CHILD SWALLOWS PIN

Audrey Allen was the victim of an unusual accident on Thursday and which might have had very serious consequences but for the thoughtful work of one of the little schoolmates. The young girl had a pin in her mouth and as someone bumped into her she swallowed the pin. The pin lodged in the throat and one of the school mates started to pat Audrey on the back as she was coughing and the pin was coughed up in a few moments. The throat was made somewhat sore by the presence of the foreign matter but nothing serious was experienced as the result of the accident.

HONOR LOCAL TEACHERS

A group of four of the Plattsmouth teachers and two of those of the Union schools were designated by the World-Herald in their Thursday evening edition as among the beautiful teachers attending the district teacher's meeting. The young ladies also were former members of the Ak-Sar-Ben court. The local teachers so honored were Misses Jean and Ruth Tidball, Lillian Garrett and Helene Perry, and Misses Nola Banning and Dorothy Foster of Union.

From Thursday's Daily Attorney Tom E. Dunbar of Nebraska City was here today to look after some matters of business for a short time.

Mills County Farmers Oppose Farm Strike

Support to Those Who Desire to Truck Shipments Given by Farmers—Guardsmen Help Convoy.

Twenty-four members of the Iowa national guard, unarmed and in an unofficial capacity, served as guards last night at the east approach of the Missouri river auto and wagon bridge, gathering to convoy trucks in case there was any attempt to stop them by farm strike pickets. The guards were under command of Sheriff William DeMoss of Glenwood.

The guardsmen were mobilized as special deputies Thursday by Sheriff DeMoss, in his second move to protect farmers and truckers opposed to the strike called by the National Farmers Holiday association. Authority to utilize the state's guardsmen was granted to Sheriff DeMoss by Governor Clyde Herring, who made it plain, however, that he has no intention of issuing an official call to guardsmen unless the situation turns unexpectedly violent.

It was emphasized in Des Moines that the guardsmen, members of Company I, 168th Iowa infantry, were not acting in their official capacity. Adjt. Gen. Charles H. Grahl issued orders the men were not to wear uniforms or to use national guard equipment such as guns, but many wore parts of their uniforms and carried the full complement of arms. The weapons, however, were taken from them at Pacific Junction, and replaced by tear gas bombs and tent stakes.

Capt. C. R. Seitz, company commander, was in charge of the men. No pickets had appeared at the bridge up to 7:30 p. m., and 25 trucks had passed at that hour.

Meanwhile, picketing in other sectors appeared to be waning. Picketing had ceased entirely Thursday around Sioux City, leaders of the holiday group showing a disposition to await the decision of a conference of midwestern governors, called in Des Moines for Monday by Governor Herring.

Announcing he had reason to believe a report favorable to the holiday association would be made by the governors, John Chalmers of Madrid, Ia., president of the Iowa association, made a special request for cessation of picketing.

It was not known whether picketing would be resumed on highways leading into Council Bluffs, which have been patrolled for the past three nights.

Sheriff DeMoss announced at Glenwood Thursday that an army of between 500 and 800 farmers will protect all truck shipments on Mills county highways.

This was a direct challenge of farmer to farmer in the farm holiday movement. Farmers from other counties are determined to stop trucking by highway picketing. Ninety-eight per cent of the farmers in Mills county, said Sheriff DeMoss, are opposed to the strike and are just as determined to keep the highways open.

Think Norfolk Bank Bandits Seen at Alliance

P. G. Mast, Escaped Missouri Convict Is Named as One of Robber Gang.

Norfolk, Neb., Oct. 27.—Word was received here tonight that three men believed to have taken part in the 10 thousand dollar robbery of the Security State bank here Thursday had been seen in a beer parlor in Alliance, Neb., this afternoon. They were said to be headed toward Crawford, and a posse there was seeking them.

The report added that the men departed in a light coach with red wire wheels and a Colorado license. If they are the bandits, they have changed cars since leaving here in a dark colored sedan after the robbery. The last previous report of the robbers was that they were headed eastward out of Stanton Thursday night. Alliance is more than two hundred miles west of here.

Meanwhile P. G. Mast, escaped Missouri convict, has been identified by Robert Weidenbach, cashier, as one of the four unmasked men who robbed the bank.

The identification was made from pictures of Mast at the Norfolk police station. Mast was one of the bandits who held up an oil station here last May.

One man is being held off questioning for possible knowledge of the robbery, Chief of Police C. E. Blatt announced today. He said the man held was not one of the bandits, however.

Chief Blatt said he and other officers were convinced the bandits were not the ones who held up a bank at Nebraska City Tuesday noon. The five gunmen at Nebraska City said little, while those who robbed the Norfolk bank used a lot of profanity.

Freedom of Press Said to be in No Danger

NRA Official Says Publishing Like Other Industries; Freedom Guaranteed by Constitution.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Prof. Lindsay Rogers of Columbia university today told delegates to the United Typothetae of American convention that there is no challenge to the freedom of the press in the national recovery program.

Rogers is a deputy administrator of the NRA.

Prof. Rogers declared that newspapers have no better right to claim exemption under the national industrial recovery act because of their local nature than have barber shops, hotels and retail establishments.

Like Any Other Industry.

The constitutional guarantee of liberty of the press does not mean liberty to refuse to submit a code, said Rogers.

"So far as I know," asserted Rogers, "no newspaper has ever maintained that state constitutional guarantees or freedom of the press permit newspapers to ignore workmen's compensation laws, state child labor laws and hours of labor laws. Insofar as hours and wages are concerned newspapers are in precisely the same class as is any other industry which, under the recovery act, increases the wages and reduces the hours of its employees."

Rogers declared that the most eloquent voices on the issue have been raised by men who are in the newspaper counting rooms and law offices, rather than in editorial offices.

The article in the proposed newspaper code which guarantees freedom of the press is unnecessary, said Rogers, because that freedom is already guaranteed by the constitution.

May Have Their Clause.

"But if publishers will feel more secure with such a declaration in their code, then they should have it," he added.

Defenders of the freedom of the press have become overalarmed over a section of the recovery act which authorizes the president, in certain cases, to license industries, said Rogers.

"The president may exercise licensing powers only if he finds that 'destructive wage or price cutting or other activities contrary to the policy of the recovery act' are being practiced," he said. "And he must give public notice and hearing before he can act."
