

Our Funeral Home

IN planning our funeral home, we desired to provide a place where the funeral service, and the necessary preliminaries to it, may be conducted with the greatest efficiency and comfort in the quiet, dignified atmosphere of a home.

WE believe that we have achieved this. The use of our mortuary is available to all our patrons, though we, of course, are willing to conduct the services from the church or residence when so desired.

INCOME TAX LAW REVISION

Washington, July 8.—The task of closing up holes in the income tax law was turned over to experts of the joint congressional taxation committee by a senate finance subcommittee. Chairman King, of the subcommittee, appointed to study the whole field of taxation and recommend changes at the next session, said L. H. Parker, chief investigator of the joint committee, would be entrusted with the task, but under specific orders to study certain features, mainly the income tax. The capital gains and loss provision, which has resulted in annual end-of-the-year stock sales to show income losses for tax purposes, also will be studied with a view to revision.

A third angle will be efforts to simplify administration and reduce the cost of collecting the revenue. Means of eliminating or reducing double taxation also will be studied.

Public Works as a Job Provider is Taking Form

Federal Construction Plans Aggregating 200 Millions Submitted and Approved by Board.

Washington—Federal construction projects aggregating roughly 200 million dollars were approved by the public works program and immediately submitted to President Roosevelt. Among the other developments in the administration's effort to get the job-providing public works program into operation were: Appointment of Col. H. M. Waite, former city manager of Dayton, as deputy administrator of public works, directly under Secretary Ickes, the administrator.

Approval of plans for expenditure of almost 50 millions for roads in New York, Massachusetts, Ohio and Utah.

Appointment of a subcommittee to divide 500 millions among public parks, national forests and Indian reservations for roads.

Announcement that the cabinet board would meet again Wednesday to consider a big batch of municipal projects already approved by Reconstruction corporation engineers.

The recommendations of a subcommittee for projects totaling about $400,000,000 were scrutinized and passed down.

Secretary Ickes, who as chairman of the board and administrator has become commander in chief of the public works campaign against unemployment, said the specific projects approved by the board would not be announced until approved by the white house. Ickes declined to give any indication of the nature of the projects approved or the exact amount involved. The estimate of 200 millions came from his associates. He explained that the projects eliminated from the program had not been rejected, but that action on them had been deferred.

Waite, upon whose shoulders the burden of the administrative work will fall, has been temporarily acting as assistant administrator. He was city manager of Dayton, O., from 1914 to 1918 and has had long experience in municipal administration, engineering, transportation and industry.

Approval of plans for road expenditures in the four states will start construction activities which are estimated to provide 1,367,055 man weeks of work on a thirty hour week basis. Ickes and Secretary Wallace approve a plan submitted by Massachusetts for expending 26.9 percent of that state's $6,597,100 allotment on the federal aid highway system; 63.9 percent on extensions of the system into and thru municipalities, and 9.2 percent for secondary or feeder roads. Ohio's program for spending an allotment of $15,484,592 contemplates the use of 45 percent

TWO STATES RATIFY REPEAL

Chicago.—Illinois and Iowa became states Nos. 10 and 11 in the formal ratification of the proposed twenty-first amendment to repeal the prohibition amendment. The new amendment must be ratified by thirty-six states before it becomes effective. To date sixteen states have voted popularly for repeal. None has voted for retention. Five of the sixteen states have yet to hold formal ratification conventions. Formal action by the Illinois convention was a perfunctory affair and was completed in a session lasting less than an hour.

Des Moines.—The Iowa constitutional convention, meeting here by a vote of 90 to 0, formally ratified the proposed twenty-first amendment to the constitution repealing the eighteenth amendment. Nine counties were not represented at the convention.

Republicans to Lay Plans for 1934 Shortly

Assemble in Chicago Tuesday to Outline Their Campaign—To Keep the Party Alive.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—Chief-tains of the republican party are preparing quietly for a major drive aimed at regaining in 1934 some of the party's lost power in congress, and leaders in the midwestern states today turned toward Chicago for another of a series of conferences over the approaching congressional campaign.

This gathering, to be held Tuesday under the leadership of Everett Sanders, chairman of the republican national committee, will find party spokesmen from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa reporting on the political situation in their states and the prospects for success a year hence.

Regional meetings have been held previously in Washington, New York and Boston. Issues for the 1934 congressional campaign and the 1936 presidential election now are being drawn, based in large part upon the Roosevelt emergency legislation.

The republican federal associates have been compiling the record of the Roosevelt administration and shaping the issues for the coming campaigns. Twice a month the executive committee of this group—composed of Mills, Walter F. Brown, postmaster general in the last administration; Walter E. Hope, William H. Castle, Jr., and John Richardson—meets either here or in New York.

The associates said their present purpose is to keep the party alive and to present a national viewpoint for local leaders.
