MOREHEAD FOR U. S. SENATOR

The democracy of Nebraska in seeking for a candidate for United States senator have been faced with the fact that an intensive battle has been raised that threatens the success of the party at the fall election at which time the people of Nebraska must choose their leader for this important office.

There stands out in this field of intensive feeling one man that can unite the democrats as well as the clear thinking members of other parties—John H. Morehead of Falls City, two times governor of the state of Nebraska and for the past twelve years congressman from the first congressional district of Nebraska.

The record of Mr. Morehead as governor of the state of Nebraska was outstanding and can be pointed to with pride by the democracy of Nebraska. He gave the people of the state a wholehearted service as governor, a clean-cut business administration that was for the best interest of all of the taxpayers of the state, regardless of locality. The fact that succeeding governors of the state, regardless of political affiliations, followed the course chartered by the governor from 1913 to 1917, is proof that the judgment in appointments and conduct of the government was correct.

In his service in congress, Governor Morehead has followed his best judgment in supporting the legislation that was favorable to the people of the central west and from his broad judgment that covers both that of a practical farmer and a successful business man, he has brought to the office a cool, experienced and fair administration.

If Nebraska is to be represented in the upper halls of our national legislative body by a democratic member, it is going to require the nomination of a man like Governor Morehead—Clear thinking, experienced and above the struggle for factional gain and in this respect Governor Morehead represents the best that Nebraska has to offer.

In retiring from the congressional seat that he has so capably filled, as was attested in the great Hoover landslide of 1928, when in a district potentially republican, he was re-elected, Mr. Morehead has not forsaken the political field in which he has so well served. To the people of Nebraska Governor Morehead owes it to take the field as the logical candidate for United States senator, a man that can assure a united democracy and a man that all parties know and respect as a fearless leader and one that is not shackled by any factional affiliations.

FIRST NECESSARY TO UNDERSTAND DARROW

Out of the tumult of it all Clarence Darrow stands, as he always has stood, a rugged, challenging soul.

Most men prefer to be agreeable. Most men like to live in hope, to do wish-thinking, to see things getting better.

Darrow gets his pleasure out of pessimism. He wouldn't save the world if he could, simply because he doesn't think it is worth saving.

His delight comes from looking through blue glasses. He thoroughly enjoys philosophical ill-health. Compared with him, Schopenhauer was a Cope.

Asked a few years ago what he would do if he had his life to live over again, he answered: "I wouldn't." To a similar question, "What would you do if you were 20?" his reply was that he would commit suicide. All of which is his way of having fun.

Out of a philosophy that prefers to regard the world as out of joint grew his love for the underdog. The impulse to defend the Leopolds and the Loebes arose from his conclusion that it's a tough life after all, so why pick on anybody. He would defend a cobra or a tent caterpillar and enjoy the job.

Darrow's slant on the cosmos is that of one of his closest friends, Dave Gibson of Cleveland, and Darrow's nearest rival in pessimism. "If you do that," Dave once said, "you won't like it, and if you do like it, it won't last."

Being pessimistic is as much of a thrill to Clarence Darrow as being optimistic was to Pippa or Pollyanna. Therefore, in a world where optimism is conventional, Darrow has been a most fascinating figure, a symbol of the suppressed doubt of many a Babbitt, whistling to keep up his courage as he treaded past life's graveyard.

All of us at one time or another wonder what life's all about, look at the stars and think how small we are, and occasionally get into the mood expressed by the old song: "Where Will We All Be a Hundred Years from Now?" To Darrow that mood is chronic.

To Darrow, through some quirk of Rooseveltian humor, went the job of investigating NRA. That NRA would be all wrong with Darrow was as foregone a conclusion as if Rev. Clarence True Wilson were sent out to report on the use of alcoholic beverages.

Anyway, nobody can accuse Roosevelt of not picking a natural born critic when he chose Darrow. So Darrow became the critic of Hercules.

Having been assigned to clean out the economic stables, General Hugh Johnson was diligently on the job. Darrow arrived. He saw the mud and the muck. And he then did the natural thing for Darrow. He dumped in a few extra tons of sand and gravel.

That Darrow's findings would have been as they proved to be is the surest thing we know. Had he been sent out to investigate sustenance, fresh air or the beatitudes, he would have brought in an equally adverse report.

So, to understand what the big debate is all about, we must first understand Darrow. —New York World-Telegram.

SPEED IS THE DANGER

The world's record for throwing the 16-pound shot, one of the regular events at all track and field meets, is 53 feet.

The amount of energy possessed by an average-sized automobile traveling at 60 miles an hour would be sufficient to throw that shot 52,800 feet—nearly ten miles.

To use another illustration, a car traveling at 60 has the same capacity for inflicting damage as if it were driven off a twelve-story building.

These facts, brought out in a recent report of the Travelers Insurance company, gave some idea of the potential menace of speed on the highway. During recent years the death and injury rate per accident has been rising—and the increase was especially marked in 1933. The chance of a person being seriously hurt or killed in an accident is substantially greater now than it would have been five or ten years ago in a similar accident. The reason can be expressed in one word: Speed.

Today's cars have better brakes, better steering, better lights and stronger bodies than those of the past. By all engineering standards, they are safer. What has happened is that the public has exaggerated the increased safety factors—and actually turned these improvements into dangers.

See the goods you buy. Catalog descriptions are often misleading. The best way is to trade with your home town merchant.

GOVERNMENT IS BEHIND HOME-BUILDING

The next major activity of government will be an attempt to stimulate heavy industries—which normally provide bulk of employment, were hit hardest by depression, and have been the most lethargic in recovering it. And the first step in doing that will be to unloose capital for home-building and repairing, through federal guarantees of mortgages. Mr. Roosevelt has sent a special message to congress to expedite such legislation.

Experts estimate that it is possible to unloose credit to the tune of $1,500,000,000 or more in this manner. That money would go to painters, carpenters, masons, plumbers, contractors. It would buy cement, steel, paint, lumber, roofing, electric fixtures. It would pass through a hundred great industries, creating jobs and opportunities as it went. It doesn't take much imagination to visualize the extent of its influence in pulling businesses of all kinds out of the doldrums.

Here's a thought for the wise property owner to start considering right now: If building is greatly accelerated, prices for everything involved are going to rise. They're going to leave depression levels behind and return to the normal average—that, in fact, is one of the cardinal aims at this time. Those who can afford to repair and build now have an opportunity that may never be repeated in their lifetimes.

WHAT NEXT ON WORK RELIEF?

The announcement of discontinuance of relief work for 2,200 persons in Kansas City and Jackson County carries no statement of plans for the future. But it must be hoped that some means will be found not only to provide employment for those most urgently in need, but to carry forward the projects on which the workers have been engaged. Under the greatly reduced program following the CWA, work has been confined to projects of an unquestionably meritorious sort, such as Memorial Hill and the gardens just south of Kansas City.

It would be only reasonable to expect an early announcement of plans that would permit a continuance of such projects. It is inconceivable that they would be left as they are and that the modified program of work relief would be permanently dropped. While there may be the greater emergency next winter, for which it is said relief funds now are to be conserved, it must be evident at once that the gardens project, for example, could not be neglected now. It would be extremely unfortunate, too, if Memorial Hill should be left in its present disordered state for months. Even a further modified plan, with fewer workers, would be preferable to that.

From the federal standpoint, future policies may be clarified by final congressional action on the moderate program the President has suggested for continuance of recovery operations. As for Missouri's participation in the relief work, aid should come from further and perhaps improved collections from the state sales tax.—Kansas City Star.
