RECEIVES PLEASANT NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schiessl and great grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Schiessl, have received the announcement of a fine five and a quarter pound little girl born to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bains, Conroe, Texas, January 6th.

Mrs. Bains was formerly Miss Wilma Schiessl of this city. The event has brought great happiness to the parents and little brother, Leslie Gene and all of the home folks.

Case county has no bonded indebtedness, as, like the state, it has paid cash for its gravel roads and other improvements. That's a mighty good policy to pursue.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

R. P. Allen, evangelist, will begin a revival meeting at the First Christian church on Sunday, January 26th. There will be two weeks preparatory work beginning Sunday, January 12, consisting of visitation among the members and friends of the church. Advertising in every way possible will be done during these two weeks.

Now we are making a special appeal to all members and friends to be present next

R. P. ALLEN,
Evangelist

Sunday for Bible school and church, both morning and evening. Definite plans are being made so that the church will be assured of regular preaching services from now on, both morning and evening every Sunday.

This revival meeting will run indefinitely, an educational type of evangelism that is constructive and lasting. Now is the time to begin making your plans to attend every service possible. There will be a half hour of good gospel singing and special music every night during the revival meetings.

PIONEER WOMAN DIES

Broken Bow, Neb.—Funeral services were held here Thursday afternoon for Mrs. G. H. Tuttle, 79, Broken Bow pioneer, who died Tuesday. She leaves four daughters and one son.

Missionary Society Has a Fine Meeting

Fine Program Afforded the Members of the W. F. M. S. of First Methodist Church.

The Methodist Foreign Missionary meeting for January was held on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. C. C. Westcott as hostess at her home. Devotionals were led by Mrs. Wright who is following the booklet, "The Word," which is especially written to be used with this year's study. Miss Virginia James sang very pleasantly the song, "My Mother's Bible," as a part of this devotional.

The regular business covered renewal of subscriptions to the society magazine, attention to reading course requirements, especially the stewardship material, collecting the Christmas offering, and plans for the Thank offering. Now is the time to cover the projects on the standard of achievements. The symbol portraying "Christ of the Andes," with light of truth and the open Bible was again received. Miss James also gave a report of the meeting called to organize the King's Heralds in which some thirty boys and girls expressed desire to join. Her plans for the first meeting, January 18, at the church, were very interesting and the mother society is happy to have secured such an interested leader.

The regular study of the text "Women Under the Southern Cross," was on education and closing time came before all the interesting developments of this foreign project could be covered, but there will be opportunity to review these in lessons that follow. Members find each republic of South America has developed independently of others and there are yet lands and tribes not visited by civilized man.

At five o'clock the hostess very happily surprised the guests by serving a hot luncheon at a beautifully arranged table and which was greatly enjoyed and added to the usual social half hour with which all meetings are closed.

BIRTH RATE RECORD

Washington.—The American birth rate broke a thirty year downward trend in 1934 by increasing 3 percent over 1933. Surgeon General Cummings of the U. S. public health service said in his annual report to congress. There were approximately 94,000 more babies born in 1934 than in the previous year, the report showed. The infant death rate was 59.9 per 1,000 lower than any year prior to 1932.

BROKEN BOW TEACHER

Broken Bow, Neb.—Kenneth Waterman of Lodgepole has been secured by the board of education as instructor of English and dramatics in the high school. He is a graduate of Kearney Normal and has been teaching in Lodgepole. Mr. Waterman fills the vacancy created by resignation of Miss Lucille Harris of Lincoln, who gave up the position early in December due to ill health.

H. J. PAUL MAJOR GENERAL

Washington.—President Roosevelt sent to the senate the nomination of Maj. Gen. Herbert Jay Paul, Nebraska, to be a major general in the national guard.

Falls City Milling Co., $16,495.
Lexington Mill & Elevator Co., $31,942.
Lea Milling Co., Fairbury, $5,379.

No decision has been made as to disposal of the money, which represents processing taxes under the AAA back to April of 1935.

URGE FEDERAL REGULATION

Washington.—A broad joint federal and state program to regulate the $2,500,000,000 natural gas and pipe line industry was recommended to congress by the federal trade commission.

Urging considerable care so federal power should not invade the states' prerogatives, the commission set forth a plan to conserve gas, control "monopolistic" activities, and to separate the natural gas from the electric utility industry. The report concluded the investigation of utility holding companies started more than seven years ago under congressional order. The first part, dealing with electric utilities, was presented at the last session, and was part of the basis for the holding company regulation act.

Utility Company Receives Citation on Safety First

Plattsmouth District of Iowa-Nebr. Light & Power Co., Has Clean Slate on Accidents.

Fred I. Rea, manager of the Plattsmouth district of the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power company, has received a citation of merit for the district from the head offices of the company as well as a letter of congratulation from L. R. King, on their safety record.

The Plattsmouth district was presented the citation of having no accidents for the year 1935 that kept the employees from active work, in fact the record showing that for 1,000 working days there were no accidents of this nature.

Robot Mans Lighthouses

Mechanization of Navigation Service May Conclude Heroic Chapter of Maritime Branch

Moose Peak light off Maine coast

Lightship Ambrose

Famous Barnegat beacon

By ALLEN REAGAN

International Illustrated News
Feature Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Robots are gradually replacing men in the operation of lighthouses and lightships of the United States navigation service.

This modern age of mechanization has invaded this branch of the federal service and threatens to write final to the dramatic chapter of those heroes whose bravery and watchful vigils have saved many lives.

It is significant that the number of lighthouse keepers has decreased by 134 since 1931, a period during which the number of lighthouses increased by approximately 250.

Successful experiments have been conducted in operation of both lightships and lightships by remote control. One type is operated by radio beacon. Another style of light is automatically lighted by electric eye when daylight diminishes to a certain point.

Manned by Remote Control

It has also been discovered practical to operate foghorns by remote control. A device which throws a switch when the moisture in the atmosphere reaches a certain density has been found as reliable as the human hand at the controls. The success with which these devices have been demonstrated has encouraged the government lighthouse service to launch plans for additional equipment since automatic control is both cheaper and less hazardous to human life.

The complexity and many new angles to this branch of the government service has increased greatly in recent years. Technical knowledge of submarine signal and radio beacon equipment has been a necessary part of training since the service was broadened and put on a scientific basis.

In congested areas, particularly near metropolitan centers such as New York, it has been found necessary to establish signals of different nature. Green lights have been tried because of the need of avoiding confusion with the common red lights of the city zone. Horns, sirens and whistles of various tones, each signifying a certain danger, mark the channels and must be interpreted by the mariner in charting his course.

Many Lights Abandoned

An infinite number of duties are performed by the lighthouse service which operates on all continental and inland shores. There are more than 50 tenders used to keep the lights in repair and carry supplies to the lighthouse keepers. On shoals where it is impossible to erect a light, lightships are anchored to warn ships of the dangerous reefs. An example of the protection afforded by the lightship is at Barnegat point on the New Jersey coast where the famous old light has been supplanted by a lightship.

Many of the historic old lights have been abandoned in recent years or have given way to new structures built on the latest approved design. In some cases, the promontories have been converted into parks, others have been sold to private owners who have converted the "sentinels of the sea" into pleasure havens.
