Fair Moth

One of the most beautiful and thrilling dance attractions at the World's Fair is the "Dance of the Flame," which Muriel Page performs at the Streets of Paris. The petite dancer pirouettes about the giant candlestick until her wings catch afire in a sudden burst of flame. The danger involved in the dance is evidenced by the fact that her clothing is controlled by mechanism which causes it to drop to the floor when she pulls a ring that is attached to her waist. Frequently the heat from the flames makes that way of escape necessary.
