If the blue eagle could lay an egg it would no doubt be hard-boiled.

Lots of so-called self-made men, should have yelled like hell for help.

Man is an inconsistently foolish creature. He acquires a little learning, and declares it is enough; but he acquires a few dollars and goes hog wild for many more.

Father may not think much of his false teeth, but they, at least, are one thing none of the other members of the family ever will be using when he needs them.

Mahatma Gandhi has promised to refrain from civil disobedience until next August; and we trust that includes eating his meals regularly, hanging up his clothes every night, and brushing his teeth twice a day.

Where's the old-fashioned mother who made her daughter stand in the doorway in strong sunlight to be sure daughter hid on enough petticoats? From the looks of some of our high school girls the last week, certainly that mother is not prevalent.

It takes a dairyman's strike, sometimes, to make people remember that some folks in Chicago really drink milk.

David Hutton can tell any interviewer in eight hundred or a thousand words that his wife, Aimee, talks too much.

There are no heavy growths of grass in the principal streets of our cities. Neither have 12 million men been put to work in the forests.

Forty years ago, when a man died he was "an honest, upright citizen." And, if the world keeps on such a thing is going to be a curiosity among those now living.

Under the new ruling by the Nazi government, the Germans must not sing the Nazi hymn nor "Deutschland uber Alles" except by special permission from the police, permission to be gained on showing that the occasion for singing be a "dignified gathering." It's a wise regulation. That's all that has kept "Sweet Adeline" a standard classic in this country—restricting its rendition to gatherings of a dignified character.

Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, Sept. 24 By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"Some Early Leaders of Israel" (Review)

The purpose of a review is to go back over the past quarter of lessons, re-examine, refreshing the mind, fix the heart of each lesson indelibly on the memory, for later use. As all of these twelve leaders, were outstanding characters, we should gain a vast store of knowledge from their lives and acts. May we briefly summarize their career and achievements:

Lesson I—Joshua: The successor of Moses had a hard task entrusted to him in settling the Israelites in their new home, which he accomplished to the satisfaction of all. No complaint was ever heard. Religious service was established. Joshua leading with a good example: "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

Lesson II—Caleb: Here is a man not afraid of a hard task, nor afraid to stand alone, against a majority. In his fight for his conviction we might say: He lost a battle, but won the war. He and Joshua were alone privileged to enter the promised land. A man growing old gracefully, retaining his faculties to the end.

Lesson III—Deborah: Woman plays a great and important part in the Bible. To catalog them would require much space. Deborah is one of the rare types, combining religious, political, judicial and poetic talent. She was not lacking in courage. She could fire a nation into action and gain victories where men trembled with fear. But she would not forget to give God the praise, who so wonderfully blessed her efforts to save Israel from their oppressors. Her name and fame shines through the centuries—a Mother in Israel.

Lesson IV—Isaiah: The man with a vision. Not only showing his nation their besetting sin—drunkenness, but other affiliated sins. Unafraid, he pronounces the "woes" of Jehovah upon them, and as sure as God punished men in that generation, so will he today. But the best of Isaiah's work is the bringing of good tidings of the coming Messiah.

Lesson V—Gideon: whose name shines in the hall of fame. (Heb. 11: 23). The greatness of this man is shown in his simple trust and confidence in God, after his assurance that God was with him. No man before nor after has achieved a victory like he did, with such unequal numbers. And he was a man like we. That should be an encouragement to everyone.

Lesson VI—Ruth: the beautiful Moabitish widow, teaches a lesson of love and devotion that has no counterpart. Her life story is full of romance and fidelity. Her resolution expressed in these words: "Whither thou goest, I will go. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." (Ruth 1: 16, 17) have been repeated at many altars, by many lovers—but, alas—not always lived up to. God rewarded this faithful soul to become the great ancestor of our Lord.

Lesson VII—Hannah, the praying mother. Her contribution to the world is as great as men can give—a life. This she asked of God—and received it, and gave it back to him. Here is proof that God answers prayer. She understood her responsibility and trained her boy for service to God. Parents should take an example from her. The world needs millions of praying Hannahs!

Lesson VIII—Samuel, the man asked of God. He had good parents and was an honor to them. His life was full of perplexing problems—but with the help of God he solved them. He was a good, honest and fearless judge. He anointed the first and second king over Israel. At the end of his strenuous life he stood before his people with clean hands—and received from them a clean bill.

Lesson IX—Saul, the man who started out fine—and ended a suicide. He shows us "the changed man." (I Sam. 10: 6, 10, 11.) In this spirit, God could use him. He was a promising king; had he remained true and faithful he would have been an honor to the throne. But greed, selfwill, stubbornness got hold of him, and he became again a "changed man." (I Sam. 16: 16). His downward course was very rapid. "The wages of sin is death." (Rom. 6: 23). A mighty man fell when he died." (II Sam. 1: 19).

