

UNION ITEMS.

Deputy Sheriff Jarvas Lancaster was looking after official business in Union on Monday of this week.

Business called John B. Roddy to Nebraska City the fore part of the week, where he looked after matters of importance.

Mrs. Mary Taylor and daughter, Miss Rachel, of Lincoln, were visiting with friends and relatives in Union last Sunday.

Ottis Keene, who is ever rugged and able for any job, no matter how hard or difficult, was feeling rather poorly the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Propst, of Nebraska City, were visiting in Union last Sunday, being guests for the day and dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Leach.

Bud Fitch, who was compelled to return to the hospital a short time since for further treatment, was able to return to his home last Saturday and is feeling much better.

Mrs. C. F. Harris, who has been suffering for some time from rheumatism, is still kept to her home with the twinges of this very acute malady, which are far from pleasant.

Ralph Larson, who has in hand the checking up of work being done on the various CWA projects over the county, was a visitor in Union on last Monday, looking after the duties of his position.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. McCleave, of Omaha, visited here over the week end as guests at the home of Mrs. McCleave's brother, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Todd. Mrs. McCleave was formerly Miss Jessie Todd.

Miss Nellie Aker of Harvard was a visitor on last Thursday at the home of Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Kunkel, they being friends and neighbors when the Kunkels resided at Harvard. Of course they enjoyed the visit.

A. H. Pyle, of Nebraska City, representative of one of the large insurance companies, was looking after some business matters in Union Monday, and was visiting with his friends, Lawrence Meisinger and E. E. Leach while here.

Herman C. Ross, Pirl Albin, Blair Porter and more than a score of other folks from Union were over to the farm sale of Ray Whiteman, where they reported a large and very enthusiastic crowd of bidders for the goods which were being offered.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Todd entertained last Sunday at their home in the country, having as their guests for the day Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schanot and their daughter, Mrs. Earl Borcharding, of Nebraska City, all enjoying the visit very much.

Fleming W. Robb, son of Mont Robb, who is one of the bank examiners for the state and resides in Lincoln, was a visitor at the home of his father and sister, Miss Augusta Robb, from last Saturday until Monday morning, taking the week end to call on the folks here, as he is kept very busy with his work throughout the week.

Little Coral Pollard, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hall Pollard, living some six miles west of the highway has been suffering much during the past fortnight with a severe attack of pneumonia. During the past few days, the little one having passed the crisis has been making some improvement, but the mending has been slow, but with the hope of entire restoration of her health, the parents and friends are much pleased.

Building Concrete Steps
The CWA workers of Union have been straightening up the town and adding many beautiful touches to the city as a whole. At the property of L. G. Todd, the banks which properly belong to the city, have been terraced and a concrete walk built. They are now at work constructing a set of circular concrete steps, approaching the property from the southwest corner of the lot. Of course, Mr. Todd is standing the expense of the improvement, where it affects his property.

Advised of Uncle's Death
Last Sunday H. W. Griffin received the sad intelligence of the passing of an uncle, Lock Eddy, residing at Fair Play, Mo. In company with his father and mother and another uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Griffin, they departed early Monday morning for Fairplay to attend the funeral. The uncle was a brother of Mrs. E. M. Griffin of Plattsmouth.

Seventy Enjoyed Luncheon
The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church, of Union, enjoyed a noon day luncheon at the parlors of the church on last Thursday. The pews were set aside and the aisle carpets removed so that the assembly portion of the building could be turned into a dining room to accommodate the more than seventy who came to partake of the noon day meal.

Visited at Parsonage
Rev. and Mrs. B. M. Kunkel were much pleased when their daughter, Mrs. C. M. Clements, formerly of Iowa City, accompanied by their daughter, Felicity, stopped for some time while they were on their way to Jacksonville, Texas, where they are to make their home in the future.

DROP INTEREST PAYMENTS

Hastings, Neb.—Under new contracts completed by the city of Hastings with the Hastings National bank and the City National here, interest payments by the two depositories on city funds will be discontinued.

The new contracts, approved by the city council at a special meeting, provide that the two banks will keep in escrow securities greater than the city's deposit, to guarantee payment. In the past the banks have paid 1 percent interest on the city's average balance. In lieu of this interest payment, the two institutions will pay the service and insurance charges on the funds, an obligation previously met by the municipal government.

