Don Crosser, the owner of the Garage of Murray, was a visitor in Omaha last Monday where he went for a load of the celebrated D-X gasoline which he is selling.

The Murray State bank was closed during the day on the Fourth and some of the other houses during the afternoon, they remaining open for the morning, that all might be fed.

The Murray Transfer company has been exceedingly busy with their work as they haul corn for the shellers during the day and stock at night, which makes long days and keeps the boys from growing old.

Earl Lancaster was shelling corn last Monday and Tuesday, delivering same to the Murray Farmers Elevator and found a good price as well as a fine opportunity to get the shelling done and the corn marketed. The shelling was done by the Richter Brothers. There was some 6,000 bushels of the cereal.

Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Tyson are away for a two weeks vacation visiting with many of their friends and relatives and as well seeing some of the sights at the cooler places during the extreme hot weather. During the time they are away Dr. G. H. Gilmore, the veteran practitioner, is looking after the practice.

Henry Heebner, who has a number of gardens, is kept busy with the cultivation of them and at the same time he has been having severe rheumatic pains that has been almost impossible to get the work done. The treatment for the cancer has been going on nicely and the sore seems almost entirely healed at this time.

A. F. Webber was in Independence, Iowa on last Wednesday where he went to visit with his parents who make their home there. The father is in fair health while the mother is quite delicate and is kept to her bed much of the time. During the time the son was at home she was much better, the presence of the son acting as a tonic and improving the mother's health. Mr. Webber returned home last Monday.

Much Interest in Church.

The Bible school of the Murray Christian church was well attended on last Lord's day when there were 81 in the Bible school and much interest in the lessons as well. There was a good sized crowd at the preaching services as well as at the two young peoples meeting in the evening.

rise, when in some way her left hand became entangled in the clothes which she was feeding into the wringer, drawing her hand into the machinery of the wringer and crushing it very badly. She had the presence of mind immediately to reach for the electric switch, shutting off the power, and with a good deal of difficulty extracted the hand. The member was extremely painful and the husband, Geo. H. Meisinger who was plowing corn in the field, was called and the injured lady hastened to Murray and to the office of Dr. R. W. Tyson who was away on a vacation and Dr. G. H. Gilmore who had charge of the office during the absence of Dr. Tyson was on a call at Nehawka and it required some time for him to return. During the time Mrs. Meisinger waited through it all and with a heroic patience which demonstrated wonderful grit when it was required. Since the dressing the patient is getting along as well as could be looked for under the circumstances.

Much Grain Moving.

This is especially the fact in regard to corn, for during the past week some sixty thousand bushels was sold for delivering at the two elevators and this has been keeping the boys operating the two elevators hustling. While the Farmers Elevator which is operated by Ray Friedrichs and managed by A. J. Electric Camera Makes Outdoor Scenes Practical

Production of Ten Years of Research Oblivates Scanning Disc and Other Handicaps.

Chicago.—An electric camera, believed by its inventor to solve one of the major problems of television, was announced recently after ten years of research work, before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

It is believed to place the televising of outdoor scenes in the realm of practicability.

The new device, called an "iconoscope" by its designer, Dr. Vladimir Zworykin of the R. C. A. laboratories at Camden, N. J., was described in a paper he delivered before the annual convention of the Institute of Radio Engineers.

Dr. Zworykin said it opens new prospects for high grade television transmission and at the same time offers wide possibilities in its application in many fields as a substitute for the human eye, or for the observation of phenomena at present completely hidden from the eye, as in the case of the ultra-violet microscope.

Cathode Tube Is Developed.

Dr. Zworykin has been active in developing the use of the cathode ray tube or "kinescope" for television reception, and now has applied the same principles to the transmitting end. Placing a cathode ray tube at the transmitter as well as the receiver makes the entire process electrical and obviates the necessity of scanning discs, motors or other mechanical devices. Research along similar lines has been conducted in Philadelphia by Philo T. Farnsworth.

