Western Ne-braskans Men-aced by Floods

Bridges Washed Out; Kimball Reservoir Is Damaged—Crawford Dam Washed Out.

Western Nebraska floods Monday damaged a reservoir near Kimball, caused property damage in and near Sidney, threatened lowlands and bridges near McCook, and demoralized traffic conditions generally.

Farmers in the Lodgepole creek valley near Sidney were desperately moving live stock and other possessions, fearing a break in the main Kimball dam, following one minor break at the reservoir.

Extensive rainstorms on Sunday, which in some places exceeded four inches, had nearly ceased by Monday afternoon, reports from most points indicated.

Danger to Sidney Bridge. Water was within a foot of the top of a main highway bridge at the south edge of Sidney. A warning from Brownson, eight miles west of there, had enabled most of the creek bottom residents to reach places of personal safety. A few were reported marooned in their homes. Two bridges were reported damaged.

James and Ralph Dalton of Sidney had a narrow escape from drowning. Flood waters of the Republican river at McCook forced residents of low lands to flee, and covered a bridge west of there.

Damage in Cheyenne county, where Sidney is county seat, was set at five thousand dollars. There were no casualties at McCook, seat of Red Willow county, and the damage was confined mostly to crops.

Crawford Dam Out. Flood waters of the White river this afternoon washed out the dam and intake valves of the Crawford city water system, but emergency equipment is pumping the supply.

Cloombursts west of here climaxed three days of heavy rains. Train service west was at a standstill as the result of weakened bridges 15 miles west on the North Western railroad. There were grade washouts near Edgemont, S. D., on the Burlington line.

Soldiers at Fort Robinson were fighting to save bridges and one already was out.—World-Herald.

Many Children Win Fair Prizes

Future Generations will Know the Fine Art of Home Baking.

Judges at all of the fairs being held throughout the country at this time are impressed by the number of children between the ages of 12 and 15, who are winning prizes for their baking.

One of the little 12 year old winners sums up the reason for this nicely. "It's so easy to make prize-winning bread when you use VICTOR FLOUR. There are 10 of us children at home, so we use a lot of bread. But Mother lets all of us bake, because she says we can't have a failure if we use Victor—and we never do! I made my first batch of bread when I was 9 years old, and have never spoiled any."

Victor Flour makes a delicious, tasty bread that stays moist longer. Victor is milled from the choicest wheat, and can be used for delicate angel food cakes as well as for bread, biscuits or muffins. It rises quickly and gives more loaves per sack than other flours, making it less expensive.

The Crete Mills, Crete, Nebraska, one of Nebraska's oldest and most reliable flour manufacturers, mills Victor Flour. You can buy it at all Better Grocers in Plattsmouth.

VISITING IN CITY Miss Mary Jane Mark accompanied by her cousin, Joy Valley, returned from a visit at Council Bluffs. She had been a guest at the Ed Valley home. Joy Valley will spend the week with the Mark family.
