

To Seek More CWA Funds for County Projects

Committee to Visit Lincoln to Seek Funds to Completion of Work and New Projects.

The local committee of the Civil Works Administration will visit Lincoln Tuesday to take up with the state organization of the work, the matter of securing additional funds that may be used in the completing of projects that have not been entirely completed as well as several additional projects over the county.

One of the new projects that will be sought is the allotment of funds to be used in the repair and improvement of rural school buildings, one and two room structures in all parts of the county and where the funds are not available locally for the much needed work. This work is quite badly needed in many cases and will be urged by County Superintendent Miss Alpha Peterson as one of the much needed projects for the county.

There are several of the working projects that were not fully completed and which it is hoped the funds may be available for completing before the expiration of the life of the CWA.

WCTU Honors Memory of Miss Frances Willard

Program of Meeting Is Devoted to the Life and Works of Great Leader of Cause.

The regular meeting of W. C. T. U. met in session with Mrs. Etta Gorder Monday afternoon, Saturday, February 17th, being the birthday of Frances Willard, known and honored the world around, the meeting was made a memorial to her life and work.

Opening song, "O Master Let Me Walk with Thee," was the prayer of her life purpose. Passages underlined in her Bible were read by members as the scripture lesson and the Lord's Prayer repeated as very appropriate to the service she rendered to bring His kingdom on earth.

A brief talk was given about the time in her life when she gave up a choice position as teacher and dean of women at Northwestern University and became first a field worker and then national president of the newly organized W. C. T. U., following the trail blazed by the crusaders in 1873. There was no comparison of salaries, but her devotion to a cause that would mean the relief of countless homes with their families, from poverty and degradation, so led those of better conditions and less courage to join forces until she is the best known woman around the world and has caused the eyes of the world to watch the United States in its experiences of prohibition and repeal.

Poem to Frances Willard by Roy Nance Smethers was read by Mrs. Gorder.

The secret of her influence—wisdom, strength, faith, Love, Vision, as written by National President Ida E. Wise Smith was read by Mrs. Wills.

Quartet—"We Are Coming Dear Leader," song by four young ladies, Margaret Yelick, Wauweta Welshimer, Ruby Sutton and Catherine Armstrong. This was sung as a pledge by youth to answer the call of her whose ideals live on.

There is also an offering given at these memorial meetings to be used to carry on the spread of work in other countries and in our own in places not able to help themselves begin. This request was made thru the reading of "There is that scattereth and yet increaseth," based on Proverbs 11: 24-25.

Poem—"In Memoriam," by Doris Wheeler Blount and dedicated to Frances Willard, September 28, 1839—February 17, 1898, was read by Miss Elizabeth Spangler after which the closing song and benediction were given by all.

The hostess served refreshments during short social time while the offering was received, and dues were recorded. Those present returned to their homes feeling that with so great an example, none should fail to renew courage and follow her lead.

passing on the railroad property. Attending the conference were the sheriff, county attorney, county judge, chief of police, police judge, as well as the county welfare worker.

It is the plan that in case that parties are found bumming on the trains in the yards or on the property of the company that they be arrested by the railroad officers and turned over to the nearest police judge or magistrate who will sentence them if guilty and on agreement of the parties to accept the offer of the government for shelter at the old U. S. A. quartermaster depot at Omaha that the parties will be transported there.

Austria appears to be surrounded by nations which have no interest in her welfare, but are constantly interfering in her politics and domestic affairs. In other words, Austria is on the spot, and perhaps can well imagine how Belgium felt in 1914. Belgium, however, was eventually delivered by allied friends. Who's going to help Austria?
