ATTEND MYNARD PLAY

For those who have had the privilege of witnessing the final rehearsals of the Mynard musical comedy, "Mirage," which was written and is being directed by Raymond Cook, the outstanding impression is that for beautiful and colorful settings for the scenes of its four acts and the quality of the music around which the play was written and leads up to, this presentation will be far superior to anything of its kind ever presented in this community.

Especially pleasing is the campfire scene in the second act wherein the characters gather around the campfire and sing the old favorites of the western range to the accompaniment of "Banjo Bill's" banjo while the moon, hanging over the distant mountain range, in all reality shedding its soft glow over the vista of cactus and plain, painting a picture that will linger in the memory of the audience. The lovers of music will be delighted with the high quality of the songs and choruses used throughout the entire presentation for they will contain, not only the songs so popular on the western range, but some of the newest creations just off the press.

One of the outstanding surprises of the entertainment will be the male quartet composed of Lawrence Leonard, first tenor; Art Hild, second tenor; Chuck Howard, baritone and Ed Howard, bass. Their rendition of "The Last Roundup" and "Marcheta" will be a real treat to lovers of harmony.

It is no idle boast that among the cast of twenty characters in the Mynard Musical Comedy, is included some of the outstanding dramatic talent in this part of the state and the director and management assures the public they will get more than their money's worth in the evening of entertainment. The play will be presented four nights, March 26, 27, 28 and 29 at the Mynard Community Hall.

Arrangements are also being consummated to present the play at several other points over the county. A few reserved seats are yet available.

AGED LADY CALLED TO LAST REWARD

Mrs. W. W. Coatman Dies at Weeping Water Where She Has Been Loved and Honored Resident

The death of Mrs. William W. Coatman, well loved pioneer of Weeping Water, occurred at the family home there Tuesday evening. Mrs. Coatman had suffered a paralytic stroke in October, 1934 from which she never fully recovered, gradually falling until death came to her relief.

Miss Isabelle Malcolm was born in Jersey City, N. J., June 12, 1861, where the family remained until the conclusion of the civil war and for a number of years following, when with the mother, she came to Illinois, where they remained for a time before coming to Nebraska when she was sixteen years of age. The father was a soldier in the civil war and was killed before the subject of our sketch was born.

Miss Malcolm was united in marriage with Wm. W. Coatman at Nebraska City on September 27, 1878. They came to southwest of Weeping Water to live on a farm where they resided for a number of years and some twenty-five years ago moved to Weeping Water to make their home.

Mrs. Coatman united as a girl with the Presbyterian church, while in Illinois and after coming to Nebraska joined the United Brethren church as there was no Presbyterian church where they reside, and later on coming to Weeping Water to reside joined the Methodist church, of which she had been a devoted and consistent member.

To this union was born five children, three girls and two boys, they being W. W. Coatman of Elmwood; Mrs. M. L. Gollaber of Grand Island; Elsie who did when five years of age; R. M. Coatman of Alvo and Miss Gladys Coatman, an instructor in the schools at Ithaca, New York.

She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Hall of Santa Ana, Calif., and a brother, Robert Malcolm, aged 85 years, of Imperial.

She was stricken with a paralytic stroke October 13, 1934, and had been kept to her bed since that time, gradually failing in health until death came to her relief Tuesday evening, March 19, at 5 o'clock.

During her illness she suffered intensely but always with patience and love, having more concern for the members of her family and her friends than for herself.

The funeral was held Thursday from the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. E. S. Pangborn, with interment at Oakwood cemetery. The Hobson funeral home had charge.
