

Nothing can stop this force INSURE WITH SEARL'S-DAVIS

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

John Richardson, Jr., who was injured a short time ago by having a large piece of steel lodged in the fleshy part of his right leg, has returned from the hospital at Omaha where he was cared for. The steel lodged so deeply in the leg that it was necessary to have a minor operation to remove it and to prevent possible complications, the young man was kept at the hospital. John still bears the marks of the injury and which makes his getting around rather difficult. It is hoped in a short time that he will be restored to the full use of his leg.

ORGANIZING TEAM

The former high school stars of the local P. H. S. as well as several from other schools, are organizing a city basketball team for the season and from the array of talent should make a combination hard to beat. The larger part of the players are stars from the many fine teams that Coach Fred Rothert has built up at the local school and which comprise Sam Arn, Henry Donat, Clarence Forbes, all state guard, Robert Rummel, Roy Turner, Hershel Dew, Merlon England and "Shan" Carlson. It is expected that several other players will be lined up before the active work of the season is started. The name of the team will be decided on later.

Moratorium is Upheld in State Supreme Court

Ruling of Federal High Tribunal Held to Be Binding Upon State Courts.

For the first time the state supreme court Friday passed upon the state law suspending until March 15, 1935, the sale under foreclosure of mortgaged real estate. It held that whether the act violates the provision in the Nebraska constitution forbidding the legislature from passing any law impairing the obligations of a contract not having been presented to the district court in the case at bar, Bell vs. Niemann, it is not determinable in the supreme court on an appeal in the same case, but is left open for future consideration. This is on the theory that a constitutional question not presented to the district court may be disregarded on appeal to the supreme court.

The court held, however, that so far as the case before it is concerned, it is bound to follow the ruling of the federal supreme court in sustaining a similar law passed by the state of Minnesota on the ground that the state legislature had power to enact such legislation in an emergency.

The court says: "The supreme court of the United States is the judicial tribunal of last resort to determine whether a moratory law of a state impairing the obligations of mortgage contracts violates that part of the federal constitution providing that no state shall pass any law impairing the obligation of contracts, and its negative ruling on that question is binding on the supreme court of Nebraska."

Judge Rose wrote the opinion, which was agreed to by his colleagues. The suit was one to foreclose an $11,000 mortgage on 200 acres of land in Seward county. Before the sale was confirmed the land owners applied for a moratorium, and Judge Landis granted this. Mrs. Bell challenged that part of his ruling giving Niemann the 130 acres of growing corn at the time the ruling was made, in August, 1933, claiming that this gave Niemann the benefit of both the old law and the new. Under the old law he would have been entitled to the crop, but under the new one he must pay rent. The supreme court finds no error in Judge Landis' ruling.

Tecumseh Wins 34 to 0 Victory Over Platters

Fast, Aggressive Orangemen Swarm Through Local Defense for Repeated Scoring.

The Tecumseh high school football team, one of the best in the south-east portion of the state, were here Friday to hand the Platters a 34 to 0 defeat.

The visitors had a fast and aggressive team, plenty of weight and against which the Platters found themselves unable to successfully contend.

Starting from the kickoff the visitors in a few moments had marched down the field to within the shadows of the local goal they drove through and scored and booted the extra point.

The visitors uncorked several long passes, but their greatest gains came in off tackle plays and end runs.

The visitors scored their third touchdown in the second quarter and at the half time the score stood 21 to 0.

Hirz, Carey and Wall seemed to be the most effective of the locals against the Tecumseh team but short gains were soon wiped out on the succeeding plays.

In the third quarter Tecumseh substituted freely and in this period the Platters looked stronger and their offensive on a number of plays clicked well, but they were not in dangerous scoring distance of the orangemen's goal. The second stringers were able to tally a touchdown on the locals however.

In the final period the first stringers of Tecumseh were back in the game and hung up their fourth and final score of the game, but the pass for the extra point was not good and the game ended 34 to 0.

The Platters next Friday will go to Rockport, Missouri, to take on the high school group there and on Friday, November 23, they will play Nebraska City in the final game of the season.
