"What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," Jurgensen declared, in his suggestion of broadening the scope of the recovery program. He also said that it might be feasible for labor organizations to confer with proper authorities in putting the policy into effect.

Daniel Hill gave a talk, explaining the history of the depression and how the recovery administration is fashioned to cure causes of economic distress. He urged further organization of labor for enforcement of NRA principles. A short talk was also given by Labor Commissioner Matthews. HAVE INTERESTING MEETING

Rosenerans, who as county probation officer, has charge of the general program of relief work gave a resume of the work of her office and the facts and figures as to the number served and the cost of the total of the relief work. This handling of the relief work has grown to such an extent that it has been necessary to establish an office at the court house for this work exclusively.

R. W. Cavender, who has had charge of the registration of those who were in need of employment, told of the work of his office and the hundreds that had applied there and whose applications were acted on as rapidly as possible when the chance for work appeared.

Edgerton, constable, told of the placing of employment in the several lines of public works, the Fort Crook project as well as the paving and Missouri river projects that have in recent weeks taken in a large number of men that have been employed in this section. The grading and paving work had provided the largest amount of labor for the men of the community.
