"The Risen Christ"

John 20:1-16

It seems to us more appropriate to dwell on the resurrection of Christ at this time, than follow the life story, as assigned by the lesson committee, in Matt. 16:13-17; 27. At this time we think more of the fruits of Christ's work—Life and Immortality, which he has brought us. No greater boon has come to man than the empty tomb—a risen Christ, who said to his disciples, "Lo, I am with you always." What a blessedness when we can say: "I walk with the King, Hallelujah!" That blessed experience lets us see the end of the road. "The path . . . is as a shining light, that shineth more and more unto the perfect day." Prov. 4:18.

The tomb is filled with glory, as the angel appears; it is sanctified, because Jesus laid in it. What surprises, astonishment, excitement, joy and gladness, did the women and disciples experience! What a day of rejoicing for those that stood by the cross and saw the agony of His soul. Now to hear, "He is not here; for he is risen, as he said." "I am he that liveth and was dead; and behold I am alive forevermore." Rev. 1:18.

That is a comforting thought for those that love him; but it must be a terror to them that "pierced him" and rejected him. A glowing tribute is paid the women for their fidelity and reliability. When all the disciples had fled and left Jesus alone, it was the women who stayed by him at the cross—only John had come back to receive the only gift from our Lord, his mother, to take care of; he had to earthly possessions, his clothes the soldiers took, gambling for his coat. The women were the last at the cross and the first at the sepulchre Easter morning, fearing neither the Roman guard nor darkness. They were the first Missionaries that received the command: "Go to my brethren." John 20:17. Their love for Jesus never changed. And so, as we see herein, woman is amply vindicated; she has proven that the curse pronounced upon her (Gen. 3:16) has been expiated; she is restored to equality with man.

Nothing in all the world is better authenticated than the resurrection of our Lord. There were no witnesses to the resurrection, but the evidences that Jesus arose are indubitable; the priest clan must have believed it, for they bribed the guard to say that his disciples stole the body while they slept. But the living witnesses on that memorable Easter morning cannot be bribed nor be stilled, for all in unison, they shout: "I know that my redeemer liveth!" The first appearance was to a woman—Mary Magdalene. Her grief and tears prevented her from taking in the situation properly and she did not at first see the angels, until she took a second look, then she pays no attention to them as with tear-dimmed eyes and choking voice she says: "Weep because they have taken away my Lord!"

Through her tears, she does not recognize the Lord, mistakes him for the gardener, but that sweet, calm, assuring voice and the one word—"Mary" brings her back to herself—and with an exclamation of joy, "My Teacher!" she is on her knees, ready to adore and worship. Such is the experience of every soul that finds Jesus; Joy and Peace, unspeakable, thrills the soul, and the deeper the sorrow for sin, the greater the joy of pardoned sin. We often ask ourselves the question: "Why is there so little of the emotional in our service?" People who experience a great joy will manifest and make it known in some way.

Well, Peter and John, when notified by Mary Magdalene, at once returned to the garden, to find out what they could see. John, the younger, outran Peter; he looks into the empty tomb, sees the grave-clothes, but no more. Peter, coming up to the tomb, entered, sees the perfect order, no haste for Christ in leaving the tomb, he never was in a hurry. He is convinced that the Lord is risen; John "believed" that the Lord had risen, and not as Mary supposed, been stolen away; he believed from evidence of senses. The power of the resurrection is shown in the transformation of the apostles, from fear and distrust into veritable lions of courage and confidence. Thousands have died for their faith in the risen Christ.

Paul was so thoroughly convinced that he made the resurrection of Christ the cornerstone of his preaching and writing.

The Christian church, from the first Easter, has gone steadily forward to the conquest of the world. The resurrection of Christ is our only proof of immortality; and we need no more. The resurrection makes it possible to vindicate God's justice and benevolence in the government of the world. If this life is all, God cannot be regarded as perfectly just and benevolent, because he frequently permits the righteous to be afflicted and even to be unjustly put to death, while the wicked go unpunished and enjoy worldly prosperity.

But if, as the resurrection indicates, there is a life beyond the grave in which all earthly wrongs are righted and all wickedness adequately punished, the moral character of God can be successfully vindicated.

To refresh our memory we would again record the twelve appearances of Jesus—a fine study in itself: (1) To Mary Magdalene, John 20:16 and Mark 16:9; (2) To the other women, Matt. 28:9; (3) To Peter, Luke 24:34; (4) To two disciples on the way to Emmaus, Luke 24:15; (5) To ten apostles without Thomas, Luke 24:36; (6) To all ten apostles with Thomas, John 20:26; (7) To seven apostles, John 21:1; (8) To disciples in Galilee, Matt. 28:16; (9) To 500 at once, I Cor. 15:6; (10) To James, I Cor. 15:7; (11) At Ascension, Acts 1:4; (12) To Paul, Acts 9:3.

THINK MOTHERHOOD AN AID

Hollywood.—Motion picture actresses are almost unanimous in declaring motherhood aids an actress in her career. Louise Fazenda said a baby helps develop one's sense of humor. "Motherhood gives a depth of understanding nothing else can," said Norman Shearer. Helen Twelvetrees lamented there was a falling off in fan mail messages, but "They don't mean much, anyway."

"There is nothing keeps a woman young and beautiful like having a baby," declared Esther Ralston, striking at a popular notion to the contrary.

Only Karen Morley differed in her opinion of the effect of motherhood on an actress. "To tell the truth," she said, "I don't think having a baby has made the least change in my work. Acting is a knack. I am as happy as any mother could be, but I cannot feel that as a player I am any different."

