

LIGHTNING DOES DAMAGE

From Saturday's Daily
Early this morning when the electrical storm swept over the city, lightning struck at the home of Mrs. Mathilda Ramsel, the lightning traveling in on a radio aerial and wrecking the instrument although not doing a great deal of damage to the house itself. The force of the lightning tore out a panel of the radio and hurled it across the room and left the instrument a complete wreck. A portion of the wall near the radio was also scorched by the lightning.

The force of the bolt and the crash that followed greatly frightened Mrs. Ramsel, who was sleeping in a room adjoining that which was struck.

HERE FROM ITHICA

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Schneider, of Ithica, Nebraska, were in the city Friday for a few hours, visiting with the parents of Mrs. Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blotzer, Sr., as well as the many old time friends. Mr. Schneider is manager of the elevator at Ithica and is assisted by his son, Leo, at this work. The eldest son, Don, is now the caretaker of the Burlington station at that place.

PICK UP TRUCK DRIVER

Officers Dave Pickrel and Roy Stewart gathered in a man giving the name of R. Norgard, Omaha, who was operating a truck on what is known as a local license, good only three miles of the community for which it is issued. The man had driven south of here to secure a load of watermelons and was held here to check up on his license. The man was turned over to Sheriff Homer Sylvester as the case is one for the state and not the city.

DIES AT MURDOCK

From Friday's Daily
Howard George Allspach, 34, died last evening at his farm home a mile west of Murdock, following an illness of some duration. The Horton funeral home of this city was called and brought the body to this city to their funeral home.

Mr. Allspach is survived by the widow and one child. He is a son-in-law of John J. Gustin, one of the prominent residents of that section of Cass county.

Collection of Taxes Beginning to Mount

Gain of Seventy Millions as Compared with Returns of Year Ago—Beer and Wine Aid.

Washington, August 18.—Aided by $16,444,957 for beer and wine, the government's tax collections for July rose 70 million dollars above the returns a year ago. The internal revenue bureau said the receipts also were larger than June, except for income taxes, as quarterly payments are made in that month.

The beer and wine total compared with $13,753,793 for June, showing an increase both in the sales levy and license fees. Collections from all sources for July aggregated $131,115,696, compared with $251,600,997 in June. In the latter month, however, income taxes totaled $146,574,827, while in July they were only $11,963,009.

The first tax on agricultural processed articles was collected last month and that on wheat products amounted to $383,088. Collections from transfers of stock brought in $7,673,345 as compared to $6,199,113 reported in June. The gasoline tax brought in $15,799,053 as compared with $10,929,739 in June.

Automobiles and motorcycles paid $3,743,538 as compared with $2,014,407; tires and tubes, $3,623,940 as compared with $2,219,959; telegraph, telephone and radio taxes $1,655,304 compared with $1,160,754, and on checks $3,473,443 compared with $3,232,862.

Tobacco taxes dropped, however, amounting to $34,861,805 as compared with $44,363,772 in June and $34,498,889 in July a year ago.

The increase in the manufacturers' excise taxes collected in July as compared with July a year ago, when the first payments under the billion dollar tax bill were being received, showed the growth in this form of revenue. They amounted to $35,531,583 as compared with $1,394,114 in July, 1932.

Taxes imposed by the national industrial recovery act made their first appearance in the list of collections, the levy on dividends returning the sum of $658,417 and capital stock tax $7,856,068. The capital stock tax is a levy of 1 percent on the adjusted declared value of capital stock of domestic corporations.

The dividend tax imposes a tax of 5 percent on the receipt of dividends by any person, other than a domestic corporation, which must be deducted and withheld by the payor corporation.

LEAVE FOR THE WEST

Mrs. Everett Gooding and children, Clifton and Evelyn Lee, departed Thursday for a trip to the west. They will visit at Thermopolis, Wyoming, as well as other parts of that state where the Gooding family have land interests. The family enjoyed a vacation there last summer and they decided that the enjoyment of the western country would be preferable to the fair at Chicago and accordingly left Thursday for the west.

CALLED TO OKLAHOMA CITY

Mrs. Henry Starkjohn was called to Oklahoma City where her mother, Mrs. William Weber, has been quite ill. Mrs. Weber however, is reported as being some better although she was critically ill for several days. Mrs. Weber is making her home in the southern city with her daughter, Miss Jeanette Weber. The many old time friends here trust that the patient may improve and soon be able to resume her usual activities.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Mrs. Thomas Svoboda is at the St. Catherine's hospital in Omaha, where she has been for the past several days. She was operated on Wednesday and is reported as doing as well as possible under the circumstances, although her condition is still quite serious and has caused a great deal of apprehension to the family and friends. This is the third serious operation that Mrs. Svoboda has been compelled to undergo in the last few years.

VISIT WITH RELATIVES

Mrs. Lillian Stone and daughter, Mary, with Miss Lois Smith, all of Denver, who have been visiting at the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago, stopped here for a visit with the relatives. They were guests here at the home of Mrs. Caroline Cole and at the C. E. Cook home. They motored from here to Alvo, where they were guests at the E. M. Stone home, and from there will go on to their home in the west.

