Gilbert E. Stoll James Prosser

TECHNICAL PROGRESS IN MINING

It is an interesting fact that the American mining industry, during years in which prices have stayed at the bottom and supply has constantly outrun demand, has not stood still. It has made great technical progress.

This is especially true of the copper mines. By cutting costs and improving methods all along the line, copper ore of a grade that was considered worthless a few years ago, is being mined at a profit. Lodes containing as little as 8/10 of one percent of the red metal are being worked.

Mining is an example of an industry that, in good times or bad, continues to go forward.

VOTE ON COTTON DELAYED

Washington. — Passage of the amended Doxey bill to exempt three-bale cotton growers from the Bankhead control tax was blocked for an undetermined time when adjournment was forced just before the final vote.

Representative Boileau, (prog., Wis.), moved to send the bill back to committee to eliminate a provision to pay ginners a bounty of 25 cents a bale for handling cotton control. He lost on a standing vote but objected on ground a quorum was not present. Acting Majority Leader Taylor of Colorado then forestalled a roll call by moving adjournment.

"Peter Describes Christian Life."

(1 Pet. 3:8-18)
It is well for the church of today, to listen to a man like Peter; as he writes depicting the characteristics of the life of a true Christian. His life with the Lord Jesus Christ, and his experience, gives his words weight, and they should be well heeded.

The church has drifted far from the old land mark; it is high time for her to "Stop, look and listen," and see where she is going. Peter could see the drift, even in his day; therefore he found it expedient to write from practical experience, exhortations and warnings to the membership. If a man takes life serious and wants God's approbation, the "well done," he should thank God for this word by Peter, if they are followed, will make him wise unto salvation and a blessing to others.

The summation of the ripe experience of this fruitful life is given in the lesson. Peter recalls the days of Pentecost, when they were "all with one accord in one place," how God fulfilled His promise; it is then when all pull together that something is going to happen. This is the exhortation of Paul also: "Be of one mind." (2 Cor. 13:11) and "Be ye like minded." (Phil. 2:2) This "like-mindedness" has reference to the propagation of the Kingdom of God; unity of Purpose. "Compassionate" literally suffering with another. "Loving as brethren, tenderhearted, humblemindedness" are qualities, that make for a pleasant, harmonious life among Christians, it is the fruit of the spirit according to Gal. 5:13. "Not rendering evil for evil, etc." see the example of our Lord (Isa. 53). Christians should exert a wholesome, blessed influence as they pass thru life "Our conduct towards others is never to be a negative refraining from doing harm, but a positive bestowal of real blessing upon even those who have harmed us."—J. E. Hunter. The quotation from Ps. 34: 12-16, if lived up to will bring heaven down to earth.

The church went through some severe persecutions in Peter's time, it meant much to endure the taunts and jeers of the ungodly. The student of church history recalls the ten major persecutions of the first three hundred and thirty years, when they ceased, and Christianity became the state religion under Emperor Constantine, 330 A. D. It is a deplorable fact, that laxity in using the discipline on unruly members, has brought the church into disrepute.

"Suffering for righteousness sake" is not heard of any more—the church in many places is so near like the world, in dress, manner and conduct that her members cannot be distinguished from the non-church members. The designation "chosen generation, royal priesthood," "peculiar people," does not apply any more. Even Sunday school teachers will fritter away their time in card parties, parlor dances and movies, when they should be about their Master's business. What an influence can such people be, on their classes! "Sanctify in your hearts Christ, the Lord." One of the most beautiful, profound, and yet practical phrases in the entire scriptures. The meaning is: Set Christ in your hearts on the pedestal and pinnacle that belongs to Him with all reverence and submission.

"Out of the heart are the issues of life." Deep in the heart put Christ and life will be pure. Everyone that lays claim to be a child of God, should be instantly ready to give answer and a reason concerning his hope. The nature and reason of the Christian's hope. (1) What is the Christian's hope? Its object—heaven. (2) The end or effect—personal holiness. If What is the reason of this hope? (1) He has felt himself to be a lost sinner. (2) He feels that he has fled to Christ for salvation. (3) He is personally interested in the Gospel plan of Salvation, and he feels its effect on his life.

Witnessing and testifying for Christ is our greatest privilege. Testifying to the mercy and power of God, that in his compassion sought and found and saved me; and by his power keeps me. The early church was a testifying church; many sealed their testimony with their life; they were ready to die for the faith that was within them. The question "Why am I a Christian?" should be answered instantly and intelligently. Many people are won to Christ by telling others what Christ is to them and what he has done for them. "Repeat the story o'er and o'er, Of grace so full and free; I love to hear it more and more. Since grace has rescued me, And oh, what rapture will it be With all the host above To sing thy' all eternity, The wonders of His love, The half was never told."

