"Jesus Testimony Concerning Himself"

Matt. 11:2-6, 16-19, 25-30.

No one has ever questioned men like Moses, Socrates or Alexander the Great, or Napoleon, or Shakespeare about their nature. Amazing as these men were, they were plain men, and nothing but men. Of only one man in all the ages did questions arise as to his nature, whether he was man or God. Only one man in all the ages dared assert that he was God. The question as to who Jesus was is the most important of all decisions for us. That question is the subject of today's study.

John the Baptist was in prison on account of his bold preaching, calling a king to account for his ungodly life. Nearly a year had gone by—an eternity for a man used to the free outdoor life in the wilderness for most of thirty years; hearing and seeing nothing of the doings of Jesus—we need not wonder that questions would arise in his mind about the personality of Jesus. His disciples having access to him, could be sent to bring him an answer. A delegation was consequently sent.

It was a long journey from Meab to Galilee, but the devoted disciples complied with his wishes, and they would be interested in the question, also. They came, they saw—and were convinced.

John must have had the wrong conception regarding the work of Jesus; the same as the Jews, that the Messiah would restore the glory and power to Israel.

Jesus received the delegates and learning their errand, gave them an object lesson. "Go tell John the things ye hear and see." Nothing can be more convincing than what we hear and see. No hear-say testimony! John, the Evangelist, says: "That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon and our hands have handled..." (John 1:1).

Peter says: "We were eyewitnesses of his Majesty... there came a voice to him from the excellent glory... and this voice came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount." (II Peter 1:16-18). Christ is always ready with evidence and proof. Luke 7:21 makes the matter plainer by adding that in that hour Jesus wrought many cures. Jesus did many more deeds of healing and helping than are recorded in the Bible. More dead were restored to life than those on record. All this should be convincing proof of Christ's Messiahship to John. "And blessed is he, whosoever find no occasion of stumbling in me." "... who is repelled by nothing in me," as Moffatt translates it. Selly calls this "the Beatitude of Unfaltering Faith."

Jesus gives a beautiful testimony to John. (Read verses 7 to 17). "Whereunto shall I liken this generation?" The answer is found in Luke 7:30: "But the Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God against themselves." It is pleasant to think of the

These degenerate times! Wyoming lumber jacks have struck to have baths installed in their camp. Are they too feeble to break the ice with their axes?

Two thousand persons were marooned by ice off Maryland. That is nothing, however, compared with the number of Americans marooned by frozen assets.

A Toledo detective caught a couple of crooks when they thought he was drunk and tried to pick his pockets. Their excuse was they didn't know he was unloaded.

A gentleman in Missouri professes to be amazed that a people smart enough to discard ox carts, spinning wheels, tallow candles, hand scythes and hand presses will still retain state legislatures. It's a nice question, at that.

Savior looking on at the children's games and smiling at their sport. Let all children remember that "Jesus watches us while we play." These children played first at a wedding and then at a funeral. "We cannot wonder that they chose these two ceremonies for imitations, for Jewish marriages were a gay spectacle, and a Jewish funeral must have been a dramatic spectacle to children." (Rev. Samuel Cox).

Neither John, the ascetic, nor Jesus, the humanitarian, could please that "generation." But the success of Christianity has proven Jesus right and his critic wrong, as he knew it would.

Testimony of Christ's character! "At that season Jesus said—" when the seventy had returned and reported their success (Luke 7:21-22). See here Christ's humility, even as he is about to declare his unique relationship to the Father. "These things" were hidden from them that "knew it all," but the babes in Christ, with their childlike simplicity and trust would believe and understand. Some of the apostles—John, especially—were possessed of penetrating intellects; yet all of them were as babes in their simple trust and faith and so could receive Christ's revelations. "Well pleasing to God." Without debate, it was enough for Christ that it was his Father's will; he was sure, then, that it was for the best for all.

All things are delivered into his hands—to redeem the world and judge it, and so he invited all to COME unto him (this word appears 3,782 times in the Scriptures). The "generation" referred to above could not satisfy the soul-hunger, nor give rest to the weary. "Come unto me, I understand your labor and burden, your trials and temptations; look unto me, I will take your burden." ("Surely He has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows," Isa. 53:4). "I give you rest," rest from the torments of sin within, rest from laboring in vain to get rid of sin. He can quiet the storm. He can speak peace to the soul. He can still the tumult. "My peace I leave with you."

"Take my yoke!" This is the badge of subjection—yoked together with Christ. "Learn of me." He was subject unto them (his parents), Luke 2:51. He learned to carry the yoke early—in his youth he learned obedience, so it was easy for him later to do the Father's will.

"My yoke is easy!" He could boast of being a good yoke-maker, he had learned his trade well; his yoke did not hurt—it was easy. The soul that takes the yoke willingly finds that it is not a burden to be a follower of Christ; it is joy, unspeakable, to be yoked together with Christ.

"At thy right hand there are pleasures forevermore." (Pl. 16:11). The yoke means a perfect surrender to the will of God. In the greatest tests of Jesus, in the wilderness and in Gethsemane, angels came and ministered unto him. We get the same service.

Don't let anyone fool you into thinking you can get by without adequate insurance.