ST. MARY'S BUILDS CHURCH

Nebraska City.—St. Marys Catholic parish here has started work on a new stone and brick church which will have a seating capacity of 500. The exterior work will be completed by Christmas. The building will be 50 by 130 feet with a tower 95 feet high. A full length basement will have an 11 foot ceiling. The building will be across the street and north of the present edifice. Rev. Rudolph Stoltz is pastor. There is another parish here, that of St. Benedict's which some time ago celebrated its seventy-fifth anniversary, and is the oldest Catholic parish in Nebraska.

Fossils Found in Central America Excite Scientists

Bones May Reveal Another Habitat of the Dinosaur, and 8-Foot Human Giant of Antiquity.

New Orleans.—The scientific world is looking for Central America's first dinosaur and an 8-foot Neanderthal man weird native legend calls "Sismittil."

Even bush league paleontologists know the western hemisphere has been curiously remiss in its contributions to mesozoic, paleozoic and other 'zoic research.

So, when the director of the American Museum of Natural History heard that Paul L. Vance, New Orleans engineer and amateur explorer, had seen strange fossilized remains in Central America, there was a flutter in scientific circles.

An expert to investigate. Gregory Mason of the University of Pennsylvania museum, head of a South American expedition seeking strange monkeys in quest of a theory of man's beginning, was requested to investigate the reports. Vance, who spent twenty-three years in the tropics scouting for banana plantations and railroad right-of-way, told Mason of the mammoth bones he saw in river beds and caving banks.

At Olanchito, in Spanish Honduras, he told of finding in the sloughed off bank of a creek fossilized bones between thirty and thirty-five feet long. The skull was about a yard long, the hind legs huge, and the forelegs short. The tail was enormous. Natives said they were the remains of "El Aubelo de los Aguanas," the grandfather of the lizards.

River Bed Saves Bones. In the bed of the Rio Colorado between Mangulele and Salama, he told of seeing bones of the ball-and-socket type, which paleontologists say means thigh bones. They were from six to nine feet long.

In a cave on the hacienda of old Don Mariano Leiva, ex-president of Spanish Honduras, in the department of Barbara, he found on a rock platform eleven normal sized skeletons of humans, and one skeleton he judged to be of a man about eight feet tall.

Natives whispered of a legend of the "Sismittil," a strange man who frequented caves.

Vance was interested in these curious bones, but he admits he's not an expert in the technique of reconstructing monsters which roamed about in the dim ages. That is why Gregory Mason's expedition now has a two-fold purpose—to discover man's first ancestors and to add to the scientific knowledge of now extinct monsters of the western hemisphere.

RETIREMENT OF ARMY HERO

Washington.—An army air hero who brought down two German observation balloons on the western front and escaped unscathed, faced retirement because of injuries in a simple fight on peacetime duty. Maj. Maxwell Kirby, cited for heroism in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, was ordered before an army retiring board. Major Kirby crashed near Leonardtown, Mr. June 15, while flying from Langley field to a national guard encampment in Pennsylvania and was so badly injured that he is still confined to Walter Reed hospital here. His citation was for attacks Nov. 9 and 10, 1918, on enemy balloons. Major Kirby was accompanied by another American plane in the first attack, but the companion plane was shot down. He continued alone and destroyed the balloon. The next day he flew alone against another balloon near Etain. Three German planes attacked him. He destroyed one, drove the other two back into their own lines and downed the enemy balloon.

Steel Industry, Johnson Agreed upon Fair Code

Phone Provisions to President for Approval—Oil and Coal Next—Held a Night Session.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA chief, about midnight announced that an agreement had been reached upon a code of fair competition for the rich steel industry.

The agreement had been read to President Roosevelt over the telephone and was approved by him, in addition to Johnson, the steel industry and the labor advisory board of the NRA.

It provides a 40-hour work week averaged over a three months' period, with a maximum per employe of 48 hours and a six-day week.

On or after November 1, 1933, as soon as production reaches 60 percent capacity, the eight-hour day is provided for all employes except supervisory, technical and emergency.

Wages Raised July 1

The agreement cited that a general increase of 15 per cent had been made in wages since July 1.

"Minimum wages fixed in the code are estimated by steel companies to exceed the average of 40 cents per hour," the text of the agreement said.

"This results from the fact that higher minimum wages than those fixed in the code are paid to large groups of common labor."

The agreement continued: "Code to be effective for 90 days as a trial period to determine effect."

NRA Board to Watch

"Provision for three representatives of NRA to receive full information, with access to necessary records, to meet with board of directors of iron and steel institute upon administration of code and advise the president so as to provide assurance that code operation is in full compliance with the law, providing adequate protection of public interest and furnishing the basis for recommendation to the president as to continuation or modification of code after 90 days' period of trial and determination of results."

Announcement of the agreement was made smilingly by Johnson shortly after a six-hour session with the steel magnates had broken up.

ARREST PROWLERS

Thursday night Officers David Pickrel and Roy Stewart noticed two strangers prowling around in the main section of the city at a late hour and accordingly they followed the men to the railroad yards where they were rounded up. The men were beating their way over the country looking for work, they claimed. They were brought up and given lodgings at the city jail and this morning were released and sent on their way southward.
