Bishop Ernest V. Shayler Pays Visit to City

Large Congregation Present at the St. Luke's Church to Enjoy Patronal Festival.

A church almost filled with members and friends of St. Luke's parish greeted Bishop E. V. Shayler of the Diocese of Nebraska Sunday morning for the Patronal Festival of the church. The Holy Communion was administered and the bishop preached on St. Luke "The Beloved Physician." In his sermon he paid a warm tribute to the "country doctor," the friend and guide of the family, and the loved confidant of all. The ideal of Christian living was in social service and to that neighborliness he urged greater consecration. He pointed out that there was no narrow confining spirit about the teaching and work of Jesus Christ, but that He said "God so loved the world that He gave."

To the unrest and conflict among the nations of the world the bishop set up Christian fellowship in the following of a common Master as the only unifying force. The sermon was illuminated by sparkling illustrations and reminiscences.

This service will long be remembered, and fittingly commemorated the life of a great evangelist. The choir led the singing of various suitable hymns including the great anthem of praise by the late Bishop Walsham How, "For All the Saints Who From Their Labors Rest."

The teams competed in the judging of horses, cattle, hogs, and sheep. Nebraska was first in judging of horses; tied for first with Oklahoma in cattle; was eighth in hogs, and tied for ninth place with North Dakota in sheep.

HUNTERS OUT BY HUNDREDS

The population of Plattsmouth was reduced several hundred Sunday when the opening of the pheasant season drew out the hunters en masse to try their luck in the first day's hunting. In several cases ladies were also members of the hunting parties to try and bag the elusive pheasant.

The larger part of the local people who were out for the one day shooting, visited nearest counties where the season was open and a number secured their quota of the birds while others were less lucky.

The rain that swept this section Sunday afternoon caused many to give up the hunt and start for home as the rain rendered the side roads hard to travel and with the hundreds of cars that were in the hunting territory made travel a matter of the greatest difficulty.

Patrol Contest to Increase Interest in Scouting

New Plan Provides Merits on Point System for Doing the Things that Scouting Teaches.

From Tuesday's Daily: Boy Scout activity in Plattsmouth was given a new impetus at last night's meeting held at the high school gym, when it was decided to inaugurate a patrol contest that will run till around the first of March. A point system of merits will be worked out, including 100 points to each patrol that holds a fully attended patrol meeting on the alternate Monday nights while general Scout meetings are being dispensed with due to inability of Scoutmaster Larson to be in town those nights, which are second and fourth Mondays. Regular Scout meetings are held at the high school gym, while the patrol meetings are held at the homes of members of the patrol.

Other tentative points set up for the contest, include 50 points to individual boys for attendance at Sunday school or church service (maximum of 100 points in a week), individual points for listed good turns daily, as well as points to members who keep their dues of 5 cents each month of the school year paid on time. Other methods of earning points will be worked out and announced at the next Scout meeting, November 4.

The boys are all very enthusiastic over the contest, which will result in an increased number of merit awards and general advancement as points are provided for these. At the close of the contest, a suitable prize or trophy will be awarded the winning patrol.

The patrols and their leaders are: Black Panther, Bill Rosenclans; Flying Eagle, Jim Webb; Flaming Arrow, Gavin Farmer, and Lone Wolf, Billy Evers.

Plan Big Halloween Party

A Halloween party at the cabin on Thursday evening, October 31, with every member present, is being planned. A similar party last year proved a great success. Transportation will be provided for all the boys, who are to meet at Wescott's store around 7 o'clock. Further information will be given the members at the patrol meetings next Monday night.

Rules for Cabin Outlined

Definite assignment for 24-hour week ends at the cabin were also announced, as follows: Flying Eagles, first Friday of month; Flaming Arrows, second Friday; Lone Wolves, third Friday, and Black Panthers, fourth Fridays. An adult (21 years or over) must accompany each patrol to camp and remain in charge over night. If a patrol is unable to get an adult to accompany them over Friday night, they may go Saturday and remain over Saturday night (with an adult in charge) but must come to town Sunday forenoon in time to attend religious services or Sunday school, since that is one of the cardinal principles of good Scouting. Only members of the patrol assigned may attend any over-night camp and Scouts will not be permitted to go to the cabin at other than the assigned week-end periods. The old rule that requires hiking one way is continued in effect.

LONE WOLVES—John Clويد, Billy Evers, Richard Hill, Roland Landis, George Mark, Burton Rishel.

In addition to these, Stephen Davis, rating as junior assistant Scoutmaster, and John Rishel, as senior patrol leader, are active members of the troop and may attend any and all camp periods.

A number of boys who have recently passed their twelfth birthday are to be added to the troop at an investiture ceremony in the near future. Other boys who have or are about to become of Scouting age and desire to join, should see Scoutmaster Raymond Larson, who will instruct them as to the requirements of membership.