Lesson X—David, the man after God's own heart. The greatest of all Israel's kings: he loved God with all his soul—the most haunted of all men—the greatest warrior—the greatest sinner—receiving the greatest blessing in pardoning grace—the sweetest singer—the finest example of the power of God in restoring a lost soul—the greatest ancestor of our Lord—the greatest exponent of God's grace and mercy—David.

Lesson XI—Jonathan, the greatest example of true friendship. This young man teaches us who to choose for a friend. We cannot be too careful in choosing them. In true friendship there is no jealousy or distrust. A true friend is he who tells us our faults, and does not flatter us—such a friend is Jesus, our Lord. It is a pathetic scene, when these two friends part for the last time; see David's lament for Jonathan. (II Sam. 1: 25-26).

Lesson XII—Solomon, the magnificent. Few men started in life under such favorable circumstances and ended so miserable. He had a good father, a united kingdom, untold wealth, everything in his favor—God's blessings in wisdom and understanding—was unscolded so far—built a beautiful temple—offered one of the finest prayers—but just led him to marry heathen women—then built temples for idols. God rejected him—a lost soul! What a tragedy!

Repealists Win Two More States' Total Now is 31

Idaho and New Mexico Added to Ranks by Wide Margins—Drys Concede.

Idaho and New Mexico voted for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment Tuesday on the basis of returns from state elections. Thus they become the thirtieth and thirty-first successive states to vote for repeal. Thirty-six are needed to ratify the repeal amendment.

New Mexico's vote to abolish the Eighteenth amendment was running over three to one.

Idaho's polling was much closer, but a member of the state council of the allied drys conceded the state for repeal with over one-half of the precincts reported.

The Returns.
In New Mexico, 198 precincts out of 785 gave:

For repeal, 25,021.
Against, 7,438.

In 212 precincts, the vote for repeal of the state dry law was:

For, 21,420.
Against, 10,022.

"We have lost the battle but not the war," said Dr. George W. Hammond, superintendent of the New Mexico anti-saloon league.

The vote from 41 of the 44 counties of Idaho, many of them virtually complete, gave 47,072 for repeal and 34,638 against repeal. About two-thirds of the precincts in the state had reported before midnight. Senator Borah, an opponent of repeal, refused to comment.—World-Herald.

REWARD MONEY IS PUZZLE

Denver.—What to do with $25,000 given to him to pay as a reward for the kidnapers of Charles Boettcher, II, abducted and returned after a ransom payment, is worrying Mayor Begole of Denver. The reward was posted by Claude K. Boettcher, father of the young broker. Clark Pearce and Arthur Youngberg, convicted as members of the kidnap gang, are in the Leavenworth, Kas., federal penitentiary. Verne Sankey and Gordon Alcorn, alleged leaders in the kidnaping, still are at large. "If I pay the reward now and Sankey and Alcorn are captured later, there will be other claims on the money, and I'll be criticized," said the mayor. "I'm already being criticized by some for not distributing the reward to those who are responsible for the capture of Pearce and Youngberg."

Principal claimants to the reward are William B. Ellsworth and his wife. They gave information to police which led to capture of Pearce and Youngberg.

CONKLIN UNDER SUSPICION

Central City, Neb.—State Land Commissioner Conklin valued his life Thursday—he was mistaken for a bank robber after he had led the parade for the fair and rodeo Wednesday in a cowboy hat and green shirt. Conklin was present with all his trappings and shared honors with the mayor in the parade. Then he strolled into Central City's only bank which had been robbed a year ago. In a loud voice he asked a teller if he could get a dollar and a half on his hat. The teller, busy with another customer said he'd look him over in a minute.

Conklin stuffed his hat further down over his face, stuck his right hand into his coat pocket and waited. He noticed first one and then another of the bank employes disappear, felt he was being watched and then a voice from a peephole boomed out: "Say, are you Hap Conklin?" The bank clerks said officials put away their weapons then and greeted Conklin, as an old friend.

STATISTICAL REPORTS OF COMPANIES REQUIRED

Washington, Sept. 17.—The fact that NRA requires certain statistical information from industries and their compliance with the request does not relieve industries from the obligation imposed by law to make regular reports to other departments of the Government.

MAKING M. E. APPOINTMENTS

Omaha.—Bishop Frederick D. Leete of the Methodist Episcopal church and his board of eight Nebraska district superintendents Sunday night began the work of making appointments for the coming year for the 505 Methodist Episcopal churches in the state.

MRS. CULBERTSON RETIRES

New York.—Indisposition of Mrs. Ely Culbertson, which compelled her to give way to a substitute in the fourth session, provided the principal interest at the third annual individual masters' contract bridge tournament. Unable to continue after the third round of the session, Mrs. Culbertson, who then ranked thirty-fourth in the field of thirty-six, retired, and Edward Hymes, Jr., was nominated as her substitute.

