FARMERS LITTLE BENEFITED

Omaha.—A survey conducted by the bankruptcy division of the federal court here has revealed that benefits to Nebraska farmers under the Frazier-Lemke amendment to the federal bankruptcy act have been practically nil.

Since last July 1, the survey revealed, a total of 441 farmers have filed applications for debtor relief under the amendment. Of the 441 petitioners, an undetermined number have succeeded in getting hearings with their creditors before a conciliation commissioner. However, Miss Florence A. Moore, deputy clerk of the court, says, "Very, very few creditors have accepted the settlement."

With debtor settlements failing, the next step is regular bankruptcy proceedings and "many of the farmer debtors are resorting to it," she added.

Omaha and Lincoln divisions of the federal court have each received a total of 115 farmer-debtor petitions. The Chadron district has had only two in the last seven months. Last month thirty-nine petitions were filed here and forty-six at Lincoln.

CONSERVATION PLAN MAPPED

Chicago.—A self-liquidating program of conservation which would give employment to 100,000 workers was explained to representatives of five states and the federal government here by E. W. Tinker of Milwaukee, regional forester of the U. S. forestry service.

Tinker spoke at a conference called by Governors McNutt of Indiana and Horner of Illinois, to consider the development of thousands of acres of submarginal non-productive land in Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Iowa and Missouri.

The five point program includes plans for:

- Increase of the national forest area.
- Creation of game and wild life preserves.
- Reforestation of worn out, eroded and nonproductive lands which are now unproductive.
- Rehabilitation of impoverished families living on submarginal poor lands.

Doctors Know!

... and they use liquid laxatives

You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel. A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help—and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without aid. People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit. It relieves a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset.

To relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. The druggist has it.

Liquor Locked Snugly within Committee Den

Special Group Is Unable to Agree—Child Labor Amendment Is on Main Deck.

Liquor legislation again fell into a hopeless deadlock late Friday. Chairman Dugan's special house committee, after completing its second perusal of the substitute bill, meaning the Wright bill with one major and a few minor amendments, tossed in the sponge with little or no hope of reaching a decision Saturday.

The chairman tried once more to induce his colleagues to vote to send out the substitute and the Wright bill proper in order that the house may determine for itself the important state control feature, dividing line between majority and minority in committee. The majority wrote state control into its substitute.

The majority, by twist of luck, was turned into a minority with two of its members, Dr. Cummins and Emmett Dinan, absent. Word was given that the former will not return until Monday. This leaves the forces tied at five-all. If Dr. Cummins is absent Saturday, a move to send out the substitute presumably will result in a tie vote and no go. If attempt is repeated to send both measures out, unless there is at least one conversion, again a tie is the best in sight and a tie is rated in legislative circles as a loss.

House Alone in Saddle.

There is nothing to prevent the house, on its own floor, if it so desires, from making the attempt to force out the substitute, the Wright bill or the two of them. The committee majority, with all on deck, presumably consists of Havekost, Steele, Obbink, Weber, Dinan and Cummins while rumor lists on the minority or Wright bill side, Chairman Dugan, Long, Burr, Sallander and Ratcliff. This rating is unofficial and may be subject to challenge.

With the ranks of the majority crippled when the committee met late Friday, it is possible that a minority may have taken control. It did not elect to do so. The members of the minority are not sold 100 percent on the Wright bill. They do, however, prefer it to the substitute with its state control feature. This state control is made mandatory insofar as concerns wholesaling of liquor. The substitute gives option to the commission as to whether or not it shall set up a system of state distilleries.

Members of the minority in committee, majority for the time being, urged that if both bills go out, the membership may decide the question of control right off the bat. Steele, opposing the Wright bill, said that the issue was settled in committee, 6 to 4, Ratcliff absent, against reporting the administration bill and that such record should stand. Otto Weber insisted that if the Wright bill goes out, he will want his own liquor bill, not considered in committee, produced. From the existing status in committee, some members of the latter may not be averse to having the house proper take command.

If such command is not taken before a committee majority is on hand, the substitute presumably will be sent out with recommendation from the majority of six. The report will not be alone. There will be a minority report headed by Chairman Dugan recommending that the house select H. R. 448, Wright bill, in preference to the committee substitute. Wright bill with trimmings and a new number. That should inspire debate for a day.

TRUCKER IDENTIFIES GOODS

Wahoo, March 7.—Sheriff Mengel said K. W. Peterson, of Burwell, Wednesday identified a washing machine found on the farm of Thomas Novotny near Malmo as one taken from Peterson's truck last June, when it was robbed near Columbus.

