Mynard Club Has Very Fine Yearly Program

Many Activities Have Been Sponsored by Live Wire Group of East Cass County People.

The Mynard Community Club, after closing its very successful play, "Mirage," has entered upon its regular program of monthly meetings and seasonal activities. The April program was in charge of the West Side committee and consisted of vocal and instrumental music and a short playlet depicting what happens around a home when mother takes a vacation. The movies of last summer's Mynard Club picnic and other interesting events were shown by Emil Weyrich. A secret ballot was taken at this meeting to determine the club's selection of a May Queen.

The result of the ballot was made known at the May meeting and Alice Wiles was formally crowned and escorted to her throne by the maids-of-honor. This beautiful and ornate floral setting was the background for a May-day musical pageant which was participated in by some forty young ladies and children of the community. The pageant was presented by the East Side program committee.

President Raymond Cook announced that a plea had been made to aid the flood victims in the Republican valley. The club gave $17.60 to aid the sufferers of this catastrophe.

Another of the club's major activities was a Father-Son banquet which was arranged and prepared by the ladies of the Mynard church. This was one of the most enjoyable and memorial occasions to take place in the community in many years. Some ninety fathers and sons were present to enjoy the program and excellent dinner prepared by the ladies. The toast list was presided over by Raymond Cook as toastmaster who called on C. L. Wiles to speak on the subject, "Our Sons." Richard Spangler responded for the sons in a toast to "Our Dads." A. W. Leonard and son Lawrence, sang a duet. S. W. Cole and sons, Willis and Richard, rendered a trumpet, trombone, and violin trio. Rev. H. A. McKeivey spoke to the sons on "Earnest Advice." The male quartette from the recent show sang four numbers. This quartette is composed of Ed and Chuck Howard, Art Hill and Lawrence Leonard. Dr. H. G. McClusky was the principal speaker of the evening and delighted his audience with a fine and scholarly discourse on "The Duties of the Father to the Son." All present were enthusiastic over the fine meeting and unanimous in voting a continuation of this yearly banquet.

PROWLERS IN ALLEYS

The night police report that they have considerable difficulty of late at night in parties prowling around the alleys in the business section, the habit being both on the north and south sides of Main street.

This is not only an annoying practice for the police but an extremely dangerous one for the persons who choose to roam the alleyways after the late hours of the night. The police are protecting the property of the city and to see someone prowling along the rear of the business places is enough to warrant them taking a shot at the prowlers.

Those who have been doing this among the local citizenry should take heed or they may be in more serious trouble as the result of the midnight prowling.

City Planning Committee for Future Projects

Chamber of Commerce Starts Project for Organized City Beautification Plans at Meeting.

The Chamber of Commerce at their meeting Wednesday, the last of the summer season, took up a matter of the greatest importance to the city and its future development, that of a city planning committee that would advance many ideas for civic improvement.

This was the formation of a city planning committee, members of which are to be from leading organizations active in the community affairs and who can have voice in the planning of the various projects.

This committee would take up various community activities such as the landscaping of the streets and avenues of the city, the support and expansion of the garden club in its fine work, establishing of community institutions such as that of a city museum and other well worthwhile movements that will tend to the making of a more attractive city.

This plan has been tried very successfully in many of the Nebraska cities and has produced splendid results not only in cities like Lincoln but in many more of the smaller communities.

The Chamber of Commerce selected as their member, Dr. P. T. Heineman, and they will contact other organizations to form a general committee to prepare plans for a city beautification program for the future.

The matter of a road north of this city that would permit access to the Platte and Missouri river where the quarterboat of the Kansas City Bridge Co. might anchor and be reached with greater ease by the employees was also brought up. The matter was placed in the hands of the executive committee with power to carry on what negotiations might be necessary.
