Farmers are Rallying to New Livestock Group

To Co-Ordinate Farmers, Not Deplore Plight, According to A. D. Majors.

Omaha, Neb.—Uniting under the banner of the newly formed United States Live Stock association, thousands of dirt farmers in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys and in the mountainous range country farther west are banding together to follow leaders who stand for constructive measures, instead of promoting the "plight" of the farmer. President A. D. Majors of the association said here.

The association promises to become one of the strongest of all agrarian groups. Organizers working in all western states reported that the real dirt farmer is eager to join after the purpose of the movement has been explained to them.

Associated with Majors in the work are such agrarian leaders as Joe Mercer, Kansas; James Tod, president of the Kansas City Live Stock association; P. R. Low, Tarkio, Mo., one of the country's most extensive land owners; Jewell Mayes, Missouri's secretary of agriculture; Howard Gramlich, Nebraska university animal husbandry head; Dan Hildebrand, president of the Nebraska Feeders association and W. T. Waugh, Pleasant Hill, Ill.

Many organizations, including the national livestock exchange, have approved the purposes of the new organization. The national controls 85 percent of all livestock produced in this country.

"We plan," said Majors, "to substitute for unpractical minority representation the true voice of the majority of dirt farmers in all business, legislative and political matters."

"Our organization is neither militant nor revolutionary in its aims. Our chief purpose is to co-ordinate and expand the work of numerous older live stock and agricultural associations by means of a national group that will enable the real farmer and stockman to have something to say about matters which vitally affect his welfare."

"Our representatives now are in Washington, where they will attempt to work with the agricultural department in carrying out provisions of the Roosevelt farm relief program particularly as they apply to marketing."

"Among other movements with which we plan to concern ourselves are the reorganization and reduction in live stock freight rates, restoration of all public market transportation privileges, and the elimination of any and all interference with the normal functioning of the law of supply and demand in establishing prices for agricultural products."

Majors is president of the Omaha Livestock Exchange. One of the chief issues to be battled for immediately is the elimination of direct buying by packers of live stock.

By so doing, Majors contends, the packers are breaking down the open price system. When livestock is sold in this manner the big packers do not have to compete for purchases, and the competitive system becomes inoperative, he pointed out. Direct buying, used at first only in the case of hogs, now has spread to cattle and sheep, he said.—State Journal.

ATTACK MADE ON MINISTER

Bentonville, Ark.—A man believed to be from Pittsburg, Kas., was held in jail here after an alleged attack on the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Waits, former Valparaiso, Neb., residents, at their Sulphur Springs, Ark., summer home. Mr. Waits, retired Methodist minister, said the man, apparently intoxicated, appeared at his home in a motorcar and drove twice around the house, brandishing a pistol. He then ordered Mr. Waits and his wife to the front door.

"He tried to force me to take a drink of whiskey," Mr. Waits told police, "then shot at my feet when I refused. He left after I refused to get in his car."

The man was captured later by officers after a free-for-all fight in which the suspect was struck over the head with a shotgun and disarmed. He first gave his name as Harry Russell of Pittsburg, but the driver's license of his car was issued to J. L. Dukes of Pittsburg. Neither Mr. or Mrs. Waits were injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Campbell, of Mintare, Nebraska, who have been here visiting at the home of Mrs. Campbell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bajack, as well as at South Bend with the relatives of Mr. Campbell, returned today to their home in the west.

LIBERTY

We dream of the crags where the mountain goats rest, And the peaks they so quickly ascend in quest, Of food and shelter they quietly seek.

Where the air is crisp and cool and grottos bleak.

The eagle soars in the azure blue, And faces the sunset all tinted with hue, And laughs at the storm cloud that lowers its crest.

To moisten the rose crimsoned heather at rest.

The waves of the season tossing high, With no restraint do they brook a sigh

As the sea girl rides on the crest of the waves, And drinks with delight the sweets that it craves.

Bound with cords and fears of today, Humanity is seeking to find a way,

To loosen its shackles that hold it so tight, And liberate itself from this tragic plight.

Fear holds mankind in its cruel grasp, Until liberated by "truth" which tears off the mask

And lets in the sunshine, that dispells the gloom, Brushing away the cobwebs like a new brush broom.

Let loose of all habits that make you a slave, And beat you with stripes you do not crave.

For "Liberty" shivers like the morning star, Guiding the mariner from the sandy bar.

The rain drop that moistens the parched earth, Does it without fear or restraint to mirth,

It drops in the river and flows to the sea, And wrestles with others that depart on the sea. "T"

PEAK OF MILK PRODUCTION

Nebraska dairy cows hit their peak in production in May, E. C. Scheidhelm, extension dairyman at the college of agriculture, said in his monthly report.

Butterfat production in dairy herd improvement associations jumped to 33.9 pounds per cow, an increase of 3.9 percent over the previous month. A drop, however, is anticipated this month. Conditions among Nebraska dairymen, nevertheless looked up in May, as there was an increased demand for breeding stock.