Birthday Gifts Piled High for the Nation's Leader

Six Thousand Parties Held Over the Country Celebrate Anniversary With President.

Washington.—A quarter-million greetings, six thousand parties and a presidential address to the nation—this was President Roosevelt's birthday anniversary. The greetings by mail and wire from the far corners of the nation and world extended a "happy birthday" on the 52nd anniversary. The parties had the dual purpose of celebration and creating a fund for the treatment of infantile paralysis victims. The presidential address was a thanks to the well-wishers and donors to the Warm Springs foundation fund.

Mr. Roosevelt said he spoke as the representative of the hundreds of thousands of crippled children in the country. He stressed the need of support and interest of the citizens in the crippled children, many of whom he said are not receiving attention. "Let us well remember," said the president, "that every child and indeed every person who is restored to useful citizenship is an asset to the country and is enabled to pull his own weight in the boat." In the long run, by helping this work we are not contributing to charity but we are contributing to the building up of a sound nation.

Gifts—heaps of them—were piled in the white house study of the president. Cakes were in abundance, from a 250-pound size down. The birthday balls ranged from affairs of splendor in big New York hotels to a little gathering of fifteen in an Illinois hamlet and the proceeds all went to the Warm Springs foundation which the president himself formed after he had begun at the Georgia spa his fight back to health. The negroes of the south matched the white folks' enthusiasm.

Added to the money pouring into the fund from the proceeds of the birthday parties were individual contributions, one of them a gift of $50,000. The United States senate sent its formal greeting to the president. It adopted a resolution offered by Senator Robinson, the democratic leader. American colonies in foreign cities also held dances to celebrate the occasion.

Unable to restrain his eagerness, Mr. Roosevelt left the executive office for a few minutes at noon to look over the mammoth heap of gifts piled up in the executive offices. After the regular business day he sat down to a birthday party in the white house with his "buddies of 1920," a birthday custom that has prevailed since that year when he ran for vice president.

Intimate members of the white house staff joined Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter, Mrs. Anna Curtis Dall, in the celebration. "Louie," "Mac" and "Steve"—Louis M. Howe, Marvin H. McIntyre, and Stephen Early—secretaries to the president, formed the nucleus of the 1920 "gang." Others were Kirke Simpson of Washington, Charles McCarthy of Albany, Stanley Prensell of New York, Thomas M. Lynch of New York, and James Sullivan of Boston.

A telegram of birthday greetings from Alabama citizens to President Roosevelt, signed by 40,000 persons and 120,000 words in length, was delivered late in the day.

TO DROP FORGERY CHARGES

Omaha.—County Attorney Beal announced he will dismiss charges against three persons accused of forging $87,000 in city of Omaha bonds because no evidence can be found to show that the forgery was committed in Douglas county. Beal said he has asked the county attorney of Sioux Falls, S. D., and U. S. district attorneys in South Dakota and Illinois to take charge of the case.

The three men accused are Frank Biddow, Sioux City, Iowa, known as "the bell boy Ponzi;" Frank "Bake" Sellers and E. T. Devoil, Omaha. The bonds, after being forged, were disposed of to a Sioux Falls banker. The banker sold some of them to New York, Chicago and Boston bondhouses, but later redeemed them.

Pierre, S. D.—Attorney General Conway said his office planned no prosecution of the three men charged with forging $87,000 worth of Omaha city bonds. Conway said no complaints regarding the sale of the bogus bonds in South Dakota had been received at his office. He said he understood some of the bonds were sold in Sioux Falls.

Joe Faith of Kansas City is visiting here for a few days with Mrs. Faith and the Donat family.

4-H Club Awards Announced.

Seven Cass county 4-H club members are receiving congratulations for having won distinction in 4-H club work last year. In listing the annual 4-H awards the 4-H Club Steward, issued at the College of Agriculture, the following were included: Mildred Young, Nehawka—Trip to 1934 Club Week by the Burlington railway.

Malcolm Pollard, Nehawka—Trip to the 1934 Club Week, given by the Omaha Union Stockyards.