In outlining results obtained with the "iconoscope," Dr. Zworykin said that "some of the tubes are good up to 500 lines with a good margin for future improvement." Detail in a television picture is governed by the number of lines in the complete picture, some of the earlier experiments containing only twenty-four lines.

The tube, he said, could be used "not only for transmission of pictures invisible to the eye in which the illumination is either by ultra-violet or infra-red light."

Outdoor Pictures Are Possible.

Explaining that "the real goal of television" lies in the transmission of outdoor pictures, heretofore handicapped by the need for more light than was obtainable with mechanical systems and by failure to get a sufficient number of the picture elements which give details, Dr. Zworykin said "the inherent resolution of the device is higher than required for 70,000 picture-element transmission."

The tube, which has an overall length of eighteen inches and a bulb eight inches in diameter, looks somewhat like an overgrown electric light, with an exceptionally long neck. In this neck is an electron "gun" that fires a beam of electrons against a mosaic plate four inches square in a scanning motion at high speed. The mosaic plate is photo-sensitive and really consists of many tiny photo-electric cells.

The picture is focused on the plate by a lens system and then transformed into electrical energy by the sweeping motion of the electron gun. The tube can be mounted in a comparatively small box and set upon a tripod for picture taking, thus giving easy portability.

PIG CROP SHOWS INCREASE

Washington.—An increase of 5 percent in the spring pig crop of this year over 1932 was reported for Nebraska Friday by the department of agriculture, while a 20 percent increase is in prospect in the number of sows to farrow this fall as compared with the 1932 fall season.

The number of pigs saved this spring in Nebraska was estimated at 4,631 or 105 percent of last year's 4,406. In the spring of 1931, the number reached 5,460.

The average per litter in Nebraska this spring was 5.6 compared with 5.3 for last spring. Nebraska sows farrowing this fall were estimated at 294,000 compared with 245,000 last fall.

Omaha Parties Have Smash Up on Highway No. 75 Near Rock Creek Filling Station.

From Tuesday's Daily
This morning shortly before 1 o'clock a party of Omaha young people in the Chandler tudor sedan of Allen E. Miller of Omaha, was wrecked when their car crashed into a cow that was running loose along the highway. The accident occurred south of the Rock Creek filling station.

The Omaha party was returning home and had just come down a hill and reaching the bottom discovered that the cow was in the roadway and apparently not giving an inch. The car crashed into the cow and with the result that the radiator was smashed as well as the lights and one of the front fenders.

The fact of the wreck was communicated to the authorities and Sheriff Homer Sylvester and Deputy Sheriff Lancaster hastened out to the scene of the accident. It was found that the cow was the property of William Lindner, residing nearby and the cow had wandered from the barnyard into the road. The cow had a broken leg and it was necessary for the deputy sheriff to put the animal out of its suffering.

The damaged car and members of the party were brought into this city by John H. Becker, university student, who was returning home from Lincoln, the car being placed in a local garage for repairs.

SIXTY MAIMED ON FOURTH

Philadelphia.—Fourth of July was celebrated in the Philadelphia area at the cost of the life of 4 year old Joseph Carney, and at least sixty burned and maimed. Boys threw a firecracker in the child's face as he sat on the steps of his home. Police are searching for them.

The most serious accident was reported in Woodbury, N. J., where the two sons of Lieut. Clarence W. Chad-dock, U. S. N., stationed at the Philadelphia navy yard, were injured in a premature explosion of a powder cannon they were loading in front of their home. The force of the explosion struck Richard Chad-dock in the right arm, mangleing it so badly it had to be amputated. His brother, William, 14, had his right thumb torn off.

CITY HAS QUIET FOURTH

The Four of July here was one of the quietest in the history of the city, there being but little activity, and beyond the demonstrations of the juvenile residents it might have been just another day. The offices at the court house, banks, postoffice and railroad shops and packing plant were all closed for the day. The business houses of the city closed at noon and many of the residents enjoyed the day in picnic parties.
