Farm Bureau Chief Scorns AAA Enemies

Assails Policies of 'Fat and Corrupt' Middle Men in Fiery Speech at Kearney, Neb.

Kearney, Neb.—Assailing organized opposition to the agricultural adjustment administration program and characterizing that opposition generally as the "middlemen," Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, addressed an overflow audience here Tuesday.

"My story," he began, "is a story of vicious greed on the part of certain fat, corpulent middlemen interests. It's a story of deliberate attempts by these interests to keep farmers and consumers poverty-stricken. It's a story of attempts to take away from agriculture the partial gains enjoyed the past two years.

In the Dark.

It's a story of a deliberate plot in the dark, that mysterious spot between production and consumption of farm products. It's a story of a deliberate plot to put economic dynamite under our plan for national recovery, and, by blowing up the great progress made during the past two years, throw us back into the depression of 1932.

"American agriculture is at the crossroads. The adjustment act is the magna carta of a new American civilization."

Lands Industry.

He deplored lack of farm organization, similar to that of industry. He warned that unless farmers stood behind some such program as the AAA it would be only a matter of time before they are reduced to peasantry.

"The middlemen interests, blind to their own welfare," he continued, "unconcerned with the welfare of producers and consumers, only interested in their own greed, who do everything within their power to improve economic conditions—these self-privileged interests are digging their own chuck holes."

Cass county is one of the finest agricultural centers in the state. Improved farming conditions and better prices for farm products will react to the advantage of every town in this territory.
