

Bloody Trail of Dillinger's Gang Due for a Finish

Five Thousand Police Officers Determined to Capture or Kill—Man Hunt in 5 States.

Chicago.—Reports, officially denied, persisted here that 100 crack agents of the federal bureau of investigation were massing here to work from secret headquarters until John Dillinger is captured or killed.

Chicago.—Five thousand police officers in five states, every one of them armed to the teeth, were heartened with the words of federal authorities that the end of John Dillinger's bloody trail was in sight. Government men in charge of the manhunt reviewed their accomplishments in tracking Dillinger during the past week and declared it only a matter of days, perhaps hours, before the outlaw would be killed or captured, probably killed.

Telephone calls, telegrams and personal visits from citizens came at the rate of hundreds an hour to the anti-crime directors of half a dozen cities reporting Dillinger to be here, there, everywhere, in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois. From the many scraps of information reaching them authorities sifted out what they believed to be of value and deduced that Dillinger and two or more of his outlaws had reached Minnesota in the neighborhood of Minneapolis and St. Paul. Another group of the seven Dillinger outlaws gunning after northern Wisconsin gun battles that cost two lives, were believed to have gone in the opposite direction. Watches were kept for them in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois.

"Will Have Him Before Long." "We've got more evidence to work on than ever before in hunting Dillinger," said Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the U. S. division of investigation here, "and we'll have him before long. His trail is getting broader every minute."

Included in the 5,000 officers under orders to shoot the notorious fugitive on sight were national guardsmen, sheriffs and their deputies, local authorities, state police and federal agents.

One of the clues that federal men considered of most value was a report that a maroon colored automobile carrying several men was seen speeding thru Muncie Ind., toward the east. The license numbers of the machine were the same as those for which St. Paul police had broadcast a warning.

The report from Muncie caused apprehension at Columbus, O., where three of Dillinger's former pals,

TIME TO CHANGE OIL

DRAIN OUT SLUDGE, THE OIL EATER

Time now to drain out winter-worn oil and change to heavier grades. When you change, keep sludge out of your engine. It clogs oil lines, hinders lubrication, fouls filters, makes valves sluggish. It causes rings to stick and pump oil. It is the greatest cause of high motor-oil consumption.

Keep sludge out by using Iso-Vis "D", the Anti-Sludge Motor Oil. It keeps rings lively and free, reducing oil consumption to the minimum. That's why you add it less frequently between drains.

ISO-VIS "D" a 30c oil for 25c a qt.

WARN KITE FLIERS

Kite fliers were warned this week not to fly kites near electric wires by E. C. Hild, general safety director of the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company. The warning came in the form of a set of safety rules for kite fliers issued by Mr. Hild after a small boy narrowly escaped serious injury a few days ago when the kite he was flying became entangled with charged electric wires owned by the company.

Mr. Hild's rules for the safe kite flier are as follows:

1. A safe kite flier never flies his kite near electric wires of any kind. Kites with metal parts are dangerous if they fall across metal wires.
2. He never uses wire or twine that has wire in it for kite string. Wet string is dangerous because it conducts electricity.
3. He never runs across streets or highways while flying his kite.
4. He never climbs poles or trees to knock down kites caught in wires.
