CHURCHES FORMALLY UNITE

Cleveland, O.—A simple hand-clasp of two men here signalled the birth of a new denomination with more than 700,000 communicants—the reformed and exangelical church. More than 800 delegates to national meetings of the Evangelical synod of North American and the Reformed church of the United States crowded into Zion's Evangelical church to participate in the merger ceremony. All day the churchmen had participated in final meetings of the separate organizations. To each session came official notification from the other of sanction of the union voted a year ago. In the evening ministers and laymen, headed by their officers, formed two columns outside Zion's church. As the columns met, each Reformed delegate took his place beside an Evangelical representative for the march into the church. The official declaration of union was read, and Dr. Paul Press of St. Louis, president of the Evangelical synod, and Dr. H. J. Christman of Dayton, O., president of the Reformed church, clasped hands to symbolize the merger's consummation.

C. S. Thomas, Colorado Statesman is Dead

Long Prominent in Political Life of State as Governor and United States Senator.

Charles S. Thomas, 84, political leader of the state of Colorado, died at Denver on Sunday after a life time filled with all of the glamour of the old west of which he had been a part.

Thomas's life had been ebbing for weeks, and many times he had expressed his willingness to die. Once he pushed away a meal set before him by his daughter, Miss Edith Thomas, and said:

"Why should I eat? I am ready to die."

Often in Party Clashes. Though a democrat all his life, Thomas frequently clashed with leaders of his party. He termed "undemocratic" the powers given Franklin D. Roosevelt as president, and in the Wilson administration opposed United States participation in the League of Nations and in the Versailles treaty.

He had retired from active political life last year when the president called for the surrender of gold to the treasury, in connection with the national banking crisis.

Thomas acquired more gold than the law allowed, and defied the government to seize his "hoard" of $120,000. "I have qualified for the penitentiary, and am at your service," he wrote to prosecuting authorities.

Unceasing Silver Backer. His "hoard" was ignored, but later his daughter was indicted for gold hoarding, and Thomas announced he would help defend her on the ground that the order deprived citizens of their property without due process of law, and therefore was unconstitutional. This case is pending. Thomas sought unceasingly during his term in the senate—from 1913 to 1921—to have silver rehabilitated as a currency base.

Superintendent J. F. Gnuse reported that about 875 children had been cared for by the orphanage in its forty-two years. Sixty of them were cared for this year. Rev. Herman A. Hilbert of Pierce was the speaker in the morning and Rev. O. W. Wehrman of Madison in the afternoon. Rev. Waldemar Gnuse, on a furlough from his mission work in India, also spoke briefly. The Marysville choir and Beemer band furnished music. The offerings totaled $550.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur White and little daughter, of Proctor, Minnesota, are in the city visiting at the David Pickrell and Harry White homes.

Judge Quigley to Head Burke Campaign

Well Known Political Leader of Valentine, Nebraska, Will Super-vised Primary Campaign.

Judge J. C. Quigley, prominent Democratic political leader of Valentine, Nebraska, will manage the Senatorial campaign of Congressman Edward R. Burke according to announcement made Sunday by Homer Gruenther, the Congressman's Secretary.

Judge Quigley will take charge of the campaign headquarters in the Royal Hotel Monday and will devote his entire time to the campaign until Primary Day on August 14.

Meanwhile, Congressman Burke is not expected to return from Washington until Wednesday, at the earliest. In correspondence with his office Saturday, he stated that he would be delayed because of conferences he is holding with officials of the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Housing corporation.

Mr. Burke stated that he was making headway with the Commodity Credit Corporation in his efforts to get the "Settlement Day" for farmers of the corn states who have made loans with the government on their corn, extended from August 1, the date the loans are due, to November 1. If this is accomplished, Mr. Burke stated, it would keep in excess a quarter of a billion bushels of corn, now under Government seal, off the market until later this year. This, in turn, would enable the price of corn to continue its upward trend.

Mr. Burke's business with the housing corporation in Washington is limited to getting the latest details with a view of putting on a state-wide housing campaign this fall as a means of aiding and solving Nebraska's unemployment problem.

