SUFFERS FROM THE MUMPS

Stephen Davis, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Searl S. Davis, has been confined to his home since Tuesday with the mumps, that malady that has affected so many of the households of the city. The Davis family had planned a vacation trip but the illness of the son has made necessary the change in the plans and the remaining at home for the present at least. Corbin, a younger son, has just recently recovered from the malady.

TROUBLED WITH DOPE FIENDS

The police officers have been troubled in the past few days with a number of canned heat and drug addicts that have visited the city and kept the officers busy in rounding them up. Mitchell Freed of Income Tax Fraud Charges

Jury Trying Banker Gives Verdict in 24 Hours—Mitchell Is Deeply Moved.

New York, June 22.—Charles E. Mitchell was acquitted today on all counts in the indictment which charged him with income tax evasion. The jury which had heard the government charges that Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank, had cheated the government in 1929 and 1930 of more than $50 thousand dollars in income taxes, took the case at 11:25 a. m. yesterday.

It returned the verdict a little more than 24 hours later. The charges against Mitchell, who for many years was one of the most powerful figures in the banking world, were briefly that he had illegally failed to report a payment of $66,666.67 from the National City company in 1929, and that he had made sham stock sales to make it appear that he had suffered such heavy income loss that he owed no tax in 1929 and 1930.

The stock sale in 1929 was to Mitchell's wife, and the one in 1930 to W. D. Thornton, president of the Greehe Cananea Copper company.

The jury had been instructed that it could convict or acquit on all the charges together, or could convict or acquit on any one charge.

The jury returned for instructions three times, once yesterday and twice today. It was at the conclusion of the third appearance of the jury in the courtroom that the verdict of acquitting Mitchell on all counts was returned.

Leaps to Feet. Mitchell leaped to his feet as he heard the words, "Not guilty" pronounced in a low voice by James K. Campbell, foreman, and grabbed the hand of Max D. Steuer, his counsel. His face was fiery red, his eyes filled with tears. With Steuer he left the courtroom while the jurors were still in the box.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard requested the jurors not to discuss the case publicly and dismissed them. "I can't talk now—I'm too moved," Mitchell said as the crowd pressed around him as he left the courtroom. In the brief moment before Mitchell left the court room, Mrs. George Z. Medalle, wife of the federal prosecutor, crossed over and smilingly shook hands with him and his attorney.

With Steuer, he disappeared in the anteroom where he had spent the hours waiting for the verdict.

Hits Mob Psychology. Steuer made this statement: "This verdict proves that in the state of New York justice can still be had by the verdict of a jury; that neither mob psychology nor emotion will enter the final determination. "Mr. Mitchell was absolutely innocent of the accusations made against him as a result of what was deemed popular demand.

"After a prosecution which followed a most exhaustive search and the exercise of the greatest diligence on the part of the prosecutor, who presented his case with as great ability as I have ever witnessed, the jury nevertheless saw the truth and decided accordingly."—World-Herald.

SUFFERS INJURED ARM

From Saturday's Daily
E. C. Harris, the laundryman, last evening suffered a painful accident while on a picnic party with his family and a number of friends. Mr. Harris had the right forearm cut severely while he was assisting in the preparation of the lunch, a bottle that he was opening, breaking and a large section of the glass entered the arm and inflicted the wound. It was necessary to have medical assistance to close the wound.

CONTINUES ABOUT SAME

The reports from the hospital at Omaha are to the effect that Chris Metzger, who was operated on Monday morning, was holding his own very nicely, altho in the last two days he has shown the effects of the severe operation and has suffered to a greater or less extent, but which was not thought to be dangerous. It is hoped that in the next few days that he may be far enough along on the highway to recovery to show decided improvement.

BONUS ARMY HOST ACCUSED

Johnstown, Pa.—Mayor McCloskey, host to the "bonus army" after the Washington campaign last year, was held for the grand jury on charges of inciting to riot and aggravated assault and battery. He is accused of punching on the jaw Leon Bennett, director of poor relief, during a demonstration at relief headquarters on June 5.

The mayor, acting as his own attorney, denied the charge and said Bennett did the punching, but Alderman Reese ordered McCloskey to put up $2,500 bail and let the grand jury decide. Bennett testified at a two hour hearing that the mayor led a delegation of seventy-five unemployed to the relief offices to ask why they were not getting aid. Punches were distributed before the matter was discussed, he said.

Reserve Officers Training Corps on the Range

Student Officers Now in Camp at Fort Crook to Be Here Coming Week for Range Work.

Representatives of the Universities of Iowa and Nebraska and Creighton university, who are members of the reserve officers training corps, will be at the local U. S. rifle range the coming week for their practice.

The student officers will be put through a strenuous course of shooting in rifle and machine gun practice while on the range and they will also have a taste of regular field service in camping on the range during the time that they will be there.

There will be the regular army instructors to supervise the work of the student officers and they will be given a thorough course of problems and range work to fit them for the tasks that they might at a future time be called upon to undertake in case of active service in the field.

The visit of the student officers should add to the social life of the city as many of them, particularly from the University of Nebraska, have friends here in the students and who will have the opportunity of visiting with the young men while they are here.

COCHRAN NOT RESIGNING

State Engineer Cochran, according to news from Washington, is not eligible to be state administrator of the public work act in Nebraska unless he resigns from his state position. Cochran smiled broadly and gave no sign that he intended to resign his state position when questioned Friday. The state administrator of public works for the federal government may receive a salary of $10,000, but the position is held at the pleasure of the president, and is limited to a two year period. Architect Latenser of Omaha has been mentioned for the place. State Senator McCarter of Bayard would like to be deputy state administrator. Senator Thompson has not yet divulged the names of three persons he expects to endorse for the place.

Cochran said Clifford Shoemaker, federal district engineer, had been called to Washington, indicating word might be available soon on the federal road program. He expected Shoemaker would bring back some information as to how the road program will be developed in this state. Nebraska is to get about $8,500,000.

Governor Bryan was not ready to name his three recommendations as federal works administrator in Nebraska but said he was familiar with the federal government's plans.

"The government wants direct connection with the works," he said, "instead of going thru another governmental unit. But it would not be proper for me to discuss a newspaper report." He referred to a Washington dispatch which said that Senator Thompson said Bryan would recommend three men from whom the state administrator would be chosen. Bryan said he would make no recommendation until after some official action is announced by federal authorities.

HOPPERS UNDER CONTROL

Grasshopper infestation in the western Nebraska territory this year will not be serious, and local people will be able to handle any danger of damage to crops, says O. S. Bare of the agricultural college extension service.

The entomologist had been in the west end of the state, holding beekeepers meetings sponsored by local county farm bureaus. While there he investigated hopper infestation. The insects are hatching in some scattered areas but the situation is far from serious, he said.

Bare will be dispatched to the northeastern section of the state Monday by director Brokaw of the extension service to co-operate with other authorities now there to help farmers control hopper infestation. A carload of poison bran mash was to arrive in Ainsworth Friday to be distributed to Keya Paha county farmers. Bare will hold meetings in that county and explain proper methods of spreading the poison.

In the western Nebraska territory prospects for a good 1933 honey crop are good. Bare reported. The yellow sweet clover bloom is out and honey flow is just starting. Practically none of the 1932 crop is available in that section.