The Platte Valley association led all similar organizations in Nebraska for butterfat production in May. Nemaha-Richardson was second and Hamilton-Hall-Merrick third. "Martha," a Holstein cow owned by D. D. Thayer, of Monroe, was the high producing animal in the state for the month. She gave 3,035 pounds of milk which netted 110 pounds of butterfat.

Union Rail Men in Flat Refusal to Take Pay Cut

Demand of Executives Characterized as a Bluff by Spokesmen for Railway Unions.

Chicago.—Union railroad workers of the country announced flatly they would accept no reduction in wages and characterized the roads' demand for a 22 1-2 percent slice as "just a bluff." Going even further, Chairman Alexander P. Whitney, of the Railway Labor Executives' association, declared he expected a 10 percent deduction from pay envelopes to be discontinued next Nov. 1.

"I doubt whether the unions ever will be called upon seriously to accept such a cut," Whitney said. "About 90 percent of the railroads probably will be patriotic enough to go along with President Roosevelt's program of maintaining wages. The present 10 percent deduction, to which it is now suggested at 12 1-2 percent be added, expires at midnight next Oct. 31," Whitney said. "At that time wages go back to a 100 per cent basis under existing agreements which do not call for any conference on the matter."

Altho not commenting officially on Whitney's statement, executives of major railroad lines indicated they would grant no concessions in their demands, but the 10 percent reduction be replaced with a 22 1-2 permanent reduction "and thus bring the wage level more into line with the present cost of living and the levels of other industries."

The position of all of the fifteen union leaders attending the executives' conference was that improving business, inflation and the national administration's program in general justified higher pay, not cuts. After expressing themselves on the wage matter, the union heads turned to consideration of the national railway bill under which Joseph B. Eastman has been named co-ordinator of the railroad industry.

Delegates expressed wholehearted accord with the bill and said the unions would co-operate with Eastman. Whitney said he understood one section of the bill provided that labor should not be disturbed and that he understood it to mean the pay, number and classification of employees would not be changed.

Whitney made no definite statement about whether the union representatives would meet with the Railway Executives' association to discuss the wage matter on July 12, as requested by the roads. The contract for the 10 percent deduction ending Nov. 1 provided the roads could serve notice of intent to change the basic scale any time between July 15 and Nov. 1. They took that action Thursday.—State Journal.

4-H CLUB MEETS

A very interesting meeting of the Sunnyside Girl's room club was held here.

We answered the roll call by showing pictures of curtains that would be suitable to our rooms and later practiced judging linen.

Mildred Cacy ably gave a demonstration on "Measuring Windows for Glass Curtains."

Eleanor Giles played a very pretty French harp solo and her accompaniment was by her mother, Mrs. Ernest Giles.

After this we had a brief study of parliamentary law, which was educational to all.

The patchwork pillows are expected to be finished by our next meeting, June 22.

FORT CROOK FARMER SUICIDE

Leo Hood, 49, well-to-do farmer of Fort Crook, shot himself to death early Friday night in a clump of trees near his farm home. Ill health is blamed.

Hood and his family lived with his father-in-law, T. E. Gledhill, one of the wealthiest landowners of Sarpy county. Walter Anderson, farm hand, said Hood had been complaining of nosebleeds and headaches, and remarked Thursday that he "couldn't stand it much longer."

However, Friday night he milked the cows as usual, and then put the milk away. Evidently he went at once to the clump of trees where his body later was found. His wife, Inez, heard a shot about this time, and remarked to her father that he should see if hunters were active out of season. When Hood failed to show up for supper, Gledhill investigated, and found the body. A charge had gone through the heart, and nearby was a forked stick which may have been used to pull the trigger.

Gledhill and County Attorney Ralph Nickerson agreed it was suicide, and no inquest will be held. Hood is survived besides his wife by one son, Leo Thomas, and two daughters, Inez Dorothy and Anna Katherine, all at home; a brother, Richard, justice of the peace at Bellevue, and two sisters, Miss Lucy of Bellevue and Mrs. Mary Tipton of Flagstaff, Ariz.

LAST MEET OF SUMMER

From Thursday's Daily
The directors of the Chamber of Commerce held their last meeting of the summer this noon at the Brown cafe and with a large attendance of the members present. This was the last meeting until September for the Chamber, they postponing any further session during the remainder of the heated term. The Chamber of Commerce had the pleasure of having with them as a guest, Lyle L. Horton, who has just opened a funeral home in this city.

RAILS TO SEEK 12 1-2 PER CENT SLASH IN WAGES

New York, June 14.—Dow, Jones & Co. today said that the railroads had decided to seek an additional 12½ per cent wage cut and that notices to this effect would be sent tomorrow to the four principal railway brotherhoods.

The proposed cut would be additional to the 10 per cent reduction from the basis rates under which the railway employes are now working.

The four leading brotherhoods are the engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors.

It is expected that notices of the reduction will be sent to other groups later.

"No" Says Robertson.

Cleveland, June 14.—David B. Robertson, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, today said any further wage reduction by the railroads "cannot be justified" and that his brotherhood would "decline to grant" any further decrease.
