Ladies Enjoy Fine Gathering
Mrs. Lawrence Meisinger, who is president of Cass County Federated Women's clubs, entertained the officers of the different clubs over the county at her home two miles south of Union last Monday afternoon. Included among the large group present were both the retiring 1935 officers and the new 1936 officers who have so far been chosen by their respective clubs. A very pleasant time was had, with a most interesting program and a very delicious luncheon.

Sells Fine Riding Horse
Ray Becker, who is a fancier of fine horses and especially of riding horses, some time since acquired one of the latter type, which he has given special training and which attracted the attention of John W. Gamble, of Omaha, who came down last Friday and made a deal for the purchase of the animal. Mr. Becker took the horse to its new owner in Omaha on Tuesday. The horse, which was a good one and well trained and a very fine looking animal commanded a very fair price.

Arrival of Granddaughter
We ran onto C. F. Harris Monday and could not help but observe the smile of satisfaction on his face and the lightness of his tread as he came down the street. Inquiry revealed the cause of this unusual happiness as due to a visit from the stork, which had brought to his son, Vance Harris and wife a very fine seven pound baby girl, and with her much joy for all the members of the family.

Returned to Cass County
Carl Cross and family, who have been making their home at Seibert, Colorado, have moved back to Union to reside and are located on the farm of his mother a few miles north of town. He was in town Monday getting some material at the lumber yard with which to make repairs at the farm.

Visited at Plattsmouth
Moss McCarroll and family were in Plattsmouth last Sunday, spending the day and enjoying a fine dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCarroll and family, where they enjoyed visiting with the mother and grandmother, Mrs. Kate McCarroll, mother of Harry and Frank, and grandmother of the kiddies, some of whom are now grown.

The Stork Brings Joy
That kindly old bird, the stork, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Busby, at Stafford, Arizona, on Wednesday, January 8th, bringing much joy to the home when they were presented with a fine baby daughter that tipped the scales at exactly seven and a half pounds.

The telegraph wires immediately started to hum as the glad tidings were conveyed to the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Upton. Roy says he received the news without ado, but the happiness of the grandmother was unbounded. Of course we did not get to hear what the grandmother might have said to say about grandpap, but we are of the opinion from the smile on his face that he was plenty well pleased over the event.

Farewell Dinner for Pastor
A very delightful "get-together" dinner sponsored by the congregation in honor of the retiring pastor, Rev. B. N. Kunkel and wife, was held at the Methodist church on last Sunday immediately after the preaching service. A bounteous basket dinner was served from tables to the goodly number in attendance who partook of it with great gusto.

While all present seemed in jovial mood, yet a tinge of sadness—the sadness of farewell—seemed to permeate the atmosphere, as they realized this would probably be the last time they would all be together in the relationship of pastor, parishioners and community friends in a social way.

After the dinner, Mrs. E. J. Mougey in a few well chosen words presented the honor guests, Rev. and Mrs. Kunkel with a dozen each of china plates, cups and saucers of attractive design, the gift of the Aid society and other friends who wanted a "finger in the pie" to show their appreciation of the more than four years of faithful service rendered the church and community by the pastor and his good wife. Knowing she would be the one to make the most use of the dishes, Mrs. Kunkel accepted the gift with a speech of appreciation, thanking the donors and assuring them of the use of the gift in their new home and extending them a hearty welcome should they be in the vicinity of Plainview, where Rev. Kunkel becomes pastor.

Special Legislative Session is Not Likely

No One Contesting Apportionment for One-House Legislature—3-Day Interim in January.

Rumors of inequalities of population, omissions of territory in the apportionment of Douglas county and possibly other defects in the apportionment for the one house legislature, have given rise to some rather wild speculation as to danger of invalidation of the law which may leave the state without any legislature. Possible necessity of another special session of the present two house legislature has been discussed.

Possibility of there being a situation wherein there will be no legislature at all is not given serious consideration by either supporters or non-supporters of the Norris one house constitutional amendment. This was adopted by a vote of the people and has been accepted as the will of the people by its most earnest opponents.

Those who supported and helped draft the one house amendment say it is in no way defective, that it dovetails in perfectly with the old constitution in that it provides that the old legislature of 133 members shall be succeeded by a single house containing not less than thirty nor more than fifty members; that it takes effect the first of next year about where the old legislative terms expire; that the Norris amendment provides specifically when new members shall be elected, in the fall of 1936, taking their seats in January, 1937, and that it authorized the regular session of the legislature in 1935 to reapportion the state after deciding on how many members the one house legislature should contain. This was done, the decision being for forty-three members.

Three Day Respite.
Any assumption that the state could be left without a legislature by a defect in the apportionment bill is said to be based on the false assumption that any act the legislature might pass could repeal the present or the new constitution calling for a one house legislature.

The only possibility of an interim in the succession of one house legislature and expiration of the old legislature is a brief period of three days next January when the state might be without a legislature, and that is giving no alarm.

This is based on the assumption that one constitutional amendment, can of course, repeal another existing constitutional provision. The Norris amendment, adopted by the people, states that it goes into effect Jan. 1, 1937. That would abolish the two house legislature on that day. Yet the Norris amendment provides specifically that members of the new legislature shall be elected for a period of two years, and for the first time it states when the two years start. It starts "beginning at noon on the first Tuesday in January of the year ensuing the general election at which they were elected."

The first Tuesday in January next year is Jan. 5, so as Jan 1 is Friday, and the old legislature ceases to exist Jan. 1, it is assumed that the state will be without a legislature for three days. During those days the old legislature could not be called into special or regular session because the Norris amendment abolishes it as of the date of Jan. 1, and the new legislature cannot be called into service because the Norris amendment says its members are elected for a term of two years beginning the first Tuesday in January, which is Jan. 5, 1937.

UNDERGOES OPERATION
Mrs. Ralph E. Gansemer, of near Murray, who has not been in the best of health for the past several weeks, was taken to Omaha Sunday where she was placed in the Clarkson hospital for an operation. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Clement, parents of Mrs. Gansemer as well as Mr. Gansemer, accompanied the patient to Omaha. STANDARD BEARERS MEET
The Standard Bearers of the First Methodist church were most delightfully entertained on Monday evening at the home of Marie Hughes, following the close of the business session the members of the party were entertained by the initiation of five new members in the class. At the close of the evening dainty and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

DIVORCES INCREASE
Clerk of the District Court C. E. Ledgway, who assists in freeing those seeking release from the bonds of matrimony, reports that for 1935 there were twenty-one decrees of divorce issued in the court, or as the general clerk states it, forty-two hearts made happy. The number in 1934 was seventeen so the last year showed a small gain in the number of decrees.

VISITS IN THE CITY
Louis H. Heil of Omaha, former resident here, was in the city Monday afternoon for a few hours attending to some matters of business and visiting with the old friends. While here Mr. Heil was a pleasant caller at the Journal to renew his subscription to the semi-weekly edition of the paper.

SOCIAL WORKERS FLOWER CLUB

After the usual business meeting a few songs and contests were given. The rest of the afternoon was spent in visiting. Mrs. Fritz Kaffenberger was a visitor present.

The hostesses served a delicious two course luncheon at the close of a most pleasant day. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sikora, Feb. 12.
