WPA Receives New Money to Rush Projects

Agency Gets $416,650; FERA Administrator Witte Heads East to Ask for $1,378,001.

Money came rolling into the treasury offices of WPA Wednesday morning as well as approval of more than $416,650 in projects on which work will be started immediately, says Administrator Felton. Accompanying this announcement was the word that by Nov. 15, between 8,500 and 10,000 will be at work on WPA jobs. The national re-employment offices furnished the agency with news of 15 thousand having been certified as eligible to work up to the present time.

Meanwhile, State FERA Administrator Witte, who announced Tuesday he would ask Washington for about $900,000 to help on the dole for another month, left behind him Wednesday information that he would attempt to get $1,278,001 for the needs of the November interim. Since this only includes general and transient relief, other agencies having been shorn of the FERA setup, it comes within a short way of being one of the largest grants ever sought.

Spurred into action by money from Washington, which had not been tabulated accurately Wednesday, Administrator Felton advised his office that it was on a "twenty-four hour" basis from now on and would be until the work was well under way and enough projects started to take care of the load of unemployed.

"This FERA certification statements are inaccurate," one WPA official said Wednesday, "in that they purport to show the true employment situation as regards relief, but it's a report by case, not by employable person, taking in all the crippled, aged and decrepit, while WPA and the job agencies can only hope to care for those able to work. The other care is up to the counties. FERA should make itself more clear. Our figures on certification come from re-employment agencies and are about employable persons."

By districts the WPA allotments are as follows:
No. 1, Norfolk, 21 projects, hire 540 persons, $188,537.
No. 2, Omaha, 6 projects, hire 254 persons, $85,300.
No. 3, Lincoln, 7 projects, 233 hired, $66,756.
No. 4, Grand Island, 4 projects, 108 persons, $13,158.
No. 5, Alliance, 10 projects, 108 persons, $51,191.
No. 6, North Platte, 4 projects, 40 persons, $9,355.

DOCTORS KNOW

Mothers read this:

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch?

The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use a liquid laxative.

If you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.

Red Cross Holds Home Inspection Through Schools

More Than One-third of Fatal Accidents Are Sustained in and About the Home.

The American National Red Cross is having an annual Home Inspection Campaign. This is carried on thru the schools.

More than one-third of all fatal accidents and nearly one-half of all accidental injuries are sustained in and about the home. Last year there were 34,500 lives lost in our homes; approximately 150,000 people maimed for life; injuries were sustained by nearly 5,000,000 persons. Thus, we find that injuries in the home now take an unwarranted annual toll in life, suffering and economic loss.

The purpose of the Home Inspection Campaign is to give the individual homes an opportunity to check on the hazards or the bad habits that may cause accidents, and to suggest ways of eliminating the hazards and correcting the bad habits. This purpose will be accomplished by having the school children take into their homes during the week of October 28-November 2 a home inspection blank.

The parent is to accompany the child in an inspection of the home based on the items indicated on the blank and is to take the action he chooses on the conditions found.

The returns will be tabulated and publicity given on the results. May there be co-operation of child, parent and school.

Sales Tax May Once More Haunt the Legislature

Uncertainty as to Whether Governor's Call Bars the Discussion of a New Tax.

Attorney General William H. Wright said Wednesday night at Lincoln Governor R. L. Cochran's call for the special legislative session which convenes Monday does not exclude introduction and enactment of new forms of taxation, including sales taxes.

Governor R. L. Cochran, who is opposed to new forms of taxation, drew the call with the intention of excluding possibility of any taxes save per capita, liquor and gasoline levies to finance the social security program.

"I find a number of cases squarely in point," Wright said after a study of the statutes and cases. "The general rule seems to be that the governor may limit the legislature as to subjects, but may not specify the matter which goes into bills on those subjects."

No Curb on Details.
The attorney general said the constitutional provision restricting the legislature to action on subjects contained in the call had been construed to mean only the broad, general matters and not specific details within the subjects.

Announcement Wednesday by State Senator Archie C. O'Brien (dem.) of Grand Island that he planned to introduce a sales tax bill in the special legislative session raised the question in statehouse circles.

Wright said, however, that he felt a social security program financed through any other means than mentioned in the governor's call might be a serious jeopardy in the courts.

No Concerted Plan.
W. B. Banning, present director of the state department of agriculture and president of the Nebraska sales tax association, said the organization did not contemplate any introduction of a sales tax in the special session. Representative George E. Nickles (dem.) of Murray said he had not thought about a sales tax for pensions but was interested in it primarily as a replacement of the property tax.

HOLDING ACT CHALLENGED

Wilmington, Del.—Trustees for Central West Public Service corporation, now seeking reorganization under section 77B of the national bankruptcy act, challenged the constitutionality of the federal public utility holding company act in a petition filed in U. S. district court.

The petition was filed by Arthur B. Darling, of Sioux City, Ia., and E. E. Berl, Wilmington. Judge John P. Nields is asked in the bill to pass on constitutionality of the act, and, if he finds it unconstitutional, to issue an injunction prohibiting the corporation from registering with the securities and exchange commission as required by the legislation.

BEAT A CHILD TO DEATH

Bridgeport, Conn.—Mrs. Ada Milledred Schueler of Stamford, charged with beating her 9 year old stepdaughter, Marilyn, to death, was convicted by a jury in superior court of second degree murder. Judge John Rufus Booth sentenced her to life imprisonment in the Connecticut state farm for women. The state charged that the 25 year old woman beat Marilyn so severely on Sept. 6 that she died after a doctor who had been summoned arrived at the home. After the arrest, Prosecutor Gaynor Brennan of Hartford said Mrs. Schueler, a former student nurse, confessed she beat the child because she didn't eat her lunch fast enough.

Utah's Salt Lake Drying Up

Utah's Great Salt Lake, the largest inland salt lake in the world, is drying up. Shrinking to its lowest level, even lower than it was in 1850 when an army engineer surveyed it, the phenomenon is causing considerable conjecture among scientists. According to one of the most noted students of the Great Salt Lake, Professor Thomas C. Adams of Utah university, "the recent changes in level reflect in a large measure simply the excesses and deficiencies of rainfall in the drainage basin, and in a smaller measure the encroachment of irrigation upon the water supply." The widely-known salt flats were named after an explorer, Capt. Benjamin L. E. Bonneville, in 1821, and today are used by automobile drivers in attempts to set new speed marks.
