

Weeping Water

Mrs. Paul Kirk was assisting with the work at the Mayme Hillman coffee shoppe a portion of this week.

W. J. Patterson, of Murray, was visiting with friends in Weeping Water on last Tuesday, and also tarried briefly at Manley.

Charles Findley, who has an offer to go elsewhere to work, considered the offer made by H. K. Frantz and decided to stay here, being now engaged in the new store of Mr. Frantz as a clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Michelsen and son, Buddy, were in Blair last Sunday, where they spent the day with relatives and friends, making the trip to and from the Washington county seat town in their car.

The Hobson Funeral Home and the residence of Mr. Hobson have just received a new coat of paint which adds much to the appearance of the property as well as protecting the wood from the elements.

H. K. Frantz and family were in Nehawka last Sunday, where they were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Sturm and with the Sturm family enjoyed the Masonic Round-Up which was held on the shady lawn of the Nehawka schools.

P. H. Miller was a visitor at Pawnee City last Tuesday morning, driving down early and looking after some business, and returning later, but the return trip proved to be a very warm one with the mercury well above the 100 mark.

A new lattice-work partition has been placed in the room occupied by the Quality Cleaners, separating the front part of the building from the work room. W. D. Love, the carpenter, built the latticework and Henry Lempe has been painting it.

Clyde Jenkins, of Manley, who is well known in this vicinity, has accepted a position at the C. H. Gibson grocery store, where he is right at home, having been engaged in mercantile pursuits for many years. Mr. Gibson was fortunate in securing an excellent man as Mr. Jenkins.

J. J. Meier was a delegate to the convention of the Congregational church at Lincoln last Tuesday and was accompanied by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Ralph Pinkham. They enjoyed the meeting and came back with numerous new ideas for church welfare that had been expounded there.

The Rev. E. S. Pangborn, pastor of the Methodist churches at Weeping Water and Nehawka, was over to the latter place to conduct the funeral of the little three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Taylor of that place. The Hobson Funeral Home had charge of the funeral and brot the body of the little lad to Weeping Water, where they prepared it for burial. Interment was in the beautiful cemetery at Mt. Pleasant.

The name, "O. G. Cogilizer, Jeweler and Optician, Weeping Water, Nebraska," appears on the face of the clock at the Weeping Water post-office. This clock, which stands as a sentinel to tell all who may desire the correct time of day, and direct all to their appointed avocation, was placed in the postoffice many years ago, and there are now many people in Weeping Water who do not even remember the donor of the clock, but it still goes ticking faithfully on.

Get a Good Ducking
A number of those who, when they go to a dance, think they must have a few nips from a bottle, have been wont to go out and congregate below the window of a woman who believes in keeping her yard free from those who would use it as a place to drink, met with a surprise when the lady prepared a pail of water and when the boys came out for their customary drink, toppled the pail and they received a good drenching, which prevented some of them from returning to the dance.

Enjoyed Visit in South
Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Pangborn who have been spending some two weeks in southern Kansas, the former home of Rev. Pangborn, where his parents still reside, arrived home last Saturday. They enjoyed every minute of their time and while they hated to leave the old familiar scenes of earlier life, it seemed good to be back in Weeping Water.

Will Spend Summer in West
Art Johnson and Elmer Loberg and sister, of Lamoni, Iowa, accompanied by two of her children, departed the fore part of this week for Los Angeles, where they are expecting to remain until early in September, reversing the usual procedure of going to California for the winter.

Joy Comes to Home
The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Meyers, the cleaner, who advertises friendly service, was visited on last Monday night by that jolly old bird, the stork, who left a fine baby girl with the happy parents. All are getting along nicely.

Making Improvement to Property

Mrs. Dora Rainey, who owns the property where she resides and also the place where P. H. Miller has his cream station, concluded that the places would look better if painted, and realizing that a good coat of paint is the best insurance that can be bought, has had the work begun. Her son, John Rainey, of Omaha, and his friend, Gust Ruge, are doing the work, which when completed will add to the appearance and value of the property.

Dramatic Club Picnics.

The Weeping Water Dramatic club went to Louisville on Friday of last week, where, along the shores of the sandpit lakes at the state recreation grounds, they enjoyed a werner roast and a picnic supper. A splendid time was had by all.

Getting Ready for More Work

The stone interests of Weeping Water are getting ready for a greater output than they have as yet been able to make and are having a force of surveyors locate the land they recently purchased, when they will begin stripping the soil from over the stratas of stone they wish to remove. With the large federal appropriation being granted the various states for road work, indications are for an unprecedented demand for crushed stone as soon as the new work gets under way in July and the local concern intends to be ready to handle their share of the same.

Promoting a Free Dance

Bill Johnson has been giving dances in the hall on Thursday nights that have been enjoyed very much by the young people who enjoy tripping the light fantastic. Last week he had the celebrated orchestra which is managed by Eddie Noel and which has attracted much attention by their splendid playing. A dance is on a program for each succeeding Thursday night, to be free and provided for by contributions of the people who are interested in the enjoyment of the young people of Weeping Water and vicinity.

Takes Mother Home

Mrs. N. P. Kirk, of Max, Nebraska, who has been at the hospital in Omaha, was released the last of the week and taken home by her son, Paul Kirk, of Weeping Water, last Monday. It was a pleasure for Paul to assist the mother in her trip back home and to know that she was so much improved from her former condition.