New ideas and efforts always bring more business.

The whole purpose of the work of the world is to supply man's wants and as the population increases slowly, so man's wants, too, increase slowly. What is needed is for man's wants to increase faster and money to circulate freer so they can supply the increased wants.

Too many cities have too many factions. They should each give and take a little and hit some happy medium where they can work together towards the up-building of their city.

I read in an English newspaper the other day that a certain country is now the "sole remaining citadel of democracy." It did not name the country.

Newspaper advertising is a good builder of business.

A lot of well-greased tongues seem to be working overtime trying to explain why the American people should pay higher and still higher taxes. They forget to tell the people where they can raise the tax money.

The real growth of a city broadens with the development of business for the city business men and the surrounding country.

Dorothy Gollner, who is attending school in Lincoln, being a student at a business college, was spending last Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gollner.

John H. Ruge is having a new concrete walk placed along his residence property, which will add much to the value of the property and also furnish labor for a number of workmen.

There was joy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Meyers when the stork brought them a brand new baby boy last Saturday, with all concerned doing very nicely and happiness reigns supreme.

Herman Sudmann, formerly living here, but who has been making his home in Lincoln for a number of years, was a visitor in Avoca last Monday and was in consultation with Elmer J. Hallstrom.

The home of Louis Allguier and as well that of his son, Louis, Jr., was blessed by the arrival of a very fine baby girl which came to bless the combined homes of these people. The little lady is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Allguier, Jr., who are very pleased over its arrival. But not more than Grandfather and Grandmother, Louis Allguier, Sr.

Building Additional Room.

Hilbert Nutaman who operates the production station for the Jerpe Commission Produce company with offices in Omaha, has been making some extensive improvements in Avoca by building a large addition to the place used to conduct their business, which is speaking volumes for the business here. There has been very little done in the way of building of late as there are more vacant rooms in most of the town than can be used and this is out of the ordinary.

FIRE IS NEVER A TEA PARTY

According to news reports from New York City, firemen there recently attended a $75,000 tea party.

They responded to an early morning alarm and found flames engulfing a five-story warehouse stocked with tea. With characteristic skill, they attacked the fire, using several hose streams. As the water heated in the flames and filtered down through the packages, a fine brew of tea ran out into the gutter.

Firemen will tell you, however, that there never was a fire that could be considered a "tea party." Fires bring hard work, danger—death.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that thousands of people lose their lives in fires annually, while the property loss runs into hundreds of millions of dollars.