Peterson identified the washing machine by its serial number, Mengel said. Peterson also said some canned milk and cigar clippings found on the farm were of the same brand as those taken in the $2,000 truck holdup.

Novotny, tenant on a farm of State Senator Joseph F. Kaspar of Prague, is free under $5,000 bond on a charge of receiving and concealing a stolen automobile. Kaspar is accused of receiving stolen property and being an accessory after the fact.

Drouth Area Dwellers May be Sent to North

Large Groups May Be Sent From Blighted Areas to New Homes in Fertile Valleys of Alaska.

Reviving pioneer days, the federal government at Washington completed plans for a simple migration from the drouth blighted northwest to Matanuska valley, under Alaska's northern lights.

Two hundred families and 400 unmarried laborers are to be transferred this spring, their travel and preliminary expenses advanced them under the relief administration's rural rehabilitation program, it was announced.

They will be selected immediately after a conference next week of state officials with Lawrence Westbrook, head of the rural rehabilitation division. Claims will be staked out on 8,000 acres of public land in the valley.

The first shipload will leave Seattle or San Francisco around May 1. The remainder will follow later in the month. Landing at Seward the settlers will be moved with their baggage to Anchorage, fifty miles from the valley, then will be sheltered under tents.

Officials said the summer would be devoted to clearing a part of the forty acre homestead tracts allotted each family, building cabins and a school, and preparing for the first crop next spring.

Some of the 400 unmarried men will operate land clearing machinery supplied by the Rural Rehabilitation corporation. Others will work at a co-operative creamery to supply Anchorage, the Willow Creek gold field, and nearby coal mine communities. Grains and peas are expected to be the chief products from the 100 day growing season. Clearing the remainder of the land, officials said, will give the settlers plenty to do in the long winter months.

Conduct of Grazing Conference Assailed

Denver Meeting Was Not Advertised Properly, Wyoming Stockman Claims.

Washington.—Action by the house public lands committee on proposed amendments to the Taylor grazing act was again delayed as the committee became involved in a prolonged discussion of the conduct of the recent national grazing conference in Denver.

Center of the storm which broke in the committee was J. Elmer Brock, a livestock man from Kaycee, Wyo., and past president of the Wyoming Stockgrowers association.

Brock threw his hat on the hat-rack, identified himself and then testified the Denver meeting which considered amendments to the Taylor act was not representative of western livestock men and the time and place of the meeting was unknown to many who were in Denver for the conference.

This assertion was denied by R. G. Poole, assistant solicitor for the interior department. Poole declared Brock's remarks constituted a "serious charge" to which he took exception.

Several members of the committee all started to speak at the same time. When Chairman Derouen (d. La.) restored order, Representative White (d. Ida.) who has repeatedly indicated his opposition to the amendments, said he believed Brock was right. Representative Robinson (d. Utah) sided with Poole.

When Brock got an opportunity to proceed he told the committee the meeting in question was held after most of the stockmen had left Denver, that it was not properly advertised and "rather unfair in the manner in which many were invited."

White said he wanted the record to show that representatives of the interior department and forestry service failed to prepare and publish a definite program for those attending the conference.

"I am not satisfied with the representation at the meeting which considered the amendments now before the committee," Brock said he saw no necessity for removing the $0 millions acres limitation on public lands which may be included in grazing districts as provided in the principal amendment under discussion. He told the committee the stockmen fear a broadening of the powers of the secretary of the interior.

HUEY DECLINES INVITATION

Washington.—Senator Long of Louisiana, Wednesday wrote H. D. Strunk, publisher of the McCook, Neb., Gazette, declining to participate in a debate with General Hugh Johnson at McCook. Strunk had proposed that Long and Johnson debate their differences in McCook at a time agreeable to both and promised to gather a crowd of 50,000 persons for the event. In declining the invitation, Long said he did not enter debates.

Missouri River Drops as Small Channel Opens

While Much Ice Remains South of Bridges, Sufficient Moves to Open Waterway.

The Missouri river at this point has fallen several feet from the height of Friday morning and relieving the condition that late Thursday and early Friday threatened to cause damage to the lowlands on both sides of the river.

The huge banks of ice still remain in the river but these have yielded in several places and a small channel opened that is carrying off the water that had been dammed back of the huge ice barrier on Thursday evening. With the opening up of the channel there was a relief brought to the dwellers in the low bottom lands who faced a serious problem if the ice had remained a few hours longer.

The ice started opening Thursday when the weather warmed to some extent and as it is porous type it is thought will not cause any great damage until the river is entirely opened up.

The contracting companies that have rigs in the river and material yards along the banks in the vicinity of the river were fearful Thursday that the rising water might cause them great property damage but this trouble is avoided for the present at least.
