.

One economist says America is now in her healing stage. We hope this means there will be no more cuts.

HOLD FINE MEETING

The Four-Mile Community club met March 28th at the home of Mrs. John Wehrlein.

The meeting was opened by the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, followed by roll call, after which the leaders demonstrated bread making and the different kinds of rolls. At the close of the demonstration the leaders served the baked rolls and bread to the members. They were surely delicious.

Mrs. Hunter sent the club members a note of thanks for the potted plant sent her while she was at the hospital. We are glad to say she is home and gaining her health again.

The election of officers was held and plans discussed for the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. L. G. Meisinger.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments of chicken pie and salad were served by the hostesses Mrs. Henry Bora, Mrs. Sterling Ingwersen and Mrs. Wehrlein.

The club members gave Mr. John Wehrlein a surprise party March 25 in honor of his fifty-first birthday.

The evening was spent playing cards and visiting and enjoying the very fine lunch served by Mrs. John Wehrlein assisted by Mrs. Will Wehrlein.

After wishing Mr. Wehrlein many happy returns of the day the guests departed for home.

TO MY SWEETHEART

I'm paying my court to a sweet little elf,
That I met at a friend's here in town,
Where I "drop in" each evening politeness permits,
In spite of her daddy's grim frown.

For he doesn't seem to be appreciating how
I've fallen dead flat for her charms;
And one night he came in and acted real "peevish";
When he found her wrapped up in my arms.

Her eyes are like dew drops a-shimmer with light,
And her cheeks damask roses would shame;
Her lips like twin cherries, dead ripe and inviting,
A risk one might take without blame.

I've christened her "Pet," and the folks call her "Babe";
But I think I had ought to say
That she's not a girl, but a twenty pound boy—
And he's just eight months old today.

Improves Property.

The lots which are owned by B. Golding of Plattsmouth, and where the buildings were torn down last winter, has just been graced by a picket fence which was constructed by Sam Baker, for G. R.