Has Finely Appointed Place

Miss Mayme Hillman, proprietor of the Coffee Shoppe, has just completed the re-arrangement of her place of business and sure has a very fine eating place. The room was entirely re-decorated, new floor covering procured and booths arranged where one can eat in privacy. The colorings of the walls, the furniture and the floor covering harmonize nicely and produce a very pleasant effect.

Miss Hillman has been engaged in the business of feeding the hungry for some time and has ever been intent on giving the best of service. To this end she has improved her place of business in every possible way to provide tasty food for those who come to eat and these latest improvements and additions have made it one of the finest appointed eating places in Cass county.

Weeping Water has many good places to eat, among them the cafes of Miss Hillman and C. Wally Johnson, the Bungalow Inn, conducted by Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Birdsall, Laurel hotel by Mrs. Joan Carter and the Rest Haven hotel, conducted by Mrs. E. E. Day. With all these, there is no excuse for anyone visiting the town going away hungry.

Can you remember when the woman spoke of her husband as "my" man instead of "the" man? Those were the golden days.

Those persons careless enough to drive without proper insurance should get no sympathy when they have an accident. . . They know they need insurance!

A. J. P. Bertschy is Called to Last Adventure

Inventor and Promotion Genius Found Dead Near Home in Omaha—One Time Resident Here.

A. J. P. Bertschy, 58, who has occupied a thirty year period as inventor and promoter in this section of Nebraska, was found dead Tuesday morning in front of his residence, 2309 Perkins avenue, East Omaha.

The death of Mr. Bertschy was attributed to heart trouble and bronchial pneumonia. He had been suffering from asthma for some time and apparently had suffered a hemorrhage sometime Monday night and started out to his car, falling and bleeding to death.

In recent years Mr. Bertschy has been engaged in the attempt to locate an oil well in the vicinity of Omaha, having invented a device that he had claimed would unfailingly locate the oil stream and in many places in Douglas and Sarpy counties he had claimed to have found the most favorable traces of oil. This was his last travel into the inventive field in which he had spent a lifetime of experiment and in the promotion of the various lines that he had been engaged in.

The first appearance of this strange figure was some thirty years ago when he arrived in Council Bluffs with a truck, equipped with many devices that were then far ahead of their time and have now become a part of the standard auto equipment. He was able to induce Council Bluffs men to back him financially and a building was erected and for several years he was engaged in the auto business only to see it fail and he turned his attention to other lines of activity. The auto activity was followed by Bertschy in the developing of a radio tube and later he promoted a company to manufacture oxy-acetylene welding equipment, which had a large sale. Later he abandoned his other activities to try and develop a process for hardening steel.

Following the close of the war, Mr. Bertschy was a resident of Plattsmouth for a period of a few years, operating the plant and machine shop that had been erected by the late Lee C. Sharp. This plant operating for a time was soon abandoned as had many of the other lines of activity of Mr. Bertschy and his attention was then turned to the oil field and followed by his invention of the oil finder, the last of his inventions.

Mr. Bertschy was married four times, his present wife residing in California. He is survived also by two adopted children, Mrs. Chauncey Cook of Omaha, and Robert Bertschy, a naval officer, now stationed at Honolulu.

SCOUTS TAKE NIGHT HIKE

The local Boy Scouts last evening started out on a night hike that had as its destination King Hill, near the old town of Rock Bluffs. The members of the troop carried their equipment for an overnight camp and were to enjoy the stay out in the open which lent a spirit of real adventure to the occasion for the members of the camping party. The occasion was one that the members of the troop will remember with pleasure and the hot weather conditions made their stay in the open very pleasant as well as the preparation of the morning meal by the Scouts in their own way, out in the open. However on the return of the Scouts the family larder suffered a sudden raid from the hungry members of the troop.

FORMER RESIDENT HERE

The Misses Gering are entertaining a very interesting guest this week, Mrs. Petite Siggins Hooker, widow of Col. Hooker of Arizona. Mrs. Hooker is a daughter of Dr. E. L. Siggins (deceased) who at one time was a practicing physician in Plattsmouth and whom no doubt the older residents remember.

Since Col. Hooker's death a number of years ago, Mrs. Hooker has had the sole management of the famous Hooker Ranch (crooked H brand) of over 100,000 acres, with 60 miles of fence, near Phoenix, Arizona, raising nothing but high bred cattle, and one of the largest shippers of this kind of stock to markets in the U. S. The "Hooker Ranch" is one of the show places of Arizona and has entertained many distinguished guests. Mrs. Hooker is returning from a visit at the home of her brother, Ernest Siggins in New York City, a high official with the General Motors Co.

RECEIVE PLEASANT NEWS

From Wednesday's Daily
This morning Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Arnold of this city received the announcement of the happy fact that they were grandparents of a fine ten pound grandson, born early today to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Arnold. The mother and child are doing nicely and the occasion has brought a great deal of happiness to the delighted parents, this being the first child in the family. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold are making their home at Shenandoah, Iowa, where Mr. Arnold is engaged with the Ear. E. May Co., and also as a radio entertainer. The many friends here will join in their well wishes for the future happiness and success of the young man.
