Right of Way Holds Up Local Paving Work

State Engineer, However, Approves
Contracts for Bridges and Viaduct on Highway No. 75.

The granting of the contract for the grading and paving on highway No. 75, north of this city, has been held up by the difficulty of getting the right of way as well as the desire for a further study of the price made for the paving of the highway. The state engineer, however, has approved the contracts for the large overpass that will be built at Orapolis over the Burlington tracks and the bridges, three of which will be necessary on the new highway before it is completed. The state engineer has held up several other paving and bridge projects in the western part of the state as well as north of Omaha between Tekamah and Decatur. The approval of the viaduct project will allow the work to start soon and under favorable conditions it is expected that the contractors will be able to be on the job in the next ten days or two weeks and rush the work to completion.

Road Work on 75 to be Pushed Through Winter

Work on Viaduct and Bridges to Start at Once and Paving to Carry on in Winter.

The basement floor of the court house was a busy place today as the employment offices which have been located in the large room adjoining the surveyor's office, was being removed to the room used by the relief department. This move was made necessary by the fact that the state and federal highway departments will have five engineers located here and who will have charge of the work on the local highway in the next weeks. It is planned that this work which will take up the unemployed, will be carried on through the cold weather and the viaduct and bridges will be started soon and the paving as soon as the matter of the bids is studied by the state engineer and governor. Special arrangements for drying the concrete by steam will be made and it is hoped to maintain the work for the winter as a part of the emergency plans of the state and federal government to supply employment for the local people who may be out of employment.

A BUSY PLACE

The First National bank building which has been idle since the closing of the bank in December, 1926, is again a place of activity as the building has been leased by the A. W. Farney Co., as their up town offices. Saturday from noon until evening there was a stream of employees at the bank to participate in "pay day" and which is held each Saturday for the river workers. The various gangs are paid off as their work is finished and they have time to come up to the main section of the city. There is an increasing force at work on the river and which makes their pay day an important matter in the community.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Friday night, November 10, the girls of the high school home economics class met in the gymnasium for the purpose of organizing a Home Economics club and enjoy the many games sponsored by the Junior girls. This event was the initiation of the Freshmen girls into the club. An impressive ceremony was held in the home economics sewing room and was presided over by Lois Giles. A taper of candles represented friendship, service to home, community, and nation and to make a better home economics department.

The new girls then pledged themselves to be faithful and loyal members of the club. After this, each new member was blindfolded and made to do the pranks planned by the old club members. Many active games were played in the gym and then the refreshments, prepared by the sophomore girls were served. Special guests were Mrs. L. S. Devoe, Mrs. R. F. Patterson, Mrs. Gorder and Mrs. S. S. Davis.

Monday night after school the club met to vote for club officers. Those chosen were: Mary Margaret Kilne, president; Jeanette Hirz, vice-president; Lois Giles, secretary-treasurer.