But David Burnstine, tournament leader, and George Unger, another contestant, declined to play against Hymes because they held him to be a better player than Mrs. Culbertson. The rules committee then decreed that Burnstine and Unger should take an "average score on the two rounds. Hymes played in two other rounds.

Mrs. Culbertson returned to the fray for the fifth and final session, but found herself in last place with 286 1-2 points. Burnstine, with 502 1-2 increased the lead he assumed after the second session Friday night. Michael T. Gottlieb was second with 493. Waldemar von Zedtwitz third with 490 and Howard Schenken, the defending titleholder, fourth with 483 1-2.

The tournament is an individual affair with each player working for himself alone.

FIVE KILLED IN COLLISION

Waverly, Ia.—Five persons were killed and four others were injured in an automobile collision on the highway seven miles east of here Tuesday.

Howard Harrington, Chicago. Harry E. Kieser, Waterloo, Ia. I. J. King, Waterloo. Charles A. Kacere, Cedar Rapids. A son of Kacere.

Mrs. Kacere and two other women and a man, all unidentified, were injured in the crash.

According to Paul Meeker, who was operating a stand near the corner at which the accident occurred, the Kacere car drove thru a stop sign at the intersection and crashed headlong with the car in which the three men were riding. Both machines were carried sixty feet before stopped and ended in a ditch alongside the road with bodies of the victims scattered about.

Chicago.—Howard W. Harrington, who was killed in an automobile collision near Waverly, Ia., was a prominent Chicago advertising man for many years.

CODE FOR CONVICT LABOR

Washington, Sept. 15.—A code for prison labor was presented to Hugh S. Johnson. The plan for convict labor, worked out by a committee, representing prison boards, called for a maximum forty hour week, without minimum pay stated, but with a proviso that labor costs must be figured in the production charge. Thirty-two states were represented in formulation of the code, which will be formally presented to Johnson when it has been acted upon by forty-eight states.

The general opinion of its advocates was expressed in this way: "It is a definite step forward in the solution of the baffling problem of prison labor, fair to industry, fair to the public and fair to the prison."

Approval of the code, the states' spokesman said, would bring the prison labor into active co-operation with the recovery program and would minimize the probability of "the acceptance of more drastic codes" by various industries that would "prohibit markets to all prison made goods."

HOPE TO CAUSE WAKENING

Chicago.—A new attempt to arouse Miss Patricia McGuire from the coma which has lasted nineteen months and two days will be made Monday. Fever treatments will be given the 29 year old Oak Park girl who has suffered from "sleeping sickness," and at the same time gained 22 pounds. Specialists under the direction of Dr. Eugene F. Traut set up a hyperpyrexia machine which will be used to induce fever in the girl's body. High tension electric wires were run into the McGuire home to operate the machine, which will be attached to the girl's wrists. Doctor Traut explained that by inducing fever and maintaining it at certain temperatures he hopes to stimulate an awakening. Blood transfusions, serum treatments, ultraviolet rays and psychoanalysis have been tried in vain.

The girl went to sleep Feb. 15, 1932. Her family Sunday described her appearance as a "picture of health."

From Wednesday's Daily Hon A. J. Weaver, former governor of Nebraska, with his son, Arthur, were here for a short time today, being on route from Omaha to their home at Falls City.

Burlington Bids for Consolidation Share

Tieup of the Western Pacific and Denver Systems Has Been Suggested.

Washington.—Extensive reorganization of the railroads that owe large sums to the Reconstruction corporation, with the consolidation of some lines long independent, is being considered in railroad and government financial circles. Roads that are in the hands of trustees under the federal bankruptcy law passed by the last session of congress are getting especially serious thought.

The consolidation of the Western Pacific railroad, the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad and its subsidiaries, the Denver and Salt Lake railway and the Denver and Salt Lake Western, has been suggested.

Officials of the Burlington railroad company are seeking an interest in the consolidated system thru purchase of a stock interest in the Denver and Rio Grande Western. This plan was understood to contemplate giving the Missouri Pacific railroad a half interest in the Rio Grande and the Western Pacific and the Burlington each a quarter interest.

The plan is being worked out in New York by a committee composed of President Pycatt of the Denver and Rio Grande Western; L. W. Baldwin, president and trustee of the Missouri Pacific and a member of the operating committee for the Rio Grande; Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington; Gerald Hughes, president of the Denver and Salt Lake, and T. M. Schumaker, chairman of the executive committee of the Western Pacific railroad company. The Rio Grande last year borrowed $3,850,000 from the Reconstruction corporation to construct the Dotsero cutoff thru the Denver and Salt Lake Western. It also borrowed large sums to pay interest on its debts.