Edgar Fager, Avoca—Trip to Club Week, for work done in Corn club, given by Omaha Union Stockyards.

Donald Spahnle, Walton—Trip to Club Week for swine club work, given by Crete Mills.

Doris Hoback, Avoca—Trip to Club Week, given by Omaha Chamber of Commerce for work in clothing club.

Dale Reed, Weeping Water—Trip to Club Week given by Cudahy Packing Co. for work in sheep club.

Miss Marjorie Zink, Murdock—Won the Hastings College award of $150 tuition scholarship. The contestants for this scholarship were judged on the following basis: 50% on the club record and 50% on a three hundred word essay written on the subject "Value of High Education to Those Who Expect to Engage in Agriculture in Nebraska."

The above awards are symbolic of the kind of work Cass County's 4-H club members have been doing the past year.

Order Tree Seedlings

Now to Plant in Spring

Many farmsteads in Cass county are sadly lacking in the beauty or well selected and well placed trees, both for ornament and shade, and for windbreaks which serve to protect the buildings and lawns from cold winter winds and snow. For the small amount of $1.00 per hundred you can secure a maximum of 400 trees for a windbreak and 1000 trees for woodlot planting. Many of the evergreen and broadleaf varieties obtainable are suitable to use as background and even ornamental plantings near the farm home. It will pay you to invest a dollar in one variety of trees at least, this spring. For two dollars or more you can get two or more varieties which would give you an advantage by being able to plant one row of broadleaf trees, which are more rapid growing than the evergreen and which serve to protect the evergreens until they are big enough to continue their growth alone.

Attend Hominny Demonstration

Several ladies in the vicinity of Nehawka, attended a hominy making demonstration at the home of Mrs. B. E. Sumner Tuesday, January 30. Miss Florence Atwood, state food nutritionist, of the College of Agriculture, conducted the demonstration. In preparing for the demonstration, Miss Atwood made one batch of hominy in the morning before the demonstration which took place in the afternoon. In the demonstration proper she demonstrated the canning of hominy, using the batch which had been prepared in the morning, following this with a demonstration of how to select good corn, and how to process the corn. One quart of shelled corn usually makes from three to four quarts of hominy.

Anyone wishing the information demonstrated in this meeting should ask for Extension Circular 916, Hominy.

Put Federal Hatchery Code in Operation

Progress of putting the federal hatchery code into operation in Nebraska is marking time pending the results of a meeting at Clinton, Missouri last week attended by six Nebraska hatcherymen. In the meantime district educational meetings on the code have been completed in Nebraska. J. R. Redditt, extension poultryman at the Nebraska agricultural college, reported. He also announced the arrival of new rulings which affect hatcherymen and farmers in this state.

Farmers who use eggs produced on their own farms and hatch them in incubators there and sell less than 500 chicks per year are exempt from the code. Redditt has been informed. The original ruling declared all farmers hatching 500 chicks or more came under the code restrictions.

Another new ruling indicates that small hatchery operators, as farmers, do not need to charge $30 per week against their chicks in their cost of production as an operator's cost as first rulings were interpreted. Rather they are allowed to charge 37 1/2 cents per hour for all time required in hatching the chicks. Any person whose time is divided between the hatchery business and other lines of work is ruled a small operator. The farmer's wife comes under this classification.

Nebraska hatcherymen, under the code, cannot sell chicks below cost of production. The minimum is $6.30 per hundred. Only permission from the co-ordinating committee will allow reductions in prices.

Find Farm Account Books Invaluable

Ninety farm record keepers have started work on their 1934 books. Many in this list have never kept a farm record book but have decided that their farming business requires a more complete and accurate book-keeping system than the hit-and-miss system usually employed. The farm account books placed by the extension service are simple and easy to keep yet furnish a complete and accurate information about the farm business. Farmers who are signing up for the corn-hog program have found their farm account books invaluable as well as being great time savers. It is not too late to start a farm account book for 1934. Ask for one.

been established in Weeping Water, where a crew of about twelve trained workers are ready to assist farmers wishing to sign corn-hog contracts. In order to push the work of signing contracts forward as speedily as possible, it is planned to schedule a precinct each day. Farmers on the mailing list will each receive a notice of the date when their precinct is scheduled to sign up.