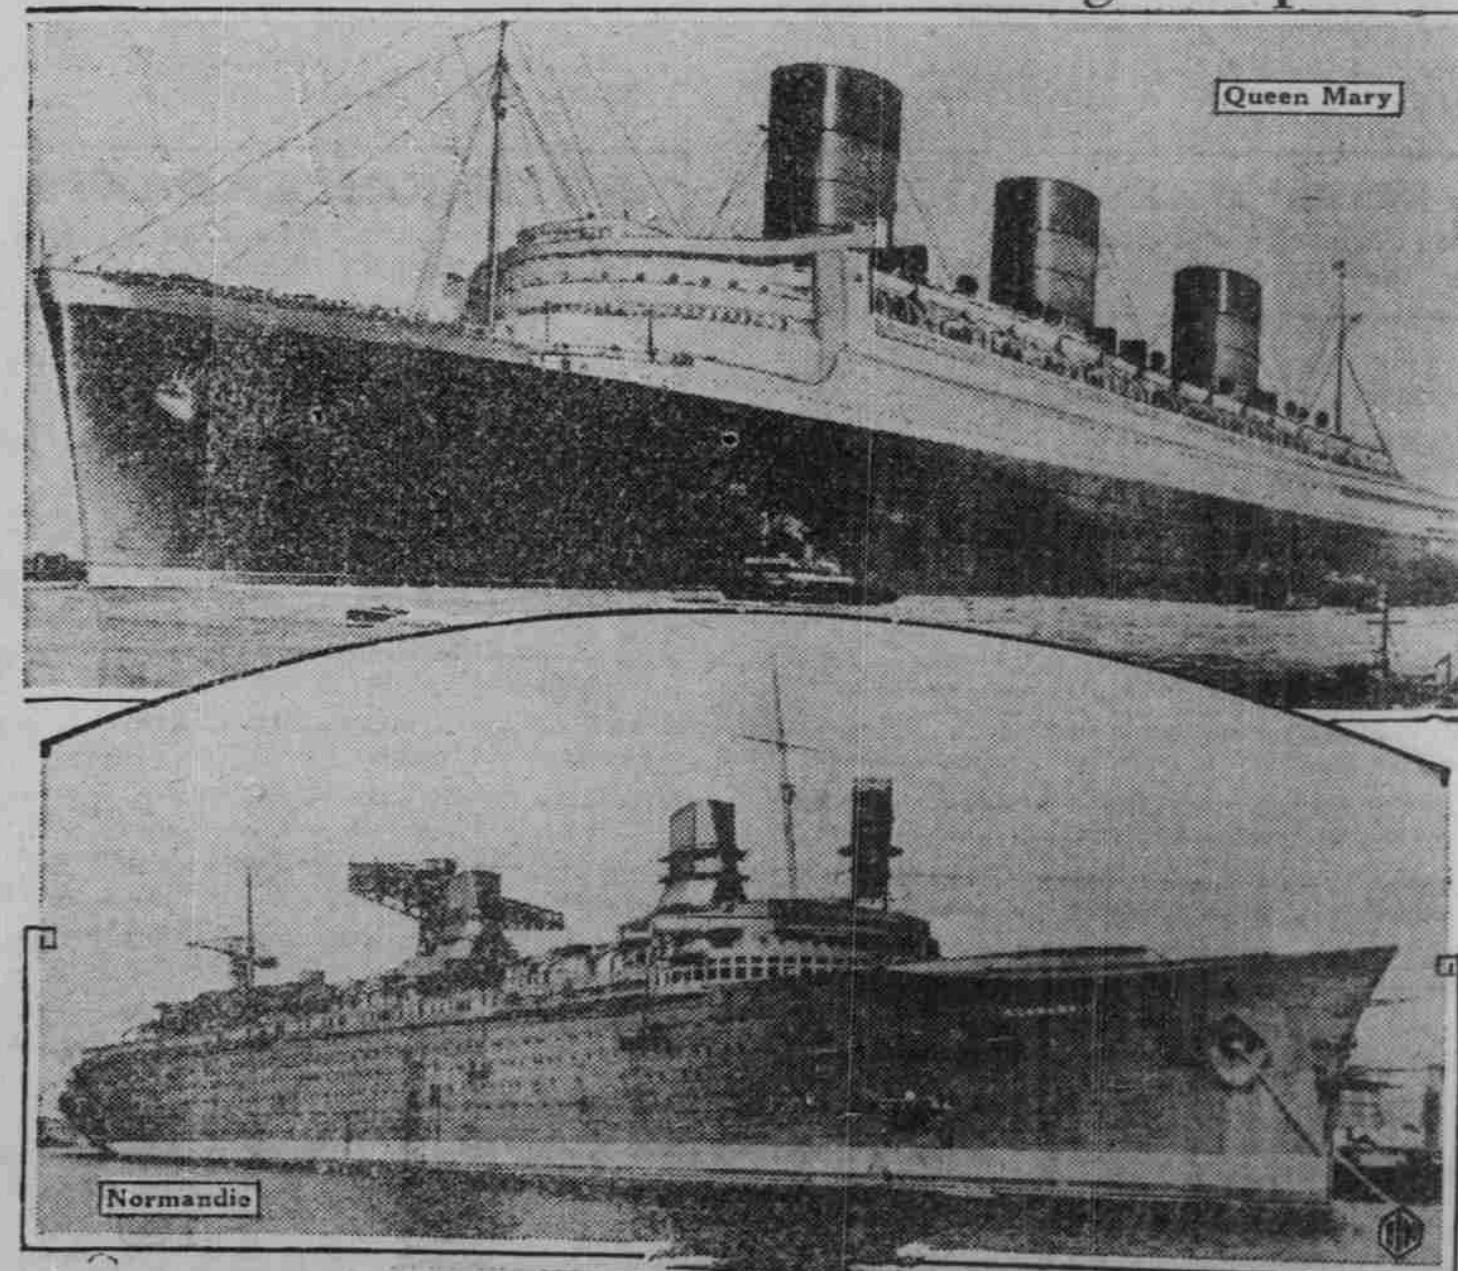

This loss directly concerns everyone—fire may strike anywhere without warning, unless proper precautions are taken. Check over your property today. Look for fire hazards in connection with the chimney, the furnace or stove, the heating pipes, hot ashes, rubbish and papers, paint or oil-soaked rags, and electric wiring and appliances. Check up on careless habits that invite fire—especially in connection with matches and smoking materials. Train children to be careful. Substitute safe habits for your old careless ones.

Remember—a fire is never a "tea party."

Two New Ocean Leviathans Nearing Completion

The "Queen Mary" and the "Normandie," pictured above are now nearing completion and will soon be ready for christening. Steerage accommodations on these new modern day boats are said to far excel those afforded first class travelers of a few years ago, as every known feature of comfort and recreation is incorporated in their make-up. An up-trend in European travel is anticipated during the coming season and the new boats will be ready to take their place on the high seas and handle their full share of the increased traffic.
