Courtship consists of a man running after a girl until she catches him.

Useful information, possibly, to be pasted in your hat: New Year's day in the first year of any century never falls on Sunday.

We need to pay real money and howl with laughter at Eva Tanguay for wearing a hat like some of the 1934 spring models.

It was evidently a choice between the air mail or the pony express, and the administration finally decided to restore the air mail on account of the shortage of horses.

Somebody revives the old question, Do women dress for effect on men, or on other women? Of course, it's neither. Women dress as a means of self-expression. That's why, a few years ago, they all expressed themselves in terms of short skirts, and now they require longer expression.

There is considerable talk of a third party. Where's the second?

"Insult Can't Cross Germany." Germany has no use for any cross except the swastika, which is a charm of good luck, which Mr. Insult isn't.

It's getting so a man can't feel that he is successful until he has been investigated at least once by the federal government.

"Dillinger Eludes Police." It is reassuring to know that is the case. There was a growing fear that it was the police who were so successfully eluding Dillinger.

Plattsmouth has been getting a lot of publicity the past few weeks and columns of stuff have appeared in the daily press. One fact impressed on the mind of every stranger you meet, which comes to the front when he learns you're from Plattsmouth, is that "there's where they get bank robbers."

Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, March 18th By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"Jesus Responds to Faith"

Matt. 15:21-31.

The lesson material must be carefully considered, all of it is important, from 12:53-16:12, the usual portion of our lesson, proper is illuminated by the foregoing and what follows. The various teachings bring out lessons in prayer, teachings in race relationships, examples of faith and the lack of it. An example in mother-love is given, and the teaching, how much boys and girls owe to their mothers, and that Christ is even more helpful than a mother.

Jesus seeking quiet and rest left the busy marts of Galilee and went with his disciples northwest, into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, the only time He left Palestine, showing that He had "other sheep . . . which are not of this fold." (John 10:6).

We learn from Mark 3:8 and Luke 6:17 that multitudes from the regions of Tyre and Sidon had attended our Lord's ministry at an early period. He entered into a house (Mark) and wished to stay in seclusion, just as Elijah had done in the home of a widow at Zarephath, in the same country of Phoenicia (I Kings, 17; Luke 4:26). A Canaanitish woman, having heard of his coming, went to meet him, having a great burden on her heart—a sick daughter, grievously vexed by a demon. The fame of Jesus' miracles, especially his expulsion of demons, had gone far and wide. The healer is near, here is her chance, she embraces the opportunity. That is the time "when Jesus of Nazareth passes by." Call on "Him when He is near."

"Have mercy on me!" This mother, as a mother would, makes her child's case her own. Jesus does not answer—the first test of the woman's faith—and it is a test which He often applies to our faith also. "The silence of God is faith's bitterest trial. We can only trust His general benevolence that His mercy is unflinching. Whosoever would trust God must trust His silence." (Rev. F. W. Norwood.)

The disciples had not yet the spirit of the Master. "Send her away;" grant her desire that she won't bother us any more. On another occasion they wanted to send mothers away with their babes; later they had indignation in Simon's house when a woman anointed Jesus' feet; and said "To what purpose is this waste?" So, while Jesus kept silence, the woman did not lose hope. Now the Lord answered that "he was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel," the second test of faith; harder than the first. Should only the Jews be saved? Should not others enjoy the blessings of Christ's ministry? The third test of the woman's faith conquers Christ. "Let me have the crumbs that are not denied to dogs and I will be satisfied."

O woman, great is thy faith! Have they desire. Faith is the victory that overcomes God and the world. We have here a concrete example that there are souls that have a living faith and God honors that faith. This is substantiated in Acts 10:34, where Peter says: "Of a truth I perceive that God is not a respecter of persons! But in every nation he that feareth Him and worketh righteousness, is accepted with Him."

The scene is shifted back to the sea of Galilee. As Jesus once more seeks rest and quietness, and to be alone with his disciples to have converse with them, he goes into the mountainous country and sits down—a sign that he wanted to teach them. But a great multitude gathers quickly, bringing with them the lame, blind, dumb, maimed and many others, laying them at Jesus' feet—and He healed them.

Faith in the Healer is the motive of this act. Will they be disappointed? What a joy it must have been to parents, children and friends when Jesus touched the lame and immediately they would walk and leap, and great was the astonishment and surprise when parents could see the lame child, fully restored, run and play with other children; her a blind mother, eyesight restored, sees her family for the first time. What a shout of joy goes up, glorifying God for this boon conferred; here the child that never spoke, whose tongue is loosed and now he can express his desires. How the parents would clasp the dear one in their arms and praise God. Here is a maimed father, who had lost an arm in an accident—Jesus restores the lost member—what a great blessing comes to that home.

"He healed them," all of them—a great number of them. Everywhere in the great multitude there is rejoicing (similar scenes the writer has witnessed at campmeetings, in conversions). Their faith in the Healer is confirmed and God was glorified through His Son.