In a telephone conversation with Gruenther Saturday, Judge Quigley stated that he planned to have Congressman Burke launch an active forty-day campaign the first of July. The campaign will probably be started in the northwestern part of the state. Congressman Burke taught for several years at Chadron Academy and arrangements have been under way for sometime by his friends there to have a Burke Homecoming Day at Chadron.

"Judge Quigley is one of the most respected and widely known political leaders in the entire State," said Gruenther, "and his joining the 'Burke for Senator' ranks is an indication of the calibre of men and women who are offering their loyal support to Mr. Burke."

According to the plans, Judge Quigley will have complete charge of all phases of the campaign and besides directing its activities will make several talks at strategic points over the state.

DEMOCRATS PRINT PAPER

Washington—Senator Schall said the administration has begun the publication of a newspaper to be used "to help in the election of congressmen and senators this fall who have pledged themselves to the Roosevelt dictatorship." The senator said "the paper is called the Blue Eagle and is edited by General Johnson."

"The Roosevelt administration in its attack on the press has begun the publication of a weekly newspaper financed and mailed with the taxpayers' money," he said. "This publication, now a weekly, is to be extended into the daily field to help in the election of congressmen and senators this fall who have pledged themselves to the Roosevelt dictatorship."

"The first two issues of this publication are misleading devoted to articles praising the NRA but the entire 'double deal' program is to be endorsed as soon as the publication enters the daily field.

"With a national daily newspaper in Washington the administration is of the opinion that it can crowd out all news matter printed in the legitimate daily papers until such time as they can secure the passage of their censorship bill of the press. After this the organ is to be the official publication for the nation. It will be given the exclusive news matter from the government departments and in this way will be able to beat the daily newspapers in news matter."

All you boys go after the plum and may the best man win. We know that Martin is working hard.

Has Experience With Bug.

While P. H. Miller was sleeping peacefully a June bug, and this is June, marched into one of the ears of Mr. Miller without as much as saying if you please and when Mr. Miller objected the bug kept on going just the same. In its effort to get in and out of the way of the prodding which Uncle Peter gave it in order to get it out the tympanum or ear drum was punctured and it seemed to Mr. Miller that a whole boiler shop was in operation in his ear. Dr. Kunkel was called who after some time extracted the bug, a portion at a time, but not until the bug had done its damage. The ear is better but Mr. Miller's hearing is some impaired but is improving. He says he does not want any more excitement like that.

A large number of the citizens of Weeping Water were over to Plattsmouth on Wednesday of this week, called there as either being interested as principles, witnesses or curiosity seekers in the case of Elmer Michelsen against the City of Weeping Water, growing out of a failure of a water meter to properly register. Elmer Michelsen had enjoined the city from shutting his water off, because of a disagreement as to the amount of the water bill.

The city council of Weeping Water are doing all possible for the rushing the construction of the jail, they having the cement work done for the foundation of the jail and the water lead completed to the side and will have the jail completed as soon as they reasonable can. Two young men not having patience enough to await the completion of the jail became belligerent, and had to appear before Judge Baker who assessed a fine of $2.50 and costs as they pleaded guilty, which amounted to about $5 each upon payment of some they receiving some admonitions from the good kind judge they were allowed their liberty. One of the boys concluded he would not pay so preparations were made for taking the lad to Plattsmouth for board at the county brattle but the money was forthcoming and the trip was not made. Here Half a Century.

Our friend, Earnest Jamison, being in a reminiscent mood on Tuesday of this week in a conversation with the writer said that on the 29th day of last April he had been getting his mail in Weeping Water for fifty years and was still well pleased with the old town for it is as good a one as one could find in a week's journey. He was born and grew to manhood in Ohio and hearing of the good opportunities in the west during the early spring of 1884 he started for the golden west and stopped in Iowa near the town of Belle Plain which was a mining district for coal and here later while digging a well tapped a water vein which spouted for many weeks before it could be stopped. It was finally stopped and is under control but is liable to break forth at any time. Mr. Jamison came on west and settled near Weeping Water and has ever remained a citizen of this town. Here he was married and here were a family born and reared and then found homes
