NEBRASKA'S RELIEF SHARE BELOW AVERAGE

Washington, June 4.—Nebraska's expected contribution to match federal relief funds apparently will be well towards the lowest third from a per capita cost standpoint.

The Nebraska legislature provided for an estimated two million dollars a year from an extra cent a gallon tax to supplement federal relief funds and counties in the state are expected to provide another two million dollars or about $2.90 per capita.

Estimates by the FERA of what is anticipated from each state indicated Nebraska would be twenty-third in size of total contributions and thirty-first from the per capita cost standpoint.

In Iowa the per capita cost was expected to exceed $3, along with South Dakota, Kansas and Wyoming.

BLAIR RIVER PROJECT VIRTUALLY COMPLETED

Blair, Neb., June 2.—Work on the Missouri river project east of Blair, under way several months, is virtually completed, officials of the Lytle Construction company of Sioux City said Saturday. Only a few minor details remain.

Dikes have been constructed on the Iowa side to throw the current against the Nebraska bank, where extensive rock packing has been laid. Thus a deep channel that engineers say will be permanent has been provided along the west bank of the river.

The outdoor swimming pool and tennis court will appeal to everyone, while the large camp site provides a wonderful playground, ideal for hiking and for camp fires. Start planning now to attend 4-H Club Camp at Camp Brewster, July 21 to 24, four red-letter days for your summer's vacation.

Bee Demonstration June 17.

Monday, June 17th at 2 p. m. another bee demonstration will be held at the home of F. L. Bailey in Weeping Water, and beekeepers from all over the county will attend.

This is the second of a series of bee demonstrations being conducted by O. S. Bare, entomologist from the College of Agriculture. At the first demonstration April 30th, Mr. Bare opened the hives to examine the brood to see that they had stores for raising young bees, to see that the queen was there and laying well and to discuss problems of spring management. At the June 17th meeting, Mr. Bare will discuss summer management, swarm control, disease identification and control, methods of supering for comb and extracted honey and any other summer management problems which the beekeepers have.

Anyone interested in beekeeping will find this an interesting demonstration. Remember the date—Monday, June 17th at 2 p. m.

Mothers Vacation Camp.

Farmers Sign 1935 Contracts.

Eleven hundred and sixty-five 1935 corn-hog contracts are now in the hands of precinct committeemen for final signatures of producers and landlords. These are the Group One contracts which constitute those that are identical with last year's contract.

Meetings are being held in each precinct beginning Wednesday, June 5th from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Farmers that are unable to get to the signing place can see their committeemen before Saturday evening, June 8th and get their contracts signed. After that time the contracts will be in the Farm Bureau office at Weeping Water.

There are several hundred other contracts that belong to the Group Two and Three classes that are not ready for the affixing of final signatures as yet. The contracts are those of new signers, new producers, those with changes in land tenure, etc. These are expected to be ready in the very near future.

4-H Judging Day June 15th.

For the benefit of those wishing to compete later in judging try-outs, a preliminary judging day has been arranged for all 4-H club members in this district who are interested for Saturday, June 15th at the College of Agriculture. With sixty-three 4-H clubs organized in the county, with an enrollment approximating 500, the time and attention of members and leaders is being taken up with the various activities incident to meeting club requirements.

One of the requirements of a standard 4-H club is to do practice judging work. Many members find judging work within the club so interesting that they desire to enter competition with other 4-H club members at state and county fairs. For the benefit of those wishing to compete later, classes will be available in animal husbandry, dairy, crops, poultry, baked goods, clothing, canning and girls room projects. A day of judging practice at the College of Agriculture is invaluable to the club members as this work helps to cinch many points brought out in the regular club lessons that would otherwise be forgotten. We strongly urge all 4-H members who can, to attend judging day at Lincoln, Saturday, June 15th.

Corn-Hog Contract Compliance Stars Early in June.

The compliance check-up for the 1935 corn-hog contract will begin in the county in about a week. The work will be completed so that farmers that might have too much corn planted will have time to plant something else in the land before much work is put in on the corn.

O'Connell Contrasts Late Dust Storms, Floods

Valley Which Recently Was Being Blown Away Now Swept by Flood Waters.

Frank B. O'Connell, secretary of the Nebraska game commission, relates his impressions of the flooded valley near Red Cloud, on the Republican river, as follows:

"Six weeks ago I stood on a hill here in this fertile valley and watched a blinding storm sweep across it, tearing away its powdered soil. I am standing on the same hill today watching a wall of water sweep down it, tearing everything in its path. I arrived at Red Cloud at 4 p. m. (Saturday). The river was well in its banks. At 4:10 a dull roar could be heard and ten minutes later a wall of water four to twenty feet deep and from two to three miles wide appeared. In thirty minutes fields, pastures, highways, railroad tracks—everything—was covered with black, surging, snelly water.

"What happened here this afternoon has happened for 300 miles down this fine farming valley. Towns, farm homes, roads, machinery, everything in its way, is being inundated and swept away. The damage will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"One cannot believe without seeing how fast this flood is descending upon the helpless farmers. Even with warnings many barely have time to get their families and livestock to higher grounds. It must have been a tragedy, indeed, all night in darkness.

"The maddened waters are filled with debris of every nature—woods, trees, barrels, boxes, dead livestock and poultry, buildings, farm machinery, broken bridges, barbed wire tangles. Before it are fleeing people, birds, dogs, rabbits and rodents.

"I have seen a number of floods in Nebraska, but none with the immensity of this one. Nebraska people must realize that this is a disaster of major importance and must give aid and succor to those unfortunate citizens who were in its way."

"See it before you buy it."