Said Ann Harding: "No actress' work, I'm sure, was ever hurt by motherhood. I think it must always be a help. At any rate motherhood is so great a joy, so deeply developing, that I think it should be a help to a woman in no matter what work she engages."

"Motherhood," said Jane Collier, "inspires an actress or any other woman to take care of herself for her child's sake. It broadens her outlook. 'Sunset Erwin, my husband,' she smiled, 'is perhaps a better actor for being a dad. I'll ask him.'"

STATE MUST CARRY MORE RELIEF LOAD

Lincoln, March 26.—A 44 per cent increase in the relief load in Nebraska next month was forecast today by Randall Blatt, state relief director, as a result of abandonment of Civil Works Administration.

A check has been made, he said, in a large group of counties to get advance information as to the probable load.

He also predicted that 60 additional case workers will be needed to handle the investigation as to the relief needs of men going off CWA. Applications will be checked both as to whether they are in need of relief and as to the amount of work relief to which they should be assigned in order to permit them to maintain their families.

Strange people, the French. They seem to have just as much fun out of the Stavisky scandal with the principal character dead as we would have with the central figure alive and out on bond cooking up some new devilment somewhere.

Cass County Farm Bureau Notes

Corrections.

In last week's article regarding the mixture of your own chick and laying mash it was stated that this formula was to be mixed for about 50c per 100 pounds. This should be "$1.50 per 100 pounds." The chick mash mixture given was:
Yellow cornmeal . . . 400 lbs.
Shorts 200 lbs.
Brain 100 lbs.
Pulverized Oat Groats . . . 100 lbs.
Alfalfa leaf meal 80 lbs.
Meat and Bone meal 75 lbs.
Dried Skim milk or dried buttermilk 50 lbs.

In another article regarding the corn-hog program, two precinct committees were omitted from the list of sixteen precinct committees. They were:

Liberty Precinct—L. G. Todd, chairman; A. O. Fearsley, R. E. Foster, Chas. Garrison.
Louisville Precinct—Aug. Stohman, Louisville, chairman; Wm. H. Hoover, Dan Schoeman, John Spangler.
Mr. Todd and Mr. Stohman are members of the board of directors as are all other precinct committee chairmen.

Tree Seedlings Available.

Word has been received that some of the varieties of tree seedlings formerly available through the extension service can no longer be obtained due to the supply being exhausted. There are Jack Pine, Red Cedar, Hackberry, Maple and White Pine. However this still leaves a large number of varieties still available as follows. The closing date for accepting applications is April 1st.

American Elm, Chinese Elm, Russian Mulberry, Russian Olive, Green Ash, Austrian Pine, Western Yellow (Bull) Pine, Cottonwood Boxelder.

Corn-Hog Program Progressing.

Work on the corn-hog program is progressing very nicely. About 1575 contracts had been filed Saturday, March 24th. Precinct committees have been steadily at work, with the exception of delays caused by bad weather, appraising the contracted acres being laid aside. They will probably be finished with this work by March 28th.

All farmers signing a corn-hog contract are required to keep accurate records of the sale, disposition, purchase and production of all basic commodities of their farm. For this purpose the Agricultural Adjustment Administration is supplying each contract signed with a farm account book planned to meet their needs. These books will be given out at meetings to be conducted by some experienced farm account keeper in each precinct.

Treat Potatoes Before Planting.

To control scab and other disease of potatoes the seed potatoes should be treated as follows before they are cut: Immerse the tubers for a period of from one-half to one and one-half hours in a cold corrosive sublimate or formaldehyde solution or from 3 to 5 minutes in a hot solution of the latter.

Formaldehyde Solution: Add one pint of formalin (formalin is a trade name representing 40% solution of formaldehyde gas) to 39 gallons of water for the cold solution, or two pints to 39 gallons of hot water.

Group Achievement Program.

Extension project clubs in the county are making plans for group achievement days. These days serve as a finish up for the project year. The programs which will consist of community singing, skits, playlets and other musical numbers are being prepared by the women under the direction of their group chairman. Have you taken project work the past year? If not try to attend the program nearest you and enjoy with the members this gain day of the club year. The Murray group will present their program Friday, April 6th at the Christian church in Murray at 1:30 p. m., while Wednesday, April 11th has been set aside for the Louisville program at the Methodist church at 1:30. Dates for the other programs will be given later.

Spray Fruit Trees at Proper Time.

Spraying of fruit trees at the proper time and with the proper materials to control certain diseases and insects is very important. Not only must the spray be timely but it also must be adapted to the particular pest or disease and to the fruit being sprayed. For example, Bordeaux mixture and concentrated lime sulfur are effective as fungicides but cannot be used in peach spraying because of foliage injury. Nicotine sulfate controls plant lice but has no effect on the codling moth. Arsenate of lead will protect fruits against the curculio but not against borers. Bordeaux mixture is more desirable than lime sulfur against apple blotch, although either will control scab. And still further, certain diseases such as fire blight and blight canker and also certain insects such as the buffalo tree-hopper are not affected by any spraying treatment.

If you wish to know the materials to use and the proper time to apply them, to protect the home orchard from disease and pests, ask for Extension Circular 26, "Spraying Tree Fruits," at the Farm Bureau office.

DESCRIBES SLAYING

Los Angeles.—While his hands trembled, as they clutched the arms of the witness chair, Harold V. Montfort, 43 year old auto salesman, told a jury why he killed Mrs. Ruby Hollar of Parsons, Kas., last Jan. 15. "Ruby was the light of my life," Montfort related. "I went without clothes to buy her gifts. We had a little breakfast quarrel and she said she was going to leave me and join her parents. I grabbed a .45, and struck her."