What must it have been to be an eye-witness to such a scene of healing and worship! What an education for the apostles! After every exhibition of God's mercy should follow an exhibition of our exultant thanksgiving and profound adoration. Far too often we forget the divine kindness or take it carelessly for granted.

Then follows the feeding of the four thousand, when Jesus taught the disciples another great lesson in faith. (Matt. 15:32; 16:12). The miraculous power is here displayed—an act God performs every day in feeding the world. How little thought is spent by man on this miracle of supplying the world's needs, on the tremendous quantities needed for our daily bread. But let us learn that man lives not by bread alone.

What a rich banquet does He spread for those that hunger and thirst after righteousness, "for they are filled." The prodigal knew "his father had bread enough and to spare." The call still goes out. "All things are ready; come unto the marriage." (Matt. 22:4).

Weeping Water

Henry Stander and his son-in-law, Bert Mooney from near South Bend were business visitors in Weeping Water on last Tuesday afternoon.

Attorney J. A. Capwell was a caller in Weeping Water for a short time on last Tuesday looking after some legal business and as well meeting with his many friends here.

Iva M. McCrorey of near Wabash was looking after some business matters in Weeping Water on last Tuesday and meeting with his many friends.

Parr Young, living near Murray, was looking after some business matters in Weeping Water and meeting with the committee on the corn and hog loans in which he is interested.

Dan Anderson of near Nehawka has been here assisting on the board and looking after the government loans on the corn and hog proposition and an excellent man for the position.

David Olive since his return from the hospital in Lincoln is making excellent progress towards ultimate recovery and it is hoped when he shall have gotten well again that he will be as good as ever.

Newton L. Grubbs, the blacksmith has recently added as an appliance to aid in doing the work which comes to his place of business, a new electric motor which is being installed by the Power company.

Jack Jourgensen with his truck has been finding plenty of work in the moving of the various families who are changing their location at this time of the year. Not that they are better for the moving, but they are residing somewhere else just the same.

Cyrus Brandt has purchased the garage which was that on the property of George Marks and has had the same moved to the lot owned by Henry Lempe where he is making it into a residence which is adding much to the appearance and value of the property.

Have Very Fine Meeting.

The Brotherhood of the Methodist church on Monday night of this week met at the church where they enjoyed their monthly get together meeting. There were some seventy-one out and all enjoyed the very fine program which was put over so nicely. Among those who had numbers on the very pleasing program were Art Johnson, who furnished some very pleasing music. Then followed an address by Mr. Wm. Meyers, which was well received and which preceded the debate which was one of the pleasing features of the evening when the question was debated, "Shall the Church Allow the Radio to Take the Lead?" The affirmative was ably supported by Howard Rasmussen and Joe Bender, while the negative was argued by Drs. Kunkel and supporters. Then came the eulogy which called the approbation of all, for they sure were good.

Asked to Eile for Office.

A large number of the friends of Ralph Keckler coming from Center precinct where he is well known and where he has resided for many years have called on him and solicited that he file for the position of county treasurer. After considering the matter from all angles Mr. Keckler concluded that he had better remain and care for the very fine business which he enjoys in the service line with his gas and oil business. A person with a good business is wise when he cares for it.

Preparing for Coming Election.

At the time of the caucus when candidates are nominated for the city election there was formed what is known as the Citizens ticket. There were nominated Henry Crozier for mayor; Frank Domingo and Ralph Keckler for aldermen for two years and Suroge Spoin for clerk, while on this ticket was placed Knude Jensen and O. E. Powers as members of the school board.

Returned to Her Home.

Mrs. J. M. Leyda of Plattsmouth, a sister of Mrs. George Olive, has been in Weeping Water for the past nearly two weeks assisting in the care of her sister during her recent illness, departed for her home last Tuesday.

Attended Legion Convention.

Among those who were attending the district convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary at Louisville last Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Stirling Amick and Mr. and Mrs.

W. Moore, who enjoyed the sessions very much. Harold Meyers and Ben Olive were over a portion of the time.

Home from the South.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Day and party, who have been spending nearly three months during the winter, in Florida, returned home last Monday, well pleased to see the old town again and to meet the many friends with the warm hand clasp and merry smile when they inquired about their health and welcomed them back. The party enjoyed their stay in the south and said that it was pretty warm down there a portion of the time, the temperature running as high as 85 degrees.

Working Many Men.

The Jasper Stone Quarries at this time are greatly increasing their force of workmen and are at the point where they are running almost full capacity, which is a welcome feature in the business life of Weeping Water. The Shirley Construction company is also adding many men. Ole Olsen is also preparing to get a larger number of men working. All this adds much to the business activity of the community.

Making Repairs to Home.

Wm. P. Sitzman, who moved to Weeping Water from near Douglas some weeks ago has been busy in making some extensive repairs to the home which has been rented during the time the family have been away from Weeping Water which was quite a few years. Mr. Sitzman is putting the property back in the good condition which he always has aimed to keep it.
