Union Pioneer Answers Call
George Simeon Upton was born in the State of Kentucky on July 19, 1849, where he resided with his parents during his early boyhood, coming to Nebraska in 1865, just after the Civil war. In company with his parents, they resided on a farm and the youth herded cattle. He was united in marriage to Miss Fannie J. Reynolds on December 11, 1873. They continued to reside on the farm until about eight years ago, when they came to Union to make their home, they residing here since. Early in life, Mr. Upton united with the Presbyterian church and was ever a devoted follower of the Master.

There were born to this couple two sons, they being Earl Upton of Burwell and L. R. Upton, of Union. Besides these and his wife, he also leaves to mourn his departure, three sisters, they being Mesdames Mary Johnson, Nan Switzer and M. I. Thomas, all of Weeping Water, and one brother, H. S. Upton, of Minneapolis, Minn.

About three weeks ago, Mr. Upton contracted black smallpox and while he had the best of care and fought manfully against the dread disease, he passed away last Saturday night at about ten o'clock. The funeral was held from the yard of his late home in Union on last Saturday, burial being in the Wyoming cemetery, near where they had resided in the earlier years of their life in Nebraska. The Rev. B. N. Kunkel had charge of the funeral.

Card of Thanks
We desire to express our sincere thanks to the many kind friends who were so solicitous of our welfare and comfort during the last illness of our beloved husband and father, G. S. Upton, and for the care extended at the time of the funeral and burial.—Mrs. G. S. Upton and Children.

Getting Good Streets Now
The work which is being done on the streets of Union in the way of putting them in first class condition together with the hard surfacing of the area between the pavement in the center and the walks on the sides, is providing wide streets for the town and is also doing away with the mud which was so characteristic in the past. The village is to be congratulated upon the greatly improved condition of its streets.

Giving Class Play.

Snowbound Long Islanders were relieved in the recent terrific blizzard that swept the east, by food brought by a sledge team of nine Eskimo dogs. What the Islanders really looked for, we suppose, was a St. Bernard with a little cask of brandy fastened to his collar.

In the good old days, flag poles were on homes—but now there are aerial wires.

Garden Club Has Fine Meeting Monday Night

Third Ward Group Has Program of Well Worth While Suggestions as to Work.

The Third Ward Garden club held another enthusiastic meeting last evening at the Central school auditorium and which was largely attended by the members and a most interesting program and discussion was enjoyed by the membership.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Lillian Freeman, chairman, and Mrs. John Clodt as the secretary.

Mrs. C. F. Janda gave one of the interesting and profitable talks of the evening in which she told of the transplanting of the wild flowers from their native growth in the woods and fields to the gardens of the city, the soil that was needed and the methods of handling the plants. Mrs. Janda especially urged the preservation of wild flowers, many varieties of which are fast disappearing. The persons picking wild flowers were urged not to destroy the plant itself but to allow it to remain to propagate itself for the next season.

Miss Julia Svoboda also spoke briefly and told of the methods of gathering flowers so as to save the plant life. She stressed the beauty of the garden flowers and the charm that they lent in growing beds or in the cut flowers for decorations.

Mrs. F. A. Fricke discussed "Good Manners in Gardening," telling of many fine and interesting facts that she had learned in the radio talks on the gardening of vegetables and flowers.

John W. Alwin also talked briefly on the selection of rocks for a rock garden which was very interesting and followed closely as many of the club have or are planning rock gardens.

Rotarians Have Talk on Canning Factory Work

A. E. Stewart of the Norfolk Packing Company Gives Interesting Talk on Production.

The Rotary club on Tuesday had the opportunity of a very fine talk on the work of the Norfolk Packing Co., given by A. E. Stewart, manager of the company here and one of the active Rotary leaders.

Mr. Stewart, who is one of the most experienced men in his line of work in this section of the state, gave an extended review of the manner of selecting seeds for planting the crops that are needed in the production of vegetables for the packing plant, the manner of seeding the soil for the best production and the plans as to the acreage that will be sought in this territory for the 1934 season.

Mr. Stewart told of the various lines of vegetables that will be used by the plant here which is enlarging their production this season by the addition of tomatoes to the list of various vegetables that are handled locally. He also touched on the matter of acreage which is being sought now from the farmers and residents of Cass and Sarpy counties and also Mills county, Iowa, where the farmers can find use for their idle lands in the raising of crops of vegetables that can make them a good return for their efforts in disposing of them to the packing plant.

The enlarged program of the plant will mean that the canning season can be made much longer and the use of a larger force of workers in the handling of the products in the busy season.

The usual songs were enjoyed under the direction of Earl S. Davis, the official leader of the club.

GOOD DEED BRINGS DEATH

The death of George Simeon Upton at Union, is traced to a kindly deed that this fine old pioneer did a short time before his death, reports from Union state. Mr. Upton was away from his residence on one of the rather cold mornings and met a stranger who was heating his way through the country and whose garments, particularly his coat was in bad condition for protection against the cold. Mr. Upton in his generous way gave the man the coat that he was wearing and the stranger discarded the old coat. It being chilly Mr. Upton decided to wear the coat of the stranger home where he discarded it. It is thought that the man had been a victim of smallpox, as a few days later Mr. Upton was taken with the malady and which caused his death and as this was the only case in that section it is supposed that the coat was the means of conveying the germs of the malady.

SIGNS STAGE CONTRACT

Damian Flynn, former Plattsmouth young man, who has been at New York City for the past several months, has just closed a two-year contract with one of the large dramatic producers in that city. Mr. Flynn or "Jiggs," as he was so well known among the young friends in his school days, possessed then a fine appreciation of the stage and appeared in many local entertainments. His work in the Community Playhouse at Omaha won him marked recognition and led him to continue his work in this line.
